WOMEN ESCAPE PRISON

CORDOBA, Argentina (AFP) — Twenty-six women guerrillas including two leaders of the leftist People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) escaped from prison here Saturday night in a spectacular operation involving dozens of accomplices, incendiary bombs and a traffic jam.

Shortly before midnight, about 15 people drew a large police force to the centre of this city, 400 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, by putting up barricades and blocking traffic.

A heavy truck drew up to a wall of the prison, several men swiftly attached steel cables to one of the prison windows and pulled the window down with the truck.

They threw ropes up to the opening and 26 women prisoners slid down, climbed into waiting cars and sped away.

Lebanon Premier Ousted

Times News Services

BEIRUT — Moslem opposition forced Lebanon's first military premier in 32 years to resign today after only three days in power.

Gunfire and grenade explosins continued during the night, and police said most of it came from left-wing Moslem Lebanese militiamen trying to drive Rifaiout out of office.

About 100 persons have been killed in the street fighting and about 300 have been wounded, say unofficial police counts.

Meanwhile, Lebanese and Israeli artillery roared into action again today near the border village of Aita Ash-Shaab, scene of a battle Sunday in which Israeli planes raided Lebanon for the first time in almost six months.

A Lebanese military spokesman said a 100-man Israeli force entered the outskirts of the village and came under Lebanese artillery fire.

In another development, King Khaled of Saudi Arabia said Saturday his nation would concede Israel's right to exist in its pre-1967 borders in return for total Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands occupied in 1967 and the establishment of a Palestinian state between Israel and Jordan.

Khaled became the first Saudi ruler to declare explicitly that his deeply conservative nation would accept Israel's existence.

Penalize Parents Of Delinquents, Wallace Suggests

Irresponsible parents should be co-penalized with juvenile delinquents, Oak Bay Tory Scott Wallace said today.

He said the provincial government should study a penalty that clearly involves irresponsible parents when dealing with a small percentage of juvenile delinquents.

Wallace was speaking in debate on the attorney-general's $15 million departmental spending estimates.

The Conservatives, he said, feel there is a deterioration of parental responsibility and a growing number of juvenile delinquents who are picked up by police are taken to vacant homes where parents are absent in fact or responsibility.

Attorney-General Alex Macdonald responded by saying he is "very concerned" not so much about disrespect for the law but about disrespect for other people in society.

He said it was a sign of our times that people don't accept the law as it applies to them but they expect other people to respect the law.

He said the new federal juvenile offenders legislation will have to look at responsibility and accountability for parents.

He also pointed out that the jail population in B.C. is down to about 1,800 from about 2,000 when the NDP took office.

The reduction is because of a sorting out of prisoners who are dangerous and those who can be channelled into minimum security programs, he said.

Debate marked the first day of the legislature's morning sittings in committee of supply, an exercise that lasts two hours for discussion of the 213 spending estimates to be approved.

About half of the government members were in attendance and opposition benches had a slightly better showing.

Opposition Leader Bill Bennett, who spent most of last week recuperating from a spinal fracture he suffered while riding a steer in a rodeo, was back in his seat.

The first consideration was a $27.5 million vote for corrections branch financing.

RUSH TO BURN DOCUMENTS AT EMBASSY

VIENTIANE (AP) — United States embassy personnel accelerated the burning of documents today and their marine guards moved their pistols and riot-gas supplies to safer upstairs storage areas as anti-American feeling mounted in this capital of Laos.

There were no flights today in the charter airlift that has reduced the U.S. community in Laos to about 350 from close to 1,000. But more evacuees left on commercial and embassy supply flights.

'STRONGEST' QUAKE HITS

MADRID (UPI) — The world's strongest earthquake in recent years shook the Atlantic Ocean floor between the Azores and the Iberian peninsula today, sending some island resident fleeing into the streets and sparking early fears of a tidal wave.

There were no immediate reports of casualties or serious damage several hours after the 5:12 a.m. EDT quake.

Markus Baath, the director of the seismological institute in Uppsala, Sweden, said the quake reached 7.9 on the open-end Richter scale.

Unanimous Support For Liberal Leader

By LINDA HUGHES

Times Staff

An emotional, cheering crowd of party faithful gave unanimous approval to a resolution pledging Anderson full support in his role as party leader.

Anderson had demanded the vote Saturday after one federal Liberal MP called for his resignation and a group of delegates attending the two-day policy convention began quietly pushing for a leadership challenge.

In a dinner address Saturday evening Anderson said he thought approval earlier in the day of a motion rejecting any coalition with other political parties indicated the party endorsed his leadership policies. But the remarks of Vancouver-Kingsway MP Simma Holt had again raised the question of his mandate as leader, he said.

At the mention of Holt the crowded banquet room filled with boos and hissing.

The jeers turned to applause when Anderson said he welcomed a leadership challenge and the delegates jumped to their feet for a standing ovation when Anderson said he wanted to be leader as long as he had their support.

The prospect of a leadership challenge at the Liberals' September convention would make his work in the next few months almost impossible, he said, and so he called for an immediate formal vote of support.

"I'm not doing this as an attempt to force you to support me, you can vote as you wish.

"But I want to work just as hard as I can and to help you just as hard as I can, riding by riding," he said.

A long, loud standing ovation followed the leader's speech and while there were still a few unhappy faces, no dissenting voices were heard Sunday morning when the confidence motion was passed.

Eleven delegates spoke on the motion and all praised Anderson for his work during troubled times.

"I'm fed up with the constant nagging and backbiting. The soul-destroying, party destroying things that have been giing on in this party in B.C. for 10 years," said one delegate.

"No sooner do we elect a leader than we bring out the knives and start carving him up.

"Only a small handful of people are doing this now. There are no leadership aspirants waiting in the wings. This time let's confirm his leadership and be done with it," he said.

One man said the Liberals were lucky to have "such a great British Columbian who is also a great Canadian." Another member from the University of B.C. said Anderson has "been working harder than physically possible for the Liberals."

The sole remaining Liberal MLA, Gordon Gibson, who received standing ovations whenever he took the floor, closed debate by saying:

"It's very clear that David Anderson has the strong support of this convention and I want to add that he has the strong support of his caucus."

With those words the delegates jumped to their feet once again, waving their voting cards to give unanimous approval to the motion.

Anderson took the podium and said never in his "wildest

Victoria Posties Vote to Settle

Victoria letter carriers voted nearly 95 per cent in favor of accepting a conciliation report providing for a 30-month contract, $1.70 an hour wage hike and cost of living allowance (COLA), union president Bill Steele said today.

Letter carriers across the country voted last week on the proposed settlement and were to have a national voting result today or Tuesday.

Victoria members of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada followed the recommendation of their executive and negotiating committee in accepting the conciliation report by a margin of 199-13.

In Vancouver, the executive recommended against acceptance, but the membership is understood to have passed the proposal by 53 per cent majority.

Victoria president Steele said the 30-month term is long, but this is partly mitigated by the COLA clause providing for cumulative adjustments based on quarterly rises in the consumer price index.

He hoped for a period of stability in this sector of the postal service.

Meanwhile inside the post office there were normal operations today on the heels of mass absenteeism through an outbreak last week of "Mackasey 'flu'" in post offices across the country.

Canadian Union of Postal Workers stayed away "sick" to protest lagging contract negotiations with the Treasury Board. The union's nine-member board is meeting in Ottawa with board officials today.

There was some difference of opinion about whether the absentees would be required to show proof of illness.

Local post office spokesman Buzz Sawyer said people who have been absent are asked to state their reasons and sign a form on their return to work. In addition the post office may require a doctor's certificate, but no such request has been made, he said.

About 20 Victoria and 75 Vancouver post office workers were off the job Friday, causing a backlog of mail to be handled today.

The only remaining trouble spot appeared to be Quebec. In Montreal postal workers engaged in sorting mail did not show up for work today after booking off sick.

The spokesman said nothing was moving at the main post office but work was being carried out normally in other Montreal-area postal stations.

Members of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal workers voted Sunday night to book off sick for 24 hours to protest the suspensions of fellow workers.

Meanwhile, 322 postal workers reported sick in Quebec City, a post office department spokesman said, while 88 others were off work in Cap-de-la-Madelaine, Trois-Rivieres, Chicoutimi, Port Alfred, Bagotville, Jonquiere-Kenogami, Alma, Loreteville and Baie Comeau.

MIDWAY FRAUD CHARGED

NANAIMO (CP) — Three men have been charged following a police investigation of the Meeker Shows midway in Nanaimo.

Dennis Martin Melcher of Portland, Ore., is charged with defrauding the public of money in connection with a ring toss game. Police said the rings used in the game did not fit over the bottles they were being tossed at.

Police said the charge aganst Plumley stems from a game in which contestants tried to knock over several milk bottles with a ball. One of the bottles weighed 15 pounds.

The three are scheduled to appear in court today.

$150M Cargo 'Joke'

MONTREAL (CP) — A Vietnamese refugee identifying herself as Dao Diep Khanh expressed surprise today that a shipment addressed to her contained art pieces appraised at $150 million.

"As far as I know there are only some personal belongings, a few paintings and small furnishings," she said in a telephone interview. "This has got to be some sort of a joke."

A shipment of art treasures, being held by U.S. authorities, was discovered in crates aboard a Vietnamese refugee ship in Guam. The crates were addressed to Dao Diep Khanh, in care of a Vimy Street address in Montreal, which is the home of her father, Dao Van Nien.

An earlier report, based on a radio interview through a translator, had identified Dao Diep Kranh as the father instead of the daughter.

Her father had said he was expecting a shipment of art left behind with a relative in Saigon and thought it had been lost following the fall of that city.

Dao Diep Khanh said her father's statement about expecting a shipment of art apparently evolved out of confusion because he speaks no English and poor French.

She said she had been in Montreal with her baby for a month but declined to give any further information about herself or her family, saying they want to be left alone.

Meanwhile North Vietnam today demanded the return of the freighter and its cargo.

The North Vietnam news agency, quoting the official Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan, said Hanoi demanded the return of the cargo on grounds it was the property of the Vietnamese people.

Leniency for Pot Possession?

OTTAWA (CP) — A Senate committee is likely to recommend Tuesday that simple possession of marijuana be treated as a minor offence punishable by fines.

The legal and constitutional affairs committee will report on the bill after four months of public and private hearings.

At private meetings which ended today, the committee has dealt with a number of proposed amendments to the bill, which would shift marijuana offences from the tough Narcotics Control Act to the Food and Drug Act.

Possession under the Narcotics Control Act means a fine of up to $1,000 or six months in jail for a first offence. The maximum fine under the proposed law would be $500, with jail only if the fine wasn't paid.

Sources close to the committee said the committee probably will amend the bill to remove the three-year minimum prison term for importing marijuana.

The maximum would become 14 years less a day rather than 14 years, because a pardon cannot be granted on a sentence of 14 years or more.

Currently the minimum sentence for importing is seven years and the maximum is life.

The committee may change the bill's maximum of 10 years for trafficking to 14 years less a day. The maximum for trafficking now is life.

Both importing and trafficking could be treated as summary offences as well, the maximum for importing being two years and the maximum for trafficking being a $1,000 fine or 18 months in jail or both.

The penalties are all tougher than those proposed by the LeDain commission on non-medical use of drugs. The LeDain commission proposed no prohibition against possession and some senators on the committee appeared to favor this idea.

Time Needed to Reach Grit Goals

By LARRY TUCKER

RICHMOND, B.C. (CP) — British Columbia Liberals have decided which way they'd like their party to go, but found that efforts to get it there are going to take time.

More than 400 delegates attended the party's three-day policy and constitutional convention which ended Sunday. The major issues delegates faced were dealt with as the convention showed unanimous approval of David Anderson's leadership and near-unanimous support for a stand against coalition with other political groups.

However, delegates found they did not have time to deal with many of the more than 200 policy resolutions put forward at the convention.

Debate on labor resolutions was held up Saturday for about 30 minutes as not enough delegates were at the meeting for a quorum. Once debate started, it soon bogged down and finally a resolution was passed that a committee be selected to draw up labor management policy for submission to the party's September convention.

About half the transportation resolutions were deferred to the September convention as were more than half of the justice resolutions and almost all of the education resolutions proposed.

Among resolutions passed were:

— Party support for the livable region plan of the greater Vancouver regional district;

— That low cost or subsidized housing be made available to senior citizens;

— That federal and provincial governments allow interest paid on a home mortgage be deductible from taxable income;

— That royalty taxes be eliminated and replaced by a tax on profits;

— That a ministry of the environment be established in B.C.;

— That in the production of food both licensing and quota systems be abolished;

— That succession duties be assessed but not collected if heirs operate a family farm for a period of 10 years;

— That the Liberal Party be committeed to negotiate with status and non-status Indians on land claims in B.C. and that the cut-off lands question be settled:

— That a limited form of universal dental care be implemented in B.C. the plan to be structured and funded as the manner currently applied for medical care; and — That private insurance companies be allowed to compete with the Insurance Corp. of B.C. in the provision of Automobile insurance.

Delegates voted against a resolution that cabinet should not commute the death sentences of those who are convicted of killing police officers or prison guards.

They turned down proposals that immigrations policies be made more selective "within the limitations of the ability of the country to absorb immigrants."

A proposal that the government buy no more private firms also was turned down.

Proposals dealing with strict gun control and a return to the use of corporal punishment in B.C. schools were tabled and referred to the September convention.

Destroyer Assists Sailor

The destroyer, en route to San Diego for exercises, encountered the 30-foot sloop Ilo late Saturday night dead in the water, 160 miles west of Los Angeles.

The lone occupant and owner of the Ilo advised he had lost his rudder and engines.

CHILD THIEF DECLARED MENTALLY DISORDERED

A 22-year-old Victoria man who pleaded guilty in Pomona, Calif. to child stealing has been declared mentally disordered and sent to a state hospital for an indefinite time.

Richard Turley will be sentenced if he is ever rehabilitated, superior court Judge Charles S. Vogel said Friday. Turley abducted 11-year-old Edward Iris of Valinda, Calif., on Feb. 1 by posing as a Boy Scout leader.

Authorities said Turley rented a plane the same day at San Diego airport, but returned the next day and took a plane without permission.

When he landed the plane at Dagget airport near Barstow, Calif. to refuel, he was arrested.

dreams" had he expected such overwhelming support.

Outside, he told reporters that while every annual convention is open to leadership challenges he expects Sunday's vote will eliminate that possibility occurring at the September Liberal convention.

The convention had voted earlier to have the annual convention in just four months despite a recommendation from the party executive to hold off until January.

The bid to hasten the convention date was seen by many as part of a strategy to have a leadership race soon enough that a new leader could take over before the next election.

Talk of a leadership race burst into the open when Holt told reporters outside the convention hall that the recent resignation of three Liberal MLAs necessitated a leadership race.

She went further to say Anderson has not provided strong enough leadership and should resign.

Senator Ray Perrault joined the debate by telling reporters a leadership race was essential.

The loss of 60 per cent of the Liberal caucus cannot help but raise the issue, he said, and the question should be cleared up as soon as posble.

Perrault said, however, he "supported the leader as long as he is leader."

The vote of confidence in Anderson was the second highlight of the two-day convention which also saw delegates voting almost unanimously in support of the resolution rejecting any suggestion of coalition with other political parties in B.C.

That resolution was drafted in response to the defection of Pat McGeer, Garde Gardom and Allan Williams, who now sit as independents and are supporting the concept of a free enterprise unity movement.

The convention, planned two months ago, was designed to deal with policy and most of the two days was spent discussing and approving new policy resolutions.

"It works," says Dr. Grady Young of Thomasville, a veterinarian.

Dr. Young, 64, says he has been using the ancient Chinese needle treatment for years on dogs, cats, pigs cattle and horses.

He said he has found that there is less swelling or infection following surgery when acupuncture is use.d

He said acupuncture's effectiveness on animals indicates that he procedure has more than just psychological value. "You sure can't hypnotize an animal," he said.

City Youth Poor After Car Hits Tree

An 18-year-old Victoria youth is in poor condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital following a one-car accident early Sunday morning.

Charles Forsland of 20 Bushby was driving south on Richmond Rd. when his car went out of conntrol as he turned at Gonzales.

The car skidded about 160 feet, slamming broadside into a tree on the west side of Richmond.

The Victoria fire department was called to cut Forsland out of the wrecked vehicle. He was taken to, hospital with a broken leg, head injuries and other internal injuries.

Meanwhile, Gary Widman, 20, of 980 Nanaimo, is in poor condition in the intensive care ward of Victoria General Hospital following a two-car collision at noon Saturday at Goldstream and the Trans-Canada Highway.

Stan Margetish, 35, of the same address, was released from hospital after treatment.

Their vehicle was in collision with a car driven by Mr. Richard Brown, 59, of 941 Cloverdale.

Mrs. Brown was treated and released from hospital on Saturday.

Following the collision, the car in which Widman and Margetish were riding flipped over a guardrail and rolled several times down a 20-foot bank, police said.

Iranians 'Executed' Americans

PARIS (AP) — A group identifying itself as the Revolutionary Republican Movement of the Armed Forces of Iran said today it killed two United States Air Force officers in Tehran last week.

Col. Paul Shaffer and Lt.-Col. Jack Turner were shot as they drove to work last Wednesday. The Iranian government blamed Marxist guerrillas and said it had identified the three killers.

A photocopied circular mailed in Paris was received today by The Associated Press. The circular said:

"The recent regrettable but unfortunately unavoidable imperative execution of two U.S. officers in Tehran, reported in the international press as an act committed by 'terrorists' is inexact. Such a statement is an insult to the honor of the Iranian people.

"The two U.S. officers were condemned by order of a special tribunal of the Revolutionary Republican Movement of the Armed Forces of Iran. The order of the military tribunal was carried out by a military commando directed by an Iranian officer."

"We hope that our message to imperialism in general and to the American people in particular will be heard, failing which should the present bankrupt U.S. policy in Iran be continued, drastic and violent actions against all and everything American in Iran will be continued," the statement said.

The bullfight was the 17th of Madrid's San Isidro Festival, the most prestigious "corridas" of the year.

Of the two matadors, Francisco Buiz Miguel was gored by the second bul of the afternoon, and Antonio Jose Galan by the fifth.

Bullfight africionados said the substitute, Julian De Mata, as only a "novillero," an apprentic learning the art.

He was gored in the back by the sixth bull and doctors said the wound reached the lung. He was in serious condition.

Stretching Into Oblivion

The provincial Liberal party is stretching itself to the breaking point on a rack of its own making. And it would appear its federal counterparts are turning the handle following last weekend's Richmond policy conference. One after another, federal Liberals expressed doubts about David Anderson's ability to lead the party in the next provincial election. It was an odd performance in that the majority of the provincial party backs Anderson. Still the federal people carry clout within the party. Combined with dissident provincial factions they can do much persuading between now and September when the party holds its updated leadership conference.

For the time being David Anderson has won the day, confronting the issue head on and winning a predictable victory, a unanimous mandate to lead the party at least until September. What happens in the future is as much up to the party as it is to Anderson. If the former would quit contemplating their navels and get out on the hustings as the Social Credit and NDP have done, the party might live to see the next election. Anderson has made some mistakes in the past. He now has a chance to rectify them and forge ahead. The leader deserves the chance he won in Richmond.

His performance last weekend shows he has the instincts of a tough political infighter. Now it would seem he must translate these qualities into an effective province-wide strategy if his leadership is to survive a difficult September.

Meanwhile it is good to see the Liberals reinforce their resolve to stand alone when others are ready to compromise principle for opportunity. Yet even this resolve was watered down to some extent. But the end result of the convention was procrastination of all the Liberal problems. It is not the healthiest portent in a political party gasping for breath.

Let Games Go On, and On . . .

At last Mayor Jean Drapeau's plan falls into place. Through all the hand-wringing and anguished cries about whether the 1976 Olympic games site in Montreal will be ready on schedule next spring, the mayor has remained an island of calm.

Construction workers on strike? No matter. Costs ballooning to double the estimates? Don't worry. It's all perfectly clear.

What Jean Drapeau is aiming for are perpetual Olympic games. Just as Expo '67 turned from a six-month one shot fair into Man and His World '68, '69, '70, etc., a permanent athletic exhibition which will keep Montreal's — and the mayor's — name out front for years is an idea whose time has come.

It obviously makes sense, and would save hundreds of millions of dollars every four years, to have a permanent site for the games. Instead of bankrupting the national treasury to build brand-new stadia, tracks, athletes' villages, swimming pools and all the complicated electronics for instantaneous radio and television coverage, the Olympic organization would simply return each leap year to Montreal for the quadrennial games.

Or go one better and turn the Olympics into a continual sportsfest, a different event spotlighted each month. The slower pace might cool out the present fever of national chauvinism — and bloodshed — which attends the games. It would also be a boon for those individuals who are turned off by the orgy of media coverage for the two-week duration of the games. (Are you ready for the CBC's carpet bombing of the air waves next year? Eight hours a day live coverage of the games, CBC promises plus only Mother Corporation knows how much instant replay, recap and prime time highlights.)

Nationalistic sportsmen in other countries who hunger for the prestige of hosting the games may be hard to satisfy, but then Montreal could always be declared a little bit of international territory, like the United Nations site in New York, and Canada officially would have nothing to do with them.

If such a project would keep Mayor Drapeau busy for the rest of his public life, and incidentally too busy to bring any more wonderful, prestigious, horrendously unprofitable international expositions and sports events to Canada, then we promise not to complain.

Liberal Trial by Fire

RICHMOND — One after another the big jet planes settle into their final approach, landing lights twinkling in the sooty heat waves of the previous plane. Another mind numbing roar signals that more than 100 tons of metal has been thrust into the sky, with its load of happy people bound for a 21-day sojourn in paradise.

Beside the flight path 300 Liberals have gathered at the Richmond Inn, ostensibly to discuss policy, in reality to ruminate on the fate of their beleaguered leader. As one reporter put it, they talk about policy in the meeting and leadership in the corridors.

It is ironic that the party would choose this place. A sleeping and shopping bedroom community. A rest and recreational oasis for the army of toilers who commute to Vancouver five days a week. A wealthy community of steak houses, pizzerias, laundromats and naugahide cocktail lounges where the main drags are numbered one to five, as if the burden of affluent consumerism has stripped the imagination of all but an arithmetic consistency.

This is the middle class success which years of liberalism have given Canadians. Yet the Liberals are a lonely crowd here.

On Friday night Senator Ray Perrault gave a rousing pep talk invoking Liberal saints Art Laing and Duff Patullo.

". . . This party will grow in strength and respect if it keeps its principles." It was a careful, if boisterous speech, containing no hearty endorsations of provincial Liberal leader David Anderson.

That was the first clue.

Anderson followed Perrault with a short, curiously flat speech, devoid of the fire and brimstone party faithful yearned to hear. No matter though, everybody received standing ovations. Except for a relatively small minority it appeared they had come to praise Caesar rather than bury him. After all, it was billed as a policy conference.

Following the Anderson and Perrault pep talks a strange thing happened, something which may give more insight into provincial Liberal problems than the defections of three MLAs during the past three weeks or grumblings about leadership.

At least 60 of the approximately 250 delegates present left as the party hunkered down to urban development and municipal affairs resolutions. Next morning Cam Easer, president of the North Vancouver Seymour constituency commented:

"Many delegates adjourned for the evening to the bar. Are we the Liberal party or the cocktail party? We will never have direction without hard work."

That brought a round of applause too.

Given the "stand alone" tenor of the Friday night speeches the resolution on party direction was a foregone conclusion, up to a point that is. With only six dissenters the party agreed to reject any form of coalition, but dropped the words forbidding "accommodation, collusion or arrangement" with any other politicial group.

"If minority government was elected I presume . . . we would abide by this resolution and enter into no coalition . . . It does not mean however that Liberal party members in the legislature could not support a minority government," Anderson said, interpreting the ruling.

In other words, a coalition of mind is still possible if the Liberals held the balance of power after the next election.

Almost to a person convention delegates heaved a sigh of relief when the amended resolution passed after 40 minutes of debate. Practically unnoticed another resolution moving the next convention date up from January to September sailed through.

Another clue that David Anderson's leadership was still gnawing at some Liberal vitals.

Then came the heavies.

It had been rumored and gossiped for some weeks that federal Liberals wanted Anderson out to make room for new vitality and stronger direction in the party. When I interviewed the Liberal leader last week he had proudly recounted his federal support. Everybody from Senator Perrault to Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford was mentioned.

Feisty Simma Holt (Vancouver Kingsway) broke the ice in the corridor just before she charged off to Simon Fraser University Saturday noon. A strong leader could have brought the provincial caucus together in her view.

"I'm not attacking David; I'm saying you need something positive . . . If I could stay here I would say this on the floor."

The scent of blood was in the air.

"I think a leadership convention is important for the party at this time . . . When a party has lost 60 per cent of its strength in the legislature, obviously there has to be a reconfirmation of leadership or a change in leadership," said Perrault.

Asked if he supported David Anderson he replied, "I support the leader of the party as long as he is the leader of the party."

Indeed, things were warming up, although Perrault was to soften his remarks later in the day, expressing sympathy for Anderson's plight.

"He's got to show us what he's got . . . I'll give him two months."

Tough talk. Things looked bad for Anderson that Saturday noon as the 12th Boeing 727 came screaming in on full flaps.

Of course word on the federal heresy spread around the convention. The anti Anderson faction drafted a resolution calling for the leader's resignation, naively taking it to Party President Doreen Braverman in order to get it on the convention floor.

In effect, Anderson said if you don't want me, let's not wait until September, put it to a vote Sunday morning.

And so they did.

Anderson has emerged the unanimous victor in this campaign, no mean feat considering the events of past weeks. But the provincial party still has many wounds to heal. What was to be a policy session rallying round the flag leaves the party in an emotionally tattered state. September could be the cruellest month.

Usually good natured Gordon Gibson (Vancouver Capilano), asked if he would run for the party leadership in September if pressured by the party replied: "I have no comment on that at all. I don't want to fuel this kind of thing. I think it is a disservice to David and a disservice to the party. I don't want to discuss it any further."

A dirty question, admittedly, but the Liberals keep forcing us to ask them as they tear the party and each other apart.

All About the Cut-Off Claims

By NORMAN GIDNEY

When he met executive members of the union of B.C. Indian Chiefs earlier this month to discuss the cut-off land claims, Human Resources Minister Norman Levi said he wanted to "acquaint the general public with the facts related to cut-off lands."

The facts of the matter are straightforward. They are contained in four thick volumes of the Royal commission on Indian Affairs for the Province of British Columbia, the so-called McKenna-McBride commission, named for Dr. J. A. J. McKenna of Winnipeg who was a member and McBride was Sir Richard McBride, premier of B.C., from 1903 to 1915, who died a year after the commission completed its work in 1916.

The two men were the principal figures in the compromise worked out between Ottawa and B.C. over Indian lands. McKenna had been appointed a special one-man commission in 1912 to investigate for the dominion government all Indian land claims in B.C. and the differing points of view between Ottawa and Victoria as to the claims.

Faced with McBride's unwavering position that B.C. Indians had no aboriginal title whatsoever to any land in the province, and that all Indian reserves reverted to the province "through surrender, or cessation of use or occupation, or diminishment of numbers," McKenna's decision was that only a royal commission composed of representatives of both governments (but without any representation from the people affected, the Indians of B.C., you'll note) could settle the matter.

McBride agreed, and he and McKenna worked out the terms of reference for such a commission. The location and size of all Indian reserves in the province were to be established by the five commissioners. Ottawa named McKenna and N. W. White of Nova Scotia as its representatives, while B.C. selected J. P. Shaw, then MLA for Shuswap, and D. H. Macdowall of Victoria. The former chief justice of Saskatchewan, L. Wetmore, was chosen chairman.

Full of Figures

They worked for three years, travelled throughout the province and determined there were 1,103 Indian reserves in B.C. totalling 666,000 acres. They added 456 more reserves with 107,000 acres but also cut off some 36,000 acres. The commission took three years to accomplish the job and produced its massive final report in mid-1916. Packed with statistics and tables regarding every reserve in B.C., it makes for dull reading.

There are numerous colored maps showing the size and location of reserves in each of the "agencies" under which Indians were grouped — New Westminster, Okanagan, Nass, Cowichan and so on. Brown marked existing reserves confirmed by the commission, green was for new reserves and yellow denoted the cut-off lands. The maps are mostly red and yellow. Not much green appears.

But if one persists, plowing through the facts and figures and dusty language, the case for the Indians' claims comes into focus. Their sense of outrage at the cut-offs is completely understandable. The commission report started off in that legalese reserved for monarchs and legislators, designed to impress and overawe:

"In virture of powers and instructions from the Governments of the Dominion of Canada and the province of British Columbia contained in Commissions issued under the Great Seal of Canada respectively on the 23rd day of April, in the year of Our Lord one thosuand nine hundred and thirteen . . ."

Then came more than a thousand pages of tables with figures and notations on the name and size and site of each reserve, estimates (by the Indians and the local Indian agent) the proportion utlized, type of soil, number of cattle raised on the land, the products grown on the land and how much of it was timbered.

On this information, the commission based its decisions to confirm, enlarge or to cut off reserve lands.

Few Dollars a Family

In the Victoria area, not much land was cut off, for the simple reason that on the southern part of the island the Indians ceded title to the colonial government in a series of 14 treaties with Governor James Douglas from 1850 to 1854.

A total of 358 square miles on Vancouver Island changed hands under Douglas. The southern 100 square miles around Fort Victoria were bought for an average of 2.10 pounds for every head of family among the Indian tribes, or about $12.50. But for the policy of colonial self-sufficiency established by Great Britain, Douglas undoubtedly would have bought more Indian lands. His request in 1861 for a loan of 3,000 pounds to complete the purchase of the remaining 1,600 square miles of Indian lands on Vancouver Island was refused by the Colonial Office in London. The colony had to pay for such treaties out of its own revenues, which were exceedingly skimpy.

But the commission still managed to trim some reserve lands away. The Songhees lost half an acre — Deadman's Island (now Halkett Island), a former burial ground in Victoria's upper Inner Harbor, just off the present-day site of B.C. Forest Products' sawmill and plywood plant. The commission valued the island at $1,250.

Eleven-acre Wolf Island in Becher Bay and 2.5 acres of rock and sandy beach at Creyke Point on the west shore of the bay, valued at $125, ("unoccupied but allegedly required by Indians as landing and camping place in rough weather"), were cut off reserves of the Becher Bay Indians.

Saanich Indians lost Senanus Island, a four-acre island in Saanich Inlet used as a burial ground by them. The commission noted: "Indians put valuation of $15,000 on this reserve." But its assessment was $2,400. The land was required for a Dominion government lighthouse, it said.

Farther north, at Ladysmith, the commission cut off reserve number 12 of the Chemainus tribe — 296 acres on the west shore at the head of Ladysmith harbor, estimated to be worth $100 an acre at the time, "undeveloped forestated (sic) land with considerable rock and coarse gravel" — although it was occupied by the Indians.

Today the land is largely undeveloped, and is probably worth $2,000 to $3,000 an acre.

Comox Indians lost a 209-acre reserve at the confluence of the Puntledge and Tsolum Rivers, just north of Courtenay. The land was valued at $300 an acre.

The 26 acres of Bare Island, now Mandarte Island, just east of Sidney Island in Haro Strait, were granted to the government of B.C. for a sea bird sanctuary. "All rock, a resting place for sea birds," said the commission. Nevertheless, the Saanich Indian reserve was valued at $3,950.

The Penalakut band lost a little over four acres of a 76-acre reserve in the Gulf Islands it used as a seasonal fishing station. It was valued at $40 an acre, and was for a lighthouse.

The Cowichan Lake reserve of the Cowichan Indians, 130 acres in size, ("wild land, wooded, beautifully situated on Cowichan Lake, near railway and station"), was reduced by 27 acres — value $13,500 in 1916 dollars — for a right of way for the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway.

Of the 2,000 Indians in the Cowichan Agency (the east side of Vancouver Island, from Comox to Victoria), the commissioners noted that their reserves were all either surrounded, or located close by white settlements.

Not Much Progress

"As a result of this environment, the natural avocation of these Indians, fishing, is now varied by sheep raising and mixed farming (in which, however, comparatively little substantial progress has been made) and working for wages as fishermen, boatbuilders, miners, teamsters, etc., the measure of their land requirements being unmistakably reduced by their present mode of life."

After "careful consideration," the commission decided the cut-off lands were "not necessary for the Indian requirements."

In the West Coast Agency (from Port Renfrew north to Booth Peninsula) only two major cut-offs were made.

From their 1,030-acre reserve on the west side of the Somass River, on the northwestern edge of present-day Port Alberni, the Sheshaht Indians lost 240 acres, while 600 acres were cut from the 1,700-acre Numukamis Reserve of the Ohiets on the south side of Barkley Sound, about 30 miles southwest of Port Alberni. The latter is near the logging community of Sarita, and logging roads run through the land.

The local Indian agent said all of the Sheshaht reserves, totalling 1,429 acres, were worth only $12,500, but an independent assessor put a value of $30,300 on the Somass River Reserve alone. All of the Ohiet reserves, some 2,700 acres in all, were estimated at $15,000.

Penticton and Okanagan Lake. Land in foreground along shore was cut off.

Net Loss of Land

Like the Indians in the Cowichan Agency, West Coast Indians suffered a net loss of land. The commission did create 14 new reserves — total area just over one square mile — but the cut-offs mentioned above meant they ended up with 185 fewer acres in all. Compared to pre-commission days, Cowichan Agency reserves contained 546 fewer acres after the five commissioners finished their work.

Across Georgia Strait in the New Westminster Agency, which comprised the Fraser Valley as far as Chilliwack, inland to Squamish and Pemberton and the coast as far north as Bute Inlet, there were two cut-offs. The Kapilano No. 5 reserve of the Squamish Indians, a village site and fishing station, was reduced by 130 acres, although the only reason cited by the commission was the requirement of the Pacific Great Eastern railway—now B.C. Rail—for 20.5 acres for a right-of-way.

This is probably one of the best-known cut-offs because of its location and its value. Even in 1916, the land trimmed away was valued at $110,000.

Today, the land is probably worth millions. The reason? It is waterfront property at the entrance to Vancouver harbor, straddling the mouth of the Capilano River, adjacent to the huge Park Royal shopping centre in West Vancouver. BCR tracks cut right through the middle of it, and there are a sewage treatment plant and a municipal works yard squatting on top. Much of it is still undeveloped, and the Squamish have ambitious plans for when—not if—they get the land back.

The other cut-off occurred in downtown New Westminster itself. A 22.5-acre reserve on the Fraser River, used by Indians as a summer camping place, was reduced to less than three acres. The land taken was worth $53,000 and was for B.C. Electric streetcar tracks, a CPR right-of-way and city streets.

But all these cut-offs are picayune when compared to what the commission did to Indians of the Okanagan Agency, an area of the interior stretching south from Shuswap Lake to the U.S.-Canada border and including the whole Okanagan Valley.

If you wonder why the cut-off claims are such a burning issue there, why Indians of the Okanagan region seem so militant, why they occupied Indian Affairs offices in Vernon for weeks at a time and blocked roads around Osoyoos, ponder the following figures.

Collectively, they lost the most, in acreage and dollar value, of any Indian agency in the province. Some 18,536 acres were cut off, some of the best land in the valley—downtown Okanagan Falls, five miles of lakefront on the west shore of Okanagan Lake near Penticton, timber reserves on Penticton's main street, water-front land at the north end of Kalamalka Lake (now Coldstream municipality) and at the north end of Swan Lake, now in Spallumcheen.

Okanagan Hit Worst

Indians also lost nearly three square miles just north of present-day Westbank, another 518-acre reserve on the Similkameen River about 10 miles east of Princeton, a 201-acre fishing station and burial ground near the north end of Mara Lake and 55 acres known as the Mission Creek reserve, now in southeastern Kelowna.

The total value of the cut-offs was $418,960 but a higher estimate prepared by other assessors put it at $671,210. In return, Okanagan Indians got one new reserve of 2,600 acres, worth $50 an acre.

Other Indian agencies also suffered cut-offs. Kamloops, for example, had 3,500 acres trimmed away, worth $131,000 but got in return new reserves totalling 1,477 acres worth $7,385. In Lytton Agency, 3,100 acres were taken away—value $181,000—while new reserves of 15,700 acres worth $78,500 were created. In the Nass Agency (north central B.C.), 11,900 acres were cut off and 5,671 acres added on. The net dollar loss was $146,000.

The pattern was repeated with a few exceptions (Queen Charlotte, Stikine, Stuart Lake, Babine, Bella Coola, Kwakewlth, Kootenay and Williams Lake agencies all came out slightly ahead) and the balance sheet on the entire three-year transaction shows the white man got land worth $1.2 million to $1.5 million while the Indians received other land worth $445,000.

Are you still wondering about their militance on the issue?

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of May 26, 1915

OTTAWA — One solution for the problem of unemployment in Canada was placed before the mayor's congress this morning by G. N. Barnes, one of the Labor members of the British House of Commons, who with W. Wyndham representing the British board of trade, arrived in Ottawa today to look into the question of securing skilled labor for the munitions factories of Great Britain. Mr. Barnes informed the gathering that 30,000 skilled laborers were required in the old county, though it was not expected that this entire number would be secured in Canada. Men were wanted who could handle metal and work lathes of all kinds.

TURNER AND TRUDEAU . . . failing in crisis

Where's the Economic Leadership?

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — There's a lulling pleasure about Ottawa in May with the leaves emerging on the trees, summer hours for government employees taking effect and almost everybody living for weekends.

I feel almost a fool to ask the question: Could the country really be well into an economic crisis, the worst since the one of the mid-1930s was phased out by a world war?

There is a complementary question which one hesitates to ask: Isn't there a deep, broad concern out and across the country among the majority of adult citizens about the situation, with an attendant expectation that the Trudeau government must give strong, brisk political leadership to master the crisis?

I'd swear the concern is there. I'm also ready to say that the strong, brisk leadership is not. It certainly hasn't been provided by the prime minister. He's on a cycle in which foreign policy and international affairs has priority with his time and statements.

Can a number two man provide the leadership? In this case, John Turner? In effect, the minister of finance has given only four significant speeches since his budget last November, two of them last week (at Sarnia, Ontario and in the House).

You don't need to be more of a public-spirited citizen than one who merely watches the national TV news and skims the front page of your daily paper to realize that the prime minister and Turner (or any other federal minister) have not been front and centre in expounding our economic difficulties and the government's plans.

To understate the situation: Turner's voluntary program of restraints is not going well. He and the prime minister committed themselves to such a program almost six months ago. Five and a half months later its main outlines were leaked to the press. Despite some fudging by Turner that came very close to lying, what was leaked is exactly what has been put before Canadian labor leaders and a grouping of Canadian business leaders.

Now all of us are being threatened by the minister of finance. If the voluntary program is not acceptable and put into action, then the coming budget will have to be severe, even punitive.

I certainly don't want to be punished because of a negative reaction by a scare to trade union leaders.

The plan as we find it in the leaked documents is not outrageously complex. It still has not been taken to the public by the prime minister or Turner. Not even the United States has the calibre of a communications system to match ours. Any night of the week, every night of the week since last November, our TV networks, our radio networks, and our newspapers, would have given time and space of staggering quantity to either Trudeau or Turner, if they had been moved by either leadership, courage, or a sense of urgency to put that plan to the public.

It seems as simple as one plus one making two that the Trudeau-Turner failure to come to all of us with what they proposed to the elitist power groups means that there isn't any urgency. Yet Turner told the House of Commons last week that: "The facts as I see them are fairly simple. What it comes down to is that the competitive position of our industries at home and abroad is in danger of being seriously undermined, and the future growth of output, employment and incomes seriously jeopardized unless inflation is brought under control."

Turner went on to say that if the voluntary option must be discarded, then the prime minister and the cabinet will have to "canvass . . . the options we are going to bring before Parliament."

Of course, he is confident that "if Canadians face facts at this stage and weigh the choices and options, they will decide that we are far better off resolving our problems by working together than compounding our problems by working against each other."

In all honesty and fairness I don't know whether that line by the minister of finance means we have a crisis or not. What is crystal clear, however, is that neither Trudeau nor Turner has really tried to bring a sense of crisis or (more tragic) their plan for handling it to you and me and all the rest of us.

The leaders of the trade union movement have turned down the voluntary plan as inadequate. They represent something less than a third of the 9.6 million workers in the labor force. Further, most of them would readily admit that they do not have clear channels of communication and response with the organized workers nor easy access to the mass media to reach them.

Turner, and one presumes Trudeau, does not want us to behave like lemmings, rushing to self-destruction. Yet what else are we to do if the big plan to save us remains unknown, if the men who worked it out don't bother to tell us what it is and how it will work.

Either there isn't any economic crisis or we have the most lackadaisical federal government in several generations and certainly a government that doesn't think it needs to bother informing and energizing public opinion.

The Big Apple In a Big Pickle

By WILLIAM SAFIRE
New York Times

We call New York "The Big Apple," a Runyonesque phrase lifted from race track lingo, meaning "The Big Time" where the high purses could be won.

In the early 1930s, the phrase was applied to Harlem by jazz buffs, and a nightclub called The Big Apple flourished; a frenetic dance by that name popularized the term nationally.

An apple is shaped like the world, and The Big Apple has come to stand for the place where opportunities — and problems — converge. If you can make it in New York, you can make it anywhere.

Because New York City enjoys that reputation — indeed, revels in it with a booster campaign using an apple as its symbol — residents of other cities look with wonderment and concern at the way the largest U.S. city is rapidly going broke.

Last week, New York found it impossible to borrow a billion dollars to meet the next few months' expenses. As a result, we have been watching a charade: The mayor and the governor of New York railing at the federal government for not bailing out the city, knowing full well that such a bailing-out would be impossible and wrong, and direly warning of a "horror list" of cuts in services that "the crisis" might force upon them.

The purpose of this charade, with its phoney trips to Washington and ceremonial budget dances, is to tell the voters of New York that the reason for The Big Apple becoming The Big Pickle has nothing to do with this mayor or this governor or this legislature.

That's nice to know" but wouldn't it be more helpful for public officials to explain to the heavily-taxed residents why it has become impossible to make municipal ends meet?

The reason is that New York politicians have presided over more than a decade of deficits, providing more services than could be paid for by taxes. To cover up these deficits, leaders have relied on increases in federal aid (which had to stop sometime), increases in local taxation (which has reached the point of no return) and borrowing short-term to make up the deficit (the interest on which adds to the deficit, making the problem worse.)

When Mayor John Lindsay strode upon the scene, he denounced the quarter-billion dollar borrowings of his predecessor. When he left, the borrowing had run up to $4 billion. Mayor Al Beame has done little to stop the momentum.

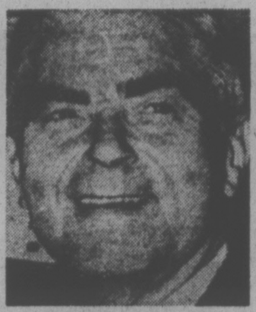
What will happen now? Will the city default on its loans, thereby raising interest costs to every city in the nation? Hardly. A rescue operation will be mounted, such as took place about 40 years ago, to tide the city over while it makes the painful return to responsibility.

New York has more city hospitals, more colleges, more social services than it can afford. Not more than it needs, but more than it can afford. A city, like a person, must sooner or later live within its means. New Yorkers cannot be castigated for wanting the best of everything, but will have to accept the best of some things and not of others, which entails the most painful kind of local political choice.



BEAME
. . . no change

Would it be so terrible to face up to the discipline inherent in the situation without trying to blame "the bankers," or "heartless Washington" or the need for a national defence?

These days, people see through those charades. When a mayor warns of 30,000 layoffs, most know he means a reduction of about 15,000 jobs through attrition, and is exaggerating the potential pain so that he will not look so cruel when the cuts are finally made.

A dash of reality is useful. Government at all levels is not going to continue to grow at the past decade's rate because citizens cannot pay the bureaucratic freight. The choice has to be made between a cop in Brooklyn or a fireman in the South Bronx, between a free park concert and a day care centre. Tough choices, with plenty of room for argument.

But a city that has prided itself on being the centre of decision-making ought to be able to make decisions on which services it can best afford. If New York wants to be The Big Apple, the city will have to live within its means.

Easy Credit the Stuff of Inflation

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

Beyond the likely failure of voluntary restraints to stem inflation must lie the consideration of mandatory controls. And among the items to be considered for control must — though it is seldom mentioned — lie consumer credit.

A. E. Ames and Co. Ltd. mentioned it in a recent report. "In the past five years," it said, "consumer credit has expanded at a cumulative annual rate of 13 per cent, which accounts in part for the consumption binge in recnt years and which, in turn, makes one wonder why consumer credit restrictions are rarely discussed as an anti-inflation measure." Ames found that outstanding consumer credit had incvreased from $11.134 billion at the end of 1969 to $20.398 billion at the end of 1974, "which is just over 23 per cent of total disposable income in the final quarter of 1974".

Up 16.5 Per Cent

Ames based its figures on Statistics Canada data. Statistics Canada, which reports on the consumer credit outstanding on the books of selected credit holders, has shown that the trend continued at least into February, when outstanding credit was up 16.5 per cent from a year earlier.

The situation is far from confined to Canada. It has been raising considerable concern in the United States where, according to Federal Reserve Board figures, consumer credit had increased from $21.5-billion in 1950 to $185-billion at the end of February, 1975.

U.S. concern has expressed itself among both borrowers and lenders. In November, December and January, according to an Editorial Research report, consumers had reduced their debt by a total of $1.9 billion: "Never before had consumer debt shrunk for three months in a row." A rise in instalment lending in February was largely attributed to the auto industry's cash-rebate sales campaign, "but non-instalment credit fell for the fifth consecutive month."

Many Delinquents

If the borrowers have been drawing in their horns, so have the lenders, for the very good reason that "the Instalment Lending Division of the American Bankers Association reported a record delinquency rate at the end of 1974, as did Master Charge with its 34 million credit-card holders." Canadian banks have also suffered a sharp increase in losses.

Credit, of course, has been one of the major underpinnings of the enormous American economy from colonial days, even though Thomas Jefferson railed against it, writing in 1787: "The maxim of buying nothing without the money in our pocket to pay for it would make of our country one of the happiest on earth." It must be added that Thomas Jefferson was heavily in debt himself.

The issue is a delicate one for either the U.S. or the Canadian economy. Indeed, wise judgment must be balanced on a razor's edge. Most Americans — some 80 per cent — use credit of some sort; so do most Canadians. Without it, purchases — and job maintenance, let alone job creation — would falter. Yet nobody can doubt that it is the very stuff of inflation. It adds enormously to the cost of anything the consumer buys. It permits him to buy with very little discipline, using dollars he has not yet earned, sending unreal dollars into the market place to bid up the price of real goods and services.

The dangers have been noticed. Chairman William Proxmire of the U.S. Senate Banking Committee has said, "We aren't serving any social purpose by making credit available to everybody. There are millions who can't handle credit. They look at it as an Aladdin's lamp they can rub, and their lives are ruined by it." The non-profit National Foundation for Consumer Credit reports that it is those least able to carry debt — "the unmarried (especially the separate, divorced and widowed), the poor, and those under 25 or 65 and older" — who are most deeply in trouble with it.

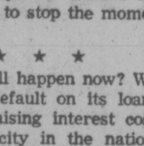
Don't Even Look

But the NFCC finds that middle-income people and even the well-to-do are using their credit cards to help them over the present inflationary period. "When the bill comes," said a spokesman, "people are afraid to find out how much they owe, so they just pay the minimum and don't even look at the total — which keeps growing."

The trouble is that North America's credit cards may not help it over the present inflationary period, but into a worse one. New Democratic member of the Ontario Legislature Morton Shulman last November told Premier William Davis that without credit controls the rate of inflation would hit 20 per cent this year. Mr. Davis replied that he was not prepared to limit consumer spending, that was a job for the federal government (Ottawa says it belongs to the provinces, and the provincial premiers have talked about it).

They should — both in Ottawa and provincial capitals — be doing more than talking about it; they should be planning. Credit controls did break two-figure inflation in th early 1950s. If mandatory wage and price controls are eventually to be established — and despite Finance Minister John Turner they wear an air of inevitablility — then credit controls must be added to them.

Whose Canada Is It?



harry bruce

HALIFAX — As a sometimes sympathizer with the ideals of the Committee for an Independent Canada, I wish it would clean up its image in the Maritime Provinces. The Committee, of course, is not exactly a household name in Nova Scotia but, among the Bluenosers who've actually heard of it, there's a tendency to see it as an expression of the self-serving chauvinism of a bunch of Toronto millionaires.

Now this is undoubtedly unfair. It's unfair, too, to regard the Canadian magazine industry, the Canada Council, the CBC, the CRTC, the airline schedules, the railroads, the price of applesauce and the nasty spring weather as Toronto plots against the Maritimes.

But occasionally people do, they really do. And yet the Committee sometimes acts as though it's never heard that profound suspicion for Toronto has been a fundamental Canadian preoccupation for more than a century. One wonders how well the Committee for an Independent Canada understands the Canada it wants to see independent.

Consider, for instance, the Committee's recent decision to use free-time announcements on radio and television. Yes, it's going to fight the monster of U.S. economic and cultural domination with pointed public-service messages, and where will the first commercials appear?

Need you ask? Why in Toronto, of course. Talk about preaching to the converted. If Toronto is not exactly 100 per cent converted to the Committee's cause, it is certainly one heck of a lot more converted than the Maritimes.

Large clots of Toronto society have had the hots for economic nationalism since Gordon Lightfoot was a boy. Toronto remains the home of the most strident, thoughtful, bitter, loving, fuming, calm, befuddled, lucid, opportunist, concerned, informed, misinformed, investigative and persuasive nationalists in the country.

Toronto, more than anywhere else, already fears that somehow the U.S. monster will suck up the precious lifeblood of Canada and then turn us all into icebound Oklahomans and Pennsylvanians. If Toronto needs radio and television commercials on behalf of an independent Canada, British Columbia needs mountains, Moncton needs more snow, beavers need better teeth.

And yet, here on the east coast, interest in the Committee's high purposes is about as durable as dew, as substantial as mist, and not much friendlier than the feeling toward a Soviet trawler steaming though the inshore fisheries.

If the Committee ever does get around to singing the glories of an independent Canada on Maritime radio and television — and I hope it does — may it please have the wit and courtesy to recognize this elementary Canadian fact: the pitch that's effective at Bay and Bloor is not invariably effective in Lower Montague, Middle Musquodoboit or Upper Pokemouche.

About Nova Scotians, may it please keep the following in mind:

They feel very Nova Scotian. They feel rather Canadian. They know that they rarely think of the U.S. as a cultural threat. Perhaps they should but they don't.

They don't ponder the possibility that Columbo may erode the historical significance of Joseph Howe. They don't worry about John Denver outselling Anne Murray. They don't fret over the fact that Muhammed Ali is better known than Schooner Bluenose. Some are lifelong fans of the Boston Red Sox, and see no good Canadian reason why they should not be.

Some resent CRTC ruling that, for the health of their Canadian souls, bar them from seeing U.S. television that millions of Torontonians see. Others resent the idea that, although U.S. money has helped make Toronto rich, Canada must now reject U.S. money before it has a chance to make Nova Scotia rich.

Many businessmen down here remember that it was once almost impossible to interest Toronto investment houses in Maritime industry. They just couldn't get money from Toronto. Others know that, decades ago, Toronto-based firms bought up Maritime industries for the hateful purpose of closing them down.

Whether Nova Scotians want "foreign" capital or fear it, they often see no important difference between Toronto money and American money. Whether the investment is in recreation land or industry, a Toronto-based "foreign" owner may turn out to be no better for Nova Scotia than, say, a Boston-based foreign owner.

Nova Scotia's economic, emotional and blood ties to New England are not dead. In June, the Council of New England Governors and Maritime Premiers will meet in St. Andrews, N.B. at what's becoming an annual discussion of mutual problems. Ottawa and Washington will be on their minds. Toronto won't.

SLICE OF TANGERINE suspended low in southeastern sky Saturday night was the moon emerging from total eclipse in perfect viewing conditions here. George Ball, director of telescopes for Victoria chapter of Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, took this shot at 11:50 through his five-inch telescope, f4.2, 1/25 sec. The moon is in the penumbra of earth's shadow, with the umbra blacking out 60 per cent of the total surface. Bottom of the moon is the south pole, the small dark area being Mare Humorum, the large bright spot toward centre is the crater Copernicus and the larger dark patch Mare Ibrium. Oceanus Procellarum is to the east, at left. In Canada, only Alberta and Newfoundland residents found the sky obscured by overcast during the 3½-hour phenomenon.

TROUPE GETS GRANT

A new theatre group in Victoria, the One World Revue Company, has been awarded a $13,000 Opportunities for youth grant.

The eight players will operate full-time in British Columbia, and produce a number of plays, including some originals, in Springridge Theatre, Fernwood.

The group is socially and politically oriented and its dramatic themes will range from abortion, rape and sexism to nuclear armament, housing and capitalism.

Jenkins Principal to Retire

Jack Chatfield, principal of Margaret Jenkins elementary school, will retire in June after 40 years of teaching.

Chatfield was raised in Victoria and attended normal school here. After three years teaching elsewhere he returned to Victoria to teach and has remained here since, except for four years' war service during the Second World War.

He was principal of Tolmie elementary for 15 years, and has been at Margaret Jenkins for four.

Chatfield will be replaced by Andrew McMorland, now principal of Uplands elementary. McMorland will be replaced by Robert Tubman, now principal of Dean Heights junior secondary.

New principal of Dean Heights has not been named.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

An 18-year-old girl was released on her own recognizance in the sum of $1,000 on Friday and ordered to report to the probation office daily.

Diane Lynn McHardy, of no fixed address, was arrested early Friday for obtaining lodgings by fraud at the Red Lion Inn, 3366 Douglas. The amount involved involved is $356.15.

McHardy is also facing trial for charges of theft and carrying a concealed weapon.

Andrew David Wood, 28, of 1717 Fernwood, was ordered detained in custody for the weekend after showing up late for his court appearance Friday afternoon.

Wood was to have been sentenced on a Saanich charge of dangerous use of a firearm to which he had pleaded guilty May 5.

His name was called at the 2:15 p.m. session but there was no answer. He showed up an hour later and since a warrant for his arrest and followed his non-appearance he was put in jail until the next court opening, at 4:30 p.m.

His voice seemed somewhat thick and slurry as he explained to Judge Fred Green he had appeared in court earlier in the morning and had been told to come back later. He said he went and had two or three glasses of beer and then went to a foundry in Victoria for a job interview.

Green asked him several times if he was all right.

Wood explained he was on medication prescribed for migrane headaches.

But a court officer standing near Wood said he could smell alcohol and Green added he thought he could detect the odor too from the bench, much further away.

Green remanded him in custody to Monday to "take the proper midication and get back into shape."

SUEZ TOLL TO DOUBLE

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt has decided to double the Suez Canal tolls when the waterway opens June 5.

Mashhour Ahmed Mashhour, chairman of the Suez Canal Authority, said in a news conference the fees will be collected in special drawing rights of the International Monetary Fund, or "paper gold."

He said shipping tolls will be increased by 90 to 100 per cent over the levels of 1967, when the canal was closed by an Israeli-Arab war.

Mashhour said the authority expected fewer ships but more tonnage to pass through the canal when it reopens.

4 Killed In Ulster Violence

BELFAST (AP) — A 19-year-old Protestant was found shot to death near a country road Sunday, bringing the weekend toll of violence in Northern Ireland to four dead and nine wounded.

Police said the latest victim was found near Omagh in County Tyrone, close to the so-called "murder triangle" where dozens have been killed or wounded during the last year.

Others killed during the weekend were two Roman Catholic brothers, shot Friday while they played cards with Protestant friends in a Belfast apartment, and a 22-year-old Protestant police officer, blown up by a bomb near Londonderry.

Youths Key To Better Relations

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The Soviet Union is attempting to establish better relations with Canada through its youth exchange visit with the YMCA, the secretary of the Communist Youth League said in an interview Sunday.

Anatoli Parokhin and his interpreter were here as part of a 10-day exchange visit, reciprocating a visit Canadians made last October. So far, they have visited YMCA centres in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto.

The youth league, based in Kamchatka, part of Siberia, is the youth wing of the Communist party.

The purpose of the visit is to examine the Canadian standard of living and to see how Canadian organizations such as the YMCA handle the problems of leisure activity, Parokhin said.

One of the main things they will be looking for is how Canadians assist youth in gaining employment in the summer.

Parokhin said the Soviet Union does not face the problem expected in Canada this summer of high unemployment for youths.

"Our purpose is to meet the young and tell them more about ourselves."

The league, whose activities are governed by the policies of the Communist party, handles the 14- to 28-year-old group.

The two Russians also will visit Stratford, Woodstock, Winnipeg, Regina and Vancouver.

Portuguese Leaders to Study Abolishing Political Parties

LISBON (AP) — The Armed Forces Movement, is meeting today to discuss whether to abolish political parties because of the 10-day crisis between the Communists and the Socialists.

Many of the 247 officers of the left-leaning assembly were reported to favor abolition or further limitations on the activities of the parties.

The Socialists, who outscored the Communists 3 to 1 in the constitutional assembly elections a month ago, held a five-hour rally Sunday attended by 10,000 persons in the Lisbon sports palace.

Socialist leader Mario Soares asserted that Portugal is threatened with a Communist dictatorship and declared: "Only a party with the strength of the Socialists can consolidate democracy in Portugal."

The crisis began when Communist printers seized control of the Socialist party newspaper Republica. It was the only paper in Lisbon not controlled by the Communists, and the military government closed it, declaring that the dispute was a labor problem that would have to be settled by the courts.

Raul Rego, editor of Republica, told the rally the paper was "a true interpreter of the people's will that could not be silenced by Communist pressure." Other speakers called for a boycott of the Communist press.

The Socialists are threatened to withdraw from the coalition government unless the paper is returned to them and allowed to publish again. If the Socialists pulled out of the government, they probably would be joined by the Popular Democratic party, which also is committed to parliamentary democracy and civil liberties. This would leave only the military and the Communists, who also control the trade unions, many local governments and the news media.

Meanwhile, Soares, a minister without portfolio in the government, and the Socialist justice minister, Francisco Salagado Zenha, are boycotting cabinet meetings.

3,000 Forced Out By Blaze

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — A fire raged for two hours through a large paint plant today, touching off numerous explosion and forcing the evacuation of some 3,000 persons. At one point officials feared the blaze might ignite a propane tank.

Residents of a 15-square block area near the Rust-oleum plant, who were ordered out because of the blaze, began rerurning to their home before the evacuation could be completed.

No injurits were reported.

A watchman was believed the only person in the plant when the blast occurred and apparently made it out of the plant safety.

Firemen worked frantically to wet down two large white tanks containing potentially explosive "LP" gas, also known as liquid propane.

Flames swept to within 25 feet of two white cigar-shaped tanks containing the gas.

"If they had blown up, the whole block would have gone," said Evanston fire marshal George Beattie, gesturing to the residential area that had been ordered evacuated.

He said firemen trained a 2½-inch nozzle and a deluge truck on the tanks to keep them from exploding.

He said there were numerous explosions and firemen had to be careful of being hit by flying drums that had blown up during the blaze. The fire was confined to a large, open storage area to the rear of the plant's blue-iled main building.

Firemen brought the flames under control two hours after the fire started. Police cars roamed the streets announcing to residents, some of whom still were preparing frantically to leave, that they could return to their homes.

Babylift Organizers Face Charges

DENVER (UPI) — Friends of Children of Vietnam, responsible for transporting 400 orphans out of Vietnam, has been charged with taking children out of the country who were not orphans, overcharging and not caring properly for the children.

Cheryl Markson, executive director of FCVN who will meet with Gov. Richard Lamm and state officials Tuesday to discuss the problem, said the charges are "ridiculous."

A group of parents which adopted Vietnamese orphans through FCVN has filed complaints against the agency for allegedly pocketing extra money, taking children out of the country who were not orphans and not caring for the children properly.

The 10 families, who refuse to be identified, met with Lamm, officials of the social services department and Rep. Pat Schroeder, (D—Colo.) last week to discuss the charges.

According to the parents, they were charged $800 a child in the final days of the evacuation, although transportation was taken care of by the government. They said at least $300,000 is unaccounted for by FCVN officials.

Mrs. Markson said although the airlift lessened transportation charges, a huge crush of work resulted. She said families had to pay up to $1,400 a child, including airfare, before operation babylift.

Sex and the Socialists —Don't You Believe It

All Socialist countries or, at least, all that I've been in, are remarkably mid-Victorian in their outlook on morality, but I'm just not buying Shirley MacLaine's conclusion that sex plays no role whatever in the People's Republic of China.

In her new book, "You Can Get There from Here," Shirley writes approvingly of a society that, so she claims, has little interest in sex because there are so many other things that need to be done. She quotes a guide: "Our young people are not attracted by looks or sex appeal, but by political ideology."

"I could see for myself that in China you were able to forget about sex," Shirley concludes. "There was no commercial exploitation of sex in order to sell soap, perfume, soft drinks, soda pop or cars. The unisex uniforms also de-emphasized sexuality, and in an interesting way made you concentrate more on the individual character of a Chinese, regardless of his or her physical assets, or lack of them. Someone, somewhere, was having sex, as was proved by the statistics that 18,000,000 human beings were being born in China every year. But sex certainly didn't have highest priority."

What disturbs me about this statement is not merely that Shirley should sound so triumphant about it, but that, since I happen to think it is ridiculous, it tends to throw doubt on even those of her conclusions that I want very much to believe.

The reader, of course, must remember that Shirley came from a profession, a philosophy and a society in which sex has become a fixation.

In her profession as actress Shirley was, in fact, something of a symbol, less known for her considerable comedic abilities than for the handsomest pair of legs on the silver screen. In her philosophy as a spokes-person for the Women's Liberation movement she was very conscious that the female charms were wickedly exploited, which doubtless explains her approval of the down-playing of the sexual role in China.

Most traumatic of all, Shirley went to China directly from a culture in which sex is all but a morbid way of life. It permeates every form of communication. It is used in 10,000 ways for the selling of merchandise. Sex is, indeed, a profit-making industry, the central ingredient for sales in novels, motion-pictures, magazines, every conceivable kind of promotion. In all but the Socialist countries it is a national neurosis.

Is it any surprise, then, that Shirley — or any other North American man or woman — should be ready to believe the impossible in a society where that aspect of life has been put in its proper perspective?

"The impossible" in this case is the premise that any group of human beings may be primarily motivated by other considerations such as a political belief or a nationalistic fervor or a revolutionary spirit. Shirley, herself writes that "on a scale of ten, it (sex) probably rated about number seven." And that, I think, is sheer nonsense. In China, no less than in Victoria or in Moscow or New York or any place you care to name, sex, on any scale of ten, is number one. Always has been and always will be.

If somehow, you were to take away the motivation of love between men and women, whether it is to be expressed in a physical or a cerebral way — or, more often, both — there would be no revolutions, no ideologies, no heroes, no villains. It is what makes the world go around, the one indispensible thrust of the human spirit. Without it, existence would be meaningless and empty.

I simply do not believe that the Chinese, any more than we, could ever marry on the basis of political ideology or that the fashioning of the unisex uniform could detract, in the slightest, from the ancient mystery of a boy finding a girl or vice versa.

If this were to be true, if Shirley's over-simplification has the slightest basis in fact, if, in fact, we were seriously to consider two ways of life — one in which sex is all-pervasive and idiotically exploited, the other in which sex is deliberately down-graded and important only in the birth-rate statistics — then it would be infinitely preferable to live in the kind of world that Shirley professes to abhor.

All of the self-discipline and good intentions in the world, however admirable, would surely seem a pointless exercise without that greatest of all life's experiences, the inter-personal, enriching and ennobling relationship that exists between a man and woman.

That may or may not be the direction of the Chinese experiment, a deliberate even laudable attempt to channel the nation's energy away from the debilitating absorption with sex that exists in our world. But Shirley ought to know that it is constant, indestructible, universal drive, above every ideology, and life without it would be unthinkable.

'We Got 'Em!'

Those madcap marauders from the Malahat were up to their old tricks at Holland Point on the weekend as Victorian Days wound up.

Judging from the happy warriors at left their shooting eyes were sharp and their grapefruit guns squirting efficiently and noisily. They are Randy Youngman, cheering a direct hit, A. Scott and Wayne Youngman. Joseph Medwedrich is standing.

Malahat Maruders are a muzzle-loading shooting club which concentrates on serious competition but they live it up for the Victoria Day Parade and Victorian Days when they "battle" Canadian Navy gunners on Dallas Road.

ANOTHER DRIFTSURE

Scores Still Out There Inching Their Way Home

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

This year's Swiftsure ground to an agonizingly slow finish today as scores of boats inched their way home, spinnakers limp for lack of wind.

There was no fanfare as Bruce Hendrick's 50-foot cutter Warrior inched over the finish line in darkness at 1:28 a.m., becoming the first boat home.

John Buchan's Heather of Seattle was third and could win the Swiftsure on corrected time.

The three lead boats were through Race Rocks by 8:30 p.m. Sunday but an adverse tide and lack of wind slowed them almost to a standstill for hours.

It was the same story for those still trying to edge their way in today.

George O'Brien's converted 12-metre Endless Summer, the former Dame Pattie, which swept the field in 1972, will have to settle for one trophy this year, the one for first boat rounding the Swiftsure mark. She rounded at 9:39 Saturday evening, Warrior close behind. Warrior rounding 13 minutes later.

Strong winds and a record fleet of 321 Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca boats caused havoc at the start of the race Saturday morning.

Gear was broken as boats collided. As the wind piped even higher boats were dismasted. Others had seasick crews.

The race committee was unable to give details of any winners today, even for the smaller Juan de Fuca race because of the multitude of protests which will have to be sorted out.

One locally-built boat, launched two weeks ago at Philbrook's Shipyard in Sidney gave a creditable performance in her first race. The PH 41 Lucifer, designed by Stan Huntingford of West Vancouver finished Swiftsure at 4:02 a.m. today. She's owned by Al Nelson of Nanaimo. Shortly after her at 4:25 a.m. Tom Loney of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club sailed his sloop Goodbye over the finish line.

An extra strong ebb tide on Sunday killed Endless Summer's chances. Skippered by Al Sturgess, she made her way to the American side of tht Strait of Juan de Fuca only to find no wind to keep her moving.

The lead boats worked the Canadian side and managed to find enough breeze to slowly make their way along the coast in the back eddies.

The strong current spelled disaster for one Juan de Fuca boat when she was trying to work her way through Race Rocks around 3 a.m. on Sunday.

R. Zell's 27-foot Elan grounded when her spinnaker collapsed and the current swept her onto the rocks. The Seattle boat was holed and her crew forced to scramble ashore.

They were picked up by the Canadian coast guard cutter Rider, which arrived 30 minutes latter.

Sunday evening, after being temporarily patched, the Elan was rescued by the tug Seaspan Escort.

Sunday's drifter brought the veteran Swiftsure campaigner Diamond Head to her knees. By early Sunday evening, her owner Henry Kotkins of Seattle had fired her engines and the 73-foot yawl, largest boat in the race, was out of contention.

Bill King's Destiny of Portland was the first boat home in the Juan de Fuca race, getting her finish gun at 1:49 Sunday morning. She may be disqualified, however, because she failed to report to the inspection officials as required.

J. D. Gonyea's Blue Fox of Tacoma followed 26 minutes later. Next came R. Fiedler's Gem of Seattle, followed 26 seconds later by B. L. Griffin's Different Drummer of Bellingham.

Two Cal 29s of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club were among those who managed to finish the Juan de Fuca classic Sunday morning before the ebb tide hit. They were Steve Merriman's Vandal II and Jack Woodward's Puff II.

Another RVYC boat that finished high up in her division in Swiftsure was R. D. McBride's Obsession. The Ranger 33 sloop, competing in division IV, finished at 7:42 a.m. this morning.

Race committee officials were reluctant to estimate how long it will be before the Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca winners will be known.

Man Won't Be Jailed In Parking Lot Death

After 19-year-old Mark Kendall pleaded guilty in B.C. Supreme Court this morning to a charge of assault causing bodily harm, arising out of a drinking incident which caused the death of another young man, Mr. Justice Harry McKay postponed sentence for four hours.

But McKay reassured Kendall, of 5178 Old West Saanich Road, that he would not be imprisoned.

Defending counsel Ken Murphy suggested the penalty be a fine or probation, for what was "just one of those very unfortunate incidents," in which a scuffle ensued outside a beer parlor and there was no indication of premeditated assault.

But Dermod Owen-Flood, prosecuting, said if such punishment was contemplated it should be of a severe nature, to get across the message that drunken brawls can have tragic consequences.

Owen-Flood said the deceased, Gordon Robert Smith, aged 20, and Kendall had been drinking separately at the Royal Oak Inn on the night of Oct. 12 last year, and had no contact with each other while inside the premises.

Kendall, who had been "drinking steadily" from about 9 p.m., left with friends at 1 a.m. by which time he was "quite drunk."

In the parking lot he saw Smith and a companion apparently obstructing a car occupied by three girls, and told Smith to leave them alone. Kendall shoved or pushed Smith, who fell backwards and struck his head on the hard surface of the parking lot.

Kendall left the scene but later, when questioned by police, readily admitted his involvement in the incident.

Owen-Flood said although Kendall was trained in judo or karate, the autopsy on Smith gave no indication of injuries produced by martial arts techniques. It did disclose, however, that Smith died from a fractured skull and that he had "an unusually thin" skull.

Grievance Rules Ignored By Guards, Says BCGEU

Vancouver Island prison guards ignored grievance procedure provided for in their contract, which led to a form of trusteeship being placed on the 150-member local of B.C. Government Employees Union, business representative John Hurren said today.

Hurren said there was no term for the action of the union, but the effect was to remove financing on behalf of the Vancouver Island component, which is basically the same as trusteeship.

The BCGEU provincial executive takes the view there are no Vancouver Island local officers at present through resignations and its action in suspending financing. An election in the local was to have been completed this week.

Hurren said the union will meet tonight in Vancouver to review the situation and possibly recommend a course of action. This could include appointment of an interim executive for the Vancouver Island guards' component.

He said he intends to meet island spokesmen during the week.

Action of the union took effect Thursday night, after guards employed at Wilkinson Road Prison, Jordan River, Snowden Forestry Camp, Metchosin Farm Camp and Victoria Juvenile Detention Centre complained to a radio station about classification of auxiliary guards which they want recognized as regular employees.

After-Grad Charges

Colwood RCMP said today charges are pending following a Friday night fracas in which bottles were smashed and damage done to the Juan de Fuca arena during a high school after-graduation dance.

Police said they were called to the arena at about 12:30 a.m. and found the premises strewn with broken liquor bottles.

"We weren't called until the thing was all over," a police spokesman said. "We were aware of the event but we don't come inside unless we're called."

The spokesman said organizers of the event — not an official school function — hired a dog-equipped member of Western Home Guard to patrol the dance which followed the graduation ceremonies of Spectrum community school.

"The floor was covered with glass and broken bottles — quite a bit of liquor, some damage to washrooms but I don't know to what extent," the spokesman said. "A few charges are pending."

Spectrum principal Wally Russell said Friday's party was an after-grad party arranged privately by the students, which the school had no part in.

When asked if the Times could speak to student council president Peter Kappel, Russell said: "I suggest you find him on your own if you're going to get into that kind of journalism." He then hung up.

Kappel could not be reached this morning.

Jos Saat will go to Akron, Ohio, for the All-American

Ashcroft Boy Derby Winner

Jos Saat, 13, of Ashcroft, won the British Columbia Soap Box Derby "A" event Sunday and will represent the province at the All-American Soap Box Derby final Aug. 16 at Akron, Ohio.

Edward Jackson, 12, of Victoria, won the "B" event, and Ron Eversjn, 12, also of Victoria, won the "C" event.

Clifford Horsfall, chairman of the Victoria Jaycees which sponsors the event, said the only mishap occurred when one car went out of control and hit a spectator.

Police said Barbara Etherington, 54, was taken to hospital where she received 17 stitches to close a gash on her right leg.

Horsfall said the 25 cars entered in the race were driven by boys between the ages of 11 and 15, and some of the cars reached speeds of 50 miles an hour. The event was held on the Cloverdale Avenue hill and drew about 400 spectators.

Tank Car Probe Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government in June will try to examine by submarine three objects located in Malaspina Strait that may be missing tank cars loaded with chlorine gas, a ministry of transport official said Sunday.

H. O. Buchanan, MoT regional western marine division director, said if the objects found on the sea bottom two months ago do not prove to be the missing tank cars, a full-scale search will resume in the fall when equipment against becomes available.

Buchanan said MoT officials checked one of four objects that were located through sonar detection devices near the site of a marine mishap last February in which a barge overturned and four railway tank cars were lost. He said the object proved to be a sunken log.

Gas Storage Plan Vetoed

WASHINGTON (CP) — A plan to export natural gas in summer from the United States to Canada for storage — importing it back during peak winter heating periods — has been rejected by an administrative law judge with the Federal Power Commission (FPC).

Judge Marvin Morse, in a decision made public Friday ruled, that "Canadian transportation and storage charges are speculative" and said there is no basis on which to "hypothesize alternative costing calculations."

The judge's decision is subjeect to review by the FPC as a whole.

The proceeding began with applications by Lowell Gas Co. of Lowell, Mass. and Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co .of Houston, Tex.

Lowell wanted authority to export up to 1.5 billion cubic feet of natural gas to Canada for storage during the summer months "over a 14-year period" and to import the same quantities for use on its system during the November-March heating season.

Tennessee originally proposed to build about $5.2 million in facilities to transport gas for Lowell between Niagara Falls, Ont., and Tewksbury, Mass., on a firm basis, at a charge of 85.9 cents a thousand cubic feet.

During the hearings however, Tennessee withdrew its proposal and the transportation contract with Lowell was revised to one of "best efforts" rather than a "firm" agreement.

The gas would have been received at the border during summer months by TransCanada Pipeline Ltd. and hauled to storage facilities owned by Union Gas Ltd. in Ontario.

During the winter TransCanada would transport the gas back to Niagara Falls for delivery to Tennessee.

Morse said the fact that storage and certain of the transportation would occur in Canada — "outside the territorial jurisdiction of the U.S and the FPC" — does not so jeopardize the project that "standing alone it should not be approved."

The project appeared to be "basically reliable and credible but for price," he said.

As for transportation and storage services to be provided within Canada, the judge said the decision that costs for the Canadian service are too high "in the face of the limited risk and exposure on the part of TransCanada and union" had nothing to do with the fact that "they are not entities subject to the jurisdiction of the FPC."

What was important, he said, "was the conclusion that cost-based rates, to be established in the public interest, must reflect proof of reasonably anticipated cost estimates."

Crown Hydro Corp. Formed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A new Crown corporation, fourth largest of its kind in Canada, has been established by the Newfoundland government to develop the province's hydro-electric resources.

The first task for Newfoundland and Labrador Hydro is development of the Lower Churchill River in Labrador, a project that could cost $2 billion before completion in 1981.

There are no plans for the corporation to sell power directly to consumers, except possibly in Labrador.

Energy Minister Leo Barry says the government sees no advantage in taking over Newfoundland Light and Power Co. Ltd., a private firm that handles more than 90 per cent of all retail sales of electricity in the province.

Hydro, created by legislation earlier this year, went into operation in May with the appointment of top executives.

Denis Groom was named president and chief executive while Douglas Fullerton was made chairman of the board.

Groom, who left Newfoundland in 1969 after serving three years under the previous Liberal government as comptroller and deputy finance minister, was a director of Vickers Ltd. of London and chairman and chief executive of Roneo Vickers Ltd. until 1974.

Fullerton, former president of the National Capital Commission of Ottawa, will serve in a non-executive capacity, Mr. Barry says.

Wallace Read, former president of the Newfoundland and Labrador Power Corp. which was replaced by Hydro, was made senior vice-president.

The corporation inherited 1,100 employees, making it one of the province's largest employers. On a national scale it is fourth in size after Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia hydro authorities.

The work force will increase to more than 4,500, including permanent employees, at the height of Lower Churchill construction in 1977-78.

The government paid Brinco $160 million last year for 57 per cent ownership of the Churchill Falls company and all Labrador water rights.

The province previously owned nine per cent of the Brinco subsidiary which developed the $950 million, 5,225-megawatt underground power station at Churchill Falls, 140 miles upstream from the Lower Churchill site.

The Quebec Hydro Electric Commission retains 37 per cent ownership of the Churchill Falls company. Virtually all electricity produced at Churchill Falls was sold to Quebec Hydro under long-term contracts.

Fears Mount for 3 Hostages

Times News Services

DAR ES SALAAM — Guerrillas from Zaire holding two Americans and a Dutch woman kidnapped a week ago are believed demanding the release of Zaireans held as political prisoners in Tanzania.

A third American kidnapped by the guerrillas, Barbara Smuts, 24, of Ann Arbor, Mich., was freed early Sunday. She brought with her nine letters — three from the guerrillas to President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania, one to United States Ambassador Beverly Carter, one to the U.S. embassy, one to Dutch Ambassador Jan Van den Berg and three from the hostages to their parents.

Carter said today the lives of the trio were still in danger.

"We're in a delicate situation and we are convinced the three remaining hostages are in jeopardy," the ambassador told newsmen after receiving his message from the kidnappers.

The ambassador said reports that guerrillas had demanded a ransom were "totally inaccurate." Diplomatic sources in East Africa earlier said the kidnappers wanted $1 million for the release of their hostages.

After reading his letter, Carter said the guerrillas made it clear that if "anything went awry (in negotiations) the lives of the three remaining captives" were in danger.

The ambassador said the kidnappers, suspected Marxist rebels from neighboring Zaire, had made no direct demands on the United States but he was aware of "demands on Tanzania." He did not elaborate.

He said the captives had been "given almost solicitous care" and could communicate with each other. He said they had not been tied, bound or blindfolded during their captivity.

The ambassador planned a meeting later today with President Nyerere and Smuts to discuss, among other things, whether the kidnappers full demands be made public. He said the president "was extremely concerned about the situation.

Smuts rested today at the ambassador's residence. He said the parents of the remaining captives were expected to arrive in Dar Es Salaam in the next two days while Tanzania — in close cooperation with the United States — conducted all negotiations to secure their release.

BIRTHDAY SUITS AT BEACH PARTY

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Nude bathers were thigh-to-thigh on the 900-foot stretch of Black's Beach, where more than 20,000 persons celebrated the first anniversary of the "swimsuits optional" zone.

"It's wall-to-wall people, just like Coney Island," said a former New York resident wearing only a sun visor.

There were "good vibes" Saturday, according to Ann Marie of Phoenix, Ariz. "Good and mellow," she added, brushing sand from her naked body.

A year ago, the city council passed an ordinance designating "swimsuit optional" beaches. The only beach to get such a designation so far, however, was Black's Beach, a hard-to-reach area below the cliffs at Torrey Pines north of the city.

Slipped Disc Treatment Safety Charges 'Absurd'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A pioneer in the use of a natural drug to treat slipped discs said today that charges it can cause widespread suffering and death are "absurd."

"The charges are absurd. That's the word, absurd," Dr. Lyman Smith, Barrington, Ill., told UPI.

Slipped disc, which reportedly afflicts more than one million Americans each year, has been treated by enzymes such as the drug chymopapain which are supposed to dissolve tissue involved in the slippage.

Reps. John Moss, (Dem—Calif.), and James Scheuer, (Dem.—N.Y.), asked the Food and Drug Administration to investigate chymopapain after Dr. Bernard Sussman, a Howard University neurosurgeon, told them it was "a major national health hazard."

FDA officials disclosed the agency also has been asked to approve national distribution of the drug — a refined form of papaya juice which is better known as a meat tenderizer.

Sussman told a house investigative subcommittee chaired by Moss last week about the alleged effects of chymopapain experimentation among 10,000 slipped disc patients during the past 12 years.

Phoney Air Ticket Ring Cracked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An alleged ring specializing in bogus airline tickets to Hong Kong has been broken with the arrest of 20 persons in California and Alaska, authorities report.

Four more suspects are being sought in the operation which allegedly used blank tickets stolen in burglaries at southern California travel agencies, the FBI said.

Also involved in the scheme was the theft of airline identification plates and validating machines, forgery of the blanks and sale of the tickets at reduced rates, the FBI said.

The FBI said the roundup was based on evidence gained through court-authorized wiretaps.

REFUGEE MADAM SETS UP SHOP

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — South Vietnamese prostitutes, recruited by a former Saigon brothel operator, are working military bases here, the San Antonio News says.

The madam, described only as an attractive 39-year-old Vietnamese who fled when Saigon fell to the Communists, was brought to San Antonio by a "high ranking U.S. Army officer," the newspaper says.

San Antonio is the site of four United States Air Force bases and Fort Sam Houston, headquarters of the 5th Army. The Defence Language Institute, which trains many foreign students, also is located here.

Most customers of the brothel in a residence near Kelly air force base have been foreign military personnel and U.S. soldiers who served in South Vietnam, the newspaper says.

The News says it learned of the brothel from a military officer of a Middle East country who is undergoing training here. He is reported to have said his men are "going wild" over several South Vietnamese girls working the military bases.

San Antonio's military officials apparently cannot place the brothel off-limits until a complaint is filed. "Nobody has complained yet about this reported Vietnamese brothel," one spokesman said.

Joe Staley, immigration and naturalization service regional director, said South Vietnamese prostitutes caught plying their trade will either be deported or put in custody.

"We give the refugees a lot of privileges, but one thing we have not waived: those who practise prostitution are not eligible for the program," he said.

The newspaper quotes a 20-year-old South Vietnamese girl who said she had refused an offer to work for the madam.

MDs to Start Firm

LAKE SUCCESS, N.I. (UPI) — Delegates of the New York State Medical Society, after branding the state's new medical malpractice law as "inadequate," have voted to form a doctor-financed insurance company.

The votes — 143 to 82 against the malpractice law and 174 to 26 in favor of the insurance company — wound up a stormy day-long meeting Sunday at medical society headquarters.

The session was interrupted for more than two hours by demonstrating doctors, many of whom said they would discontinue all but emergency health care if the law is not strengthened.

Dr. George Way said the doctors' goal is to have their firm, the Medical Liability Mutual Insurance Co., in operation by July 1, when most present malpractice policies expire.

Overdue Sox Have Enjoyed Better Days

By The Associated Press

Sunday wasn't a banner day for Boston Red Sox. The Red Sox lost one American League baseball game, one manager and two sluggers. They made four errors, allowed four stolen bases and managed only three hits off unheralded Ed Figueroa of California Angels.

"We played a long stretch without a bad game and maybe we were just due for one," said Boston manager Darrell Johnson after California's 6-1 victory. "It was a bad day for everyone except their young pitcher."

In Sunday's other American League games, Kansas City Royals whipped Baltimore Orioles 9-1, Minnesota Twins beat Milwaukee Brewers 7-2, New York Yankees edged Texas Rangers 5-4, Cleveland split a pair with Oakland, the Indians winning 6-0 and the A's taking the nightcap 6-3, and Detroit Tigers beat Chicago White Sox 4-1 in a rain-shortened game.

In Saturday's games, Chicago outlasted Detroit 10-8, New York topped Texas 9-5, Minnesota dropped Milwaukee 3-2, Kansas City shaded Baltimore 5-4, Oakland whipped Cleveland 10-5 and Boston blanked California 6-0.

Figueroa kept the Red Sox bats quiet but not the batters, who spent the afternoon arguing with plate umpire Lou Di Muro.

Bernie Carbo was called out on strikes in the second inning, complained bitterly, was kicked out of the game and had to be restrained by teammates from attacking the umpire.

In the sixth, Johnson was tossed out for arguing a strike call to Carl Yastrzemski.

When Yaz was called out moments later by Di Muro, the Boston first baseman knelt down, cleaned off the plate, then carefully piled dirt all over it and dropped his batting helmet on top of the pile.

He was promptly thumbed out of the game.

Meanwhile the Angels, with Mickey Rivers stealing three bases to raise his season total to 28—tops in the majors—picked up a run in each of the first two innings, got two more in the fifth on run-scoring singles by Rivers and Jerry Remy and scored another two in the eighth on Billy Smith's double.

Chicago Cubs, who left Wrigley Field with a 3½-game lead in the National League's Eastern Division, concluded a 2-8 journey through three California cities Sunday by losing to San Francisco Giants 9-7, their fifth consecutive setback.

Their division lead is down to 1½ games over New York and Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, the Phillies, fresh from a 7-0 homestand, concluded a winless six-game trek to Houston and Cincinnati by bowing to the Reds 4-3, giving them nine successive defeats away from home.

Elsewhere Sunday, Los Angeles Dodgers trounced St. Louis Cardinals, 7-3, Atlanta Braves stopped New York Mets 6-3, Pittsburgh Pirates edged San Diego Padres 6-5 in 11 innings and Houston Astros nipped Montreal Expos 8-7 in 12 innings.

Teams Share Track Honors

Thompson and Douglas Houses each finished with 266 points for 38 events to share top honors Saturday in the annual Glenlyon School track meet at Oak Bay.

McKenzie House was third with 184½ and Fraser fourth with 152.

Pat Costello and Billy Taaffe each collected 30 points to finish in a tie for first in the open class individual race. Tim Andeurson took the under-12 with 21 points and Martin Walker the bantam with 23.

Three records were set. Adrian Pettyfer sets new marks in the under-10 100 and 200 metres and Peter Boyle cleared five feet, six inches in the under-14 high jump.

Charmans Bow In Exhibition

Coquitlam Alleys got four goals each from Mike Reelie and Tim Kennedy as they defeated Saanich Charman Pacific Realty 16-12 Sunday in an intermediate "A" exhibition lacrosse game at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Rich Gurney and Derry Donaldson both scored three times for Saanich with Murray McLaren adding two goals and four assists.

Coquitlam led 7-3 after the first period and 11-8 after the second.

Cullin Victorious In Two Regattas

Saturday, he took the singles sculls. Sunday, he won the championship singles, the open 500-metre dash and the championship doubles with Brentwood's Patrick Walter.

Walter won two other races Sunday. He captured the youth singles and the colt singles as Brentwood took six firsts, two more than runner-up Victoria City Rowing Club.

Brentwood also finished first in Saturday's competition. The school took victories in heavyweight eights and men's and women's single sculls.

University of Victoria led the girls' competition with wins in the eights, coxed fours and pairs, while Calgary captured the double sculls.

Shawnigan Lake finished second over-all, Lakeside of Seattle was third and Greenlake, Washington, fourth.

Sunday's other winners:

Senior doubles: Steve Price and John Carmichael (Burnaby); senior singles: Doug Mullins (UBC); junior doubles: Paul Prileau and Matthew Arrot (Shawnigan Lake); junior singles: Steve Sidebotham (Vic); novice singles: D. Emigh (Wash. State U.); novice single fibreglass: G. Langer (Brent.); junior single fibreglass: Ken McRae (Vic); lightweight singles: John Alexander (Vic); lightweight doubles: Alexander and Sidebotham (Vic); women's championship singles: B. McIntyre (Seattle); women's singles: Sandy Kirby (Vic); women's doubles: B. Boettcher and K. Kubichek (Calgary); sea shell: John Newman (Sidney).

Schamberger Second In Marathon Event

Schamberger finished 57 second behind Joe Skaja of Washington State, winner of the 26-mile, 385-yard race with a 2:19.58.6 time.

Five members of Victoria Flying "Y" were among the 102 finishers. Jack Farrell was 16th, Dave Hamilton 18th, Chris Garrett-Petts 20th, Robin Pearson 25th and Alex Marshall, in his first marathon, 61st.

Hamilton also was second in the over-40 age class to Roar Jessing of Lions Gate, who won in 2:38.43.02.

Lions Gate Roadrunners' "A" and "B" teams finished first and second followed by Richmond Roadrunners and the Flying "Y".

Three Hopefuls Signed by Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League have announced the signing of three players.

One is Charlie Davis, a running back who played college ball at Alcorn A and M in Norman, Miss. Davis, 24, is six-foot-two and weighs 210 pounds.

The other two are defensive-backs L. J. Douglas, a graduate of University of the Pacific in Stockton, Calif., and Canadian Wally Saunders, who played his football at Simon Fraser University.

A Rerun at Western

Gary Kershaw booted his golden 1969 Chevelle around the Langford oval in flawless fashion Saturday night to pick up his fourth straight super-stock main event victory.

But the last three victories, including Saturday's, are pending the outcome of an engine inspection by the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association technical committee.

The committee, which makes regular inspections of all cars to make sure they conform to the rules, pulled Kershaw's car Monday but allowed him to race Saturday before tearing the engine down.

Kershaw asked for, and received, a delay because a bigger engine will be going into the car for next week's open program and the engine to be inspected will be out of the car anyway.

In the 30-lap feature, Kershaw started in the middle of the pack, battled with Neil Montgomery until both passed early lead Rocky Collins on the eighth lap and then pulled out ahead gradually to win by half a lap.

Kershaw also won the fast heat and finished second in the trophy dash to Montgomery.

Jim Smith, who set a track record during claimer time trails of 19.67 seconds, spun into the infield during the fast heat and sustained enough damage to his vehicle to be knocked out of contention for the remainder of the night.

Ernie Schoor won the 12-lap claimer main event in a blanket finish with runner-up Brent Peters and third-place Rick Carlson.

'Not a Team Man'

PHOENIX (AP) — Phoenix Suns have traded their top scorer, guard Charlie Scott, to Boston Celtics for Paul Westphal and second round draft picks this year and next. Jerry Colengelo, general manager of the National Basketball Association Suns, said he felt Scott, who averaged 24.3 points a game last season, was not the team player Phoenix needed.

English Romp Over Scotland

LONDON (AP) — England drubbed Scotland, 5-1, Saturday to win the annual British international soccer championship. The round-robin play also involving Northern Ireland and Wales ended with England atop the standings with four points, Scotland and Northern Ireland with three and Wales with two.

The half-time score in front of a capacity house of 100,000—most of them reported to be Scots, 70,000 of whom were reported to have converged on London for the weekend — at Wembley Stadium was 3-1.

Gerry Francis spearheaded the offensive with two goals and a tireless game on both the attack and defence. Kevin Beattie, Colin Bell and striker David Johnson also tallied for England, Bruce Rioch scoring for Scotland.

Hoop Squad Bows

LUGO, Spain (CP) — Spain avenged a 102-94 loss to Canada's national team last Wednesday be defeating the Canadians 88-66 Sunday night in a game televised nationally in Spain.

The Canadian defeat came on the heels of Saturday night's 56-53 loss to St. John's University of New York.

Spain, with its fast break working, forced Canda into frequent errors and jumped off to an 18-4 lead in the first five minutes.

Alex Devlin, who also was effective on defence, was Canada's top scorer with 17 points. Tollestrup and Bill Robinson added 10 points each for Canda.

Aussies Surprised

TORONTO An Eastern Canada select side defeated the touring Australian national cricket team by five wickets Saturday—the first win for a Canadian team over the Aussies since British Columbia won a match in 1932.

Batting first, the Aussies were all out for 159 runs, Rodney Marsh leading the batsmen with 55 runs. Bruce Laird scored 36 and Greg Chappell had 20.

Bob Callender took four wickets for 36 runs and Jitu Patel four for 58.

Ginter Stickhandling With Seattle Franchise

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province says Baltimore Blades of the World Hockey Association will return to the league next season as Seattle Totems and will be financed by British Columbia money—most likely from businessman Ben Ginter.

The paper says the Seattle club, frustrated by promises of a National Hockey League franchise, has opted for the rival league.

Asked if he was involved in the Seattle WHA franchise, Ginter replied: "No, but it's possible."

Backed by Vincent Abbey, Seattle had applied unsuccessfully for an NHL franchise.

The Blades, started the season as Michigan Stags but were transferred from the Detroit area late in the last WHA. Seattle Totems, a long-time member of the Western Hockey League, now will join former WHL clubs Phoenix, San Diego and Denver in the WHA.

Ginter, who owns a brewery, owned 40 per cent of the NHL Canucks in the first few seasons under the Minnesota-based Medicor Corp.

Switch in Targets Works for Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Dave Schultz and Bob Kelly switched targets Sunday afternoon and their latest victim regretted the move.

Schultz scored two goals and Kelly one as Philadelphia Flyers whipped Buffalo Sabres 5-1 to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final, the first ever between expansion teams.

Schultz and Kelly, noted for their aggressive tactics against opposing forwards, switched to offence and goaltender Gerry Desjardins of the Sabres was caught in the middle.

The Flyers were also backed by Bernie Parent's solid goaltending and outstanding play from defencemen Jim Watson, rookie Larry Goodenough, Andre Dupont, Joe Watson and Ted Harris.

It was the reverse for the Sabres who received shaky goaltending early in the game and miserable checking performances from their forwards and defence.

A win in the sixth game of the National Hockey League series, scheduled for Tuesday night in Buffalo, will give the Flyers their second Stanley Cup in a row. If the Sabres win, the teams will return here for the seventh game Thursday night.

Schultz scored his first goal of the playoffs at 3:12 of the first period. The shot caught Desjardins off guard and he appeared to be going the wrong way. Schultz got his second goal on a breakaway midway through the second period.

"He (Desjardins) thought I was going to pass it across to Don Saleski, so he started moving and he was off-balance, I guess," said Schultz, who had nine regular-season goals while setting a record for most penalty minutes, 472.

Gary Dornhoefer and Reg Leach, who got his eighth goal of the playoffs on a power play in the third period, completed Philadelphia's scoring before 17,077 fans. Don Luge scored for the Sabres at 14:02 of the third period.

Coach Fred Shero of the Flyers used five players on his third line—Terry Crisp, Orest Kindrachuk, Saleski, Kelly and Schultz—and they all turned in strong performances.

Parent didn't have many tough saves but he was steady, while stopping 23 shots. Desjardins was shaky in the first period but rebounded and kept the score from mounting in the third period.

Desjardins also blocked Schultz from close-in during the third period with the Philadelphia left winger alone in front of the goal.

The Sabres played most of the second and third periods without defenceman Jim Schoenfeld who was hit in the groin by a puck fired by Goodenough during a Philadelphia power play at 1:14 of the second. It's expected that Schoenfeld, the team captain, will return for the sixth game.

The loss kept the Sabres winless at the Spectrum since they joined the league five years ago.

"We've got no complaints," said Buffalo coach Floyd Smith, "we just didn't play that well. We played really well as team play was concerned in the first period and then they got a couple goals.

"The first one was lucky, it hit him (Desjardins) and bounced in. The second: I don't think he saw it or he must have thought it was going to miss the net. And that's the gall game."

First Period

1. Philadelphia, Schultz (Saleski, Kindrachuk) 3:12.
2. Philadelphia, Dornhoefer (5) (Crisp, Van Impe) 12:31.
3. Philadelphia, Kelly (2) (Crisp, Jim Watson) 12:50.

5. Philadelphia, Schultz (2), (Goodenough, Harris) 9:56.

Unser's Rain Clouds Have a Silver Lining

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It rained on Bobby Unser's parade, but he didn't mind it a bit. He was leading it.

"What a day, what a beautiful day!" Unser exclaimed as he climbed from his Eagle-Offenhauser in Victory Lane, his beaming face turned upwards, into the waning rain of a thunderstorm that had just given him his second triumph in the Indianapolis 500.

It was supposed to go the standard 200 laps—500 miles—just like the race he'd won here in 1968 when he beat Dan Gurney.

But on the 172nd lap Sunday the storm clouds which had been menacing the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for more than an hour finally unleashed their fury.

First it was with a brief sprinkle, then with a torrential downpour that had Pat Vidan waving the red and checkered black-and-white flags which signaled the race was over and that Bobby had won it after 174 laps—435 miles.

When he crossed the finish line, he was cruising along at 30 miles an hour.

Gurney, who came here Sunday winless in 13 tries as a driver and builder at Indy, was there alongside Bobby in the winner's circle. "I've never forgiven Bobby for beating me in '68," he joked.

It was a clear case of "If You Can't Beat 'em, Join 'em." That's what Gurney had done five years ago when he teamed up with Unser to build the American Eagle cars that Bobby drove. It nearly paid off last year when Unser came in second behind Johnny Rutherford.

This time it was Rutherford's turn to be second-best, all because of an untimely pit stop.

Actually nobody really figured on either of them being No. 1. That, everybody was saying, was reserved for Wally Dallenbach, who had never finished better than 15th in eight previous Indy races.

Dallenbach charged from his 21st starting position into the lead by the 60th lap, then held it virtually all the way until the 161st, opening a commanding 25-second edge, about half a lap.

Then, engine troubles, caused by debris from the day's only serious wreck, sent him smoking into the pits for good and sent Rutherford into the lead, just ahead of Unser.

On the 165th, through, Rutherford decided to make a pit stop of his own, 19 seconds that put Unser in front.

Five laps later, Rutherford found out just how costly his pit stop was. In the 170th lap, the drivers were frozen in their respective positions under a yellow caution flag—the fifth and final one—when Gary Bettenhausen blew a tire and played handball with his car along the main straightaway's outside wall.

The way Bobby was talking, though, his driving didn't have all that much to do with it.

"Luck is everything," he said. "If you don't have luck on the race track, you don't win . . . Luck controls everything we do in our lives. I've always tried to have it on my side."

Luck was certainly on Unser's side on the 127th lap, when Tom Sneva and rookie Eldon Rasmussen got together a little too hard on the second turn. Sneva's car hurtled along the outside wall, flipped over several times and burst into flames.

Sneva suffered severe burns on his hands and milder burns over 15 per cent of his body.

Still Diehard Disbelievers? Golden State Doesn't Care

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — There may still be a few hardcore disbelievers holding out, but coach Al Attles of the new National Basketball Association champion Golden State Warriors no longer cares.

"Probably some people will still say that it wasn't how well we played, but how poorly the other teams played," Attles said after the Warriors beat Washington Bullets 96-95 Sunday to complete a stunning four-game sweep in the title round.

"But we're not concerned about what people say. We won the championship, and we did it the way we had to do it."

The winning formula on Sunday, as it had been in two of the three previous victories over heavily-favored Washington and in the Western Conference title game against Chicago, was to overcome a sizable deficit.

Golden State won the series opener 101-95 at the Capital Centre—where the Bullets had lost only six of 48 previous games—after falling behind by 16 points.

With their regular home court in Oakland tied up because of an ice show, the Warriors posted victories in the next two games played in San Francisco's Cow Palace, 92-91 and 109-101. In the second game, they once trailed by 13 points.

Many observers figured Golden State would be the easiest post-season hurdle for the Bullets, who had not lost a home game to the Warriors since 1970. Even after three losses, Washington was favored by six points on Sunday.

But a field goal by Butch Beard put the Warriors ahead for only the second time in the game at 94-93 with 1:45 to play, and he added two of five free throw attempts in the closing 19 seconds to clinch the victory.

Ken Francis Wins Junior Bike Crown

Francis covered the 44-mile course in just under two hours, beating out runner-up Tom Patterson and third-place finisher Lido Crema, both of Vancouver. Steve Barer of the Wheelers took fourth.

1. Jack Leedham; 2. Mike Rasmussen; 3. Don Hiscock; 4. John Swan; 5. Patrick Peron; 6. Terry Oldford; 7. Gerry Kerston; 8. Tony Friedrich.

MacDonald Sparkles In Loss

Dave MacDonald's efforts were not enough to save Farmer Construction from losing both ends of an interlocking senior amateur baseball doubleheader Sunday at Lambrick Park.

MacDonald went one for three and stole one base in the team's opening game loss to Vancouver Puccini's.

In the second contest, he had four hits in four trips, stole two bases and scored once as Puccini's won 5-2.

In other interlocking action Sunday, visiting Gorge Hotel split a doubleheader with North Shore Mountaineers, winning tht first game 3-1 and dropping the second 9-4.

Bob Mabee picked up the win for Gorge Hotel in the first game while Bob Moysey slammed a home run for Gorge in the second.

DIONNE DICKERING

Before this day is out, Marcel Dionne may have deserted the National Hockey League by agreeing to sign a rich World Hockey Association contract with Edmonton Oilers.

Accompanied by his legal adviser, Alan Eagleson, the star centre of Detroit Red Wings is talking with Olier officials today, a report in the Toronto Sunday Sun said.

Eagleson said that Dionne, due to become a free agent on June 1, is negotiating for a WHA contract because of the NHL's "compensation rule" that would require any other NHL club to make a deal for compensation with Detroit if it signs Dionne.

"He could wind up with another WHA team," commented Eagleson, or he may sign with Edmonton, if the price is right."

Island Title for Mt. Doug

DEBBIE SCOTT
girls' standout

With two titles tucked away, Mt. Douglas needs one more crown to make it a perfect B.C. high school track and field season.

And that third title is the provincial championship, up for grabs next weekend in Burnaby.

Mt. Doug's first crown was the Greater Victoria ten days ago, and Saturday the school won the Vancouver Island title for the sixth straight year.

And on the basis of its efforts Saturday at Centennial Stadium, Mt. Doug certainly must rank among the top contenders for the B.C. championship.

Expected to battle with Claremont for top honors, Mt. Doug put on its strongest showing of the season, setting seven "A" records and earning qualifications in 25 events at the provincials. Athletes qualified for the B.C. tournament by finishing in the top two in each "A" event.

Top Mt. Doug performer was middle-distance runner Tom Griffin, who set two "A" records and was named the meet's outstanding male athlete.

Griffin broke the 800-metre record with a 1:55.3 time and the 1,500-metre mark with a 3:58.7 time.

Other Mt. Doug athletes who set or equalled "A" records were Mark Nyhof with a leap of six feet, three and one-half inches in the boys' high jump, Diana Rose with a girls' high jump of five feet, four inches, Wynn Wright with a 58.9 time for the boys' 400-metre hurdles, Wendy Davis with a 15.3 time for the girls' 100-metre hurdles and girls' 4x400-metre relay team with a 4:00.6 time.

Although Claremont finished a distant second, the school's Debbie Scott was selected outstanding female athlete. She set records of 2:16.4 and 4:37.5 in the girls' 800 and 1,500-metre events.

Other "A" marks were set by Claremont's Paul Estrada and Oak Bay's Brian Blamey. Nineteen records were established in "B" competition.

Estrade broke the pole-vault mark with an effort of 13 feet, two and three-quarter inches, while Blamey won the steeplechase in 4:25.3.

Blamey's performance helped Oak Bay take third place with 287 points, 161 more than it managed last year.

Esquimalt finished fourth with 233 points and earned qualifications in 11 events for the B.C. tournament, second only to Mt. Douglas.

Despite the handicap of not having any girls to enter, Shawnigan Lake Boys' School topped the up-Island squads with 203 points, good for fifth place.

Baker to the Rescue For Victoria Juniors

RICHMOND — When in need, call Norm Baker.

That may not be the motto of Victoria McDonalds but it could have been Saturday night in the team's Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League game against Richmond Roadrunners.

With the McDonalds down to 14 players because of injuries and work commitments, the husky defencemen played nearly full time, scoring three goals and adding five assists as Victoria won 18-10.

Victoria moved McDonalds briefly into first place, one point in front of Burnaby Cablevision. Burnaby, however, defeated Coquitlam J-Hawks 18-12 Sunday in Coquitlam to regain top spot.

Baker tallied twice and added four assists in the opening period as the McDonalds jumped to an 8-0 lead and sent all-star goalkeeper John Lewis to an early shower.

Roadrunners outscored Victoria 5-3 in the middle period but still trailed 11-5 going into the final 20 minutes.

League-leading scorer Kevin Alexander added six goals and an assist for the McDonalds with Roy Sinden, Mike Bryson and Ken King each scoring twice and Dan Ranger, Dave Lowdon, and Charlie Randle chipping in singles.

Rico Bellusci led Richmond with three goals. Singles came from Gary Mihic, Joe Morello, Mike Solden, Ray Durante, Kim Kelly, Scott Smith and Davinder Deol.

Burrards Grab Share Of Second

NANAIMO — Vancouver Burrards overcame a six-goal deficit to beat Nanaimo Timbermen 15-12 in a Western Lacrosse Association game Saturday.

Trailing 7-1 after the first period, the Burrards outscored Nanaimo 7-2 in the second period and 7-3 in the third to post the win before 820 fans.

Victory boosted Vancouver into a three-way tie with the Timbermen and Victoria Shamrocks for second place.

Bill Rawson topped the Burrards with four goals and three assists with Ward Sanderson adding three goals and Bob Salt and Bill Mercer two each.

Rookie Dave St. Jean sparked the Timbermen with two goals and three assists. Larry Biggs, playing his first game of the season, and Brian Spaven each scored twice.

Vikings Rebound To Down Visitors

University of Victoria player-coach Alan Rees booted five penalty goals and one conversion Saturday as the Vikings defeated New Brighton of England 25-15 in an international rugby match before 200 fans at Centennial Stadium.

The English side, which concluded its two-week B.C. tour with one win, two losses and a tie, led 15-12 at the half but failed to contain the Vikings in the final 40 minutes.

Rees kicked four penalties for UVic in the first half while George Glendon and Simon Bolton scored tries and Alan Hughes booted two conversions and a penalty goal for the visitors.

Vikings took the lead shortly after the break and a try by Brent Johnston and a Rees conversion. Rees added his final penalty minutes before Ken Wilke finished the scoring with a try on a fine individual effort.

A rough contest, several punches were thrown in a late melee but officials quickly restored order.

In its previous three matches, New Brighton edged Vancouver Meralomas 15-13, lost 11-6 to Simon Fraser University and tied 3-3 with Victoria Castaways.

Weins Welcomes Bretheren's Tips

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

If he could enlarge his immediate family today, Terry Weins nominates professionals John Morgan of Victoria and Ontario's Moe Norman as "my favorite brothers."

The 29-year-old Vancouver professional pocketed top money of $700 by defeating Cowichan's Bill Wakeham on the fourth hole of a sudden-death playoff. Both finished the regulation 36 holes with 144 totals.

Weins ended the playoff in dramatic fashion after the two pros bogeyed two of the first three playoff holes. On the fourth, a 216-yard par three, Weins' tee shot caught a sand trap. He exploded brilliantly from the sand to within three feet of the cup and sank the putt for a par that gave him his victory.

Wakeham also missed the green, chipped poorly and two-putted for a bogey.

It was Weins' second triumph in as many weeks. He won the Malspina Open at Powell River the previous weekend.

Weins was quick to credit Morgan and Norman for his success. Both, he said, helped him with his game "immeasurably" while they toured the Florida circuit during the past winter.

Their help, he feels, helped him to win his first tournaments as a pro.

Morgan, ironically, finished third in the weekend tournament. The first-day leader with a two-under-par 70 Saturday, Morgan ran into putting woes Sunday and counted 77 blows.

Littler Happy He Showed Up

Casper's victory in New Orleans clinched a spot on the Ryder Cup team which will play Britain's best in Ligonier, Pa., this fall. He's made it every time since 1961.

Littler's victory in Memphis clinched a spot on the Ryder Cup team. He's made it every time since 1961—except for the time he was sidelined by cancer surgery.

His six-under-par closing round, including birdies on his first four holes, was the best of the warm, windy day. His total of 270 was 18 under par, a record for the 7,193-yard Colonial Country Club course.

John Mahaffey, who had to roll up a pants leg, take off a shoe and go wading after one wet, watery shot, finished off with a scrambly 71 and a 275 total for second place. It was the second time this year, and the fifth in 17 months, that he's finished second.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf tied for third at 277. Each had a 68. Nicklaus' included a birdie on the final hole while Weiskopf got off to a birdie - eagle - birdie start, went six under through six holes and then finished poorly.

Gary Player, the 1974 Memphis champion, and Lee Trevino didn't get in it. Trevino had a closing 70 for 284 and Player was well back at 286 after a last-round 74.

American Drivers Take Four Sports Car Races

Thomas, who placed first overall and first in "C" sedan class during the improved production sedan race, also picked up a third overall and first in "E" sports racing class during the sports racing event.

Approximately 700 fans turned out Sunday to watch seven major races in the International Conference of Sports Car Clubs-sanctioned meet on the nine-tenths of a mile road course at Western.

Jany Patterson of Victoria suffered a concussion but is expected to be released from hospital "in a couple of days" after crashing her Formula-V into the backstretch wall after six laps of the open-wheel novice race Saturday. The car, although extensively damaged, is repairable.

Washington State drivers captured four events and pilots from the B.C. Lower Mainland wheeled to two victories in the seven major contests.

Winners of events and placing of Victoria drivers:

RACE I (Production Sports Cars): First overall — Barry Hobkirk of North Vancouver in Datsun 260-Z, also 1st in "D" production class; Bob Slater of Victoria in Midget, 8th overall and 1st in "G" production class; Barry Spencer of Victoria in TVR, 2nd in "E" production class.

Coffey's Pitching Shackles Cables

Port Angeles Telecable turned on the batting power in the opening game of a Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League doubleheader Sunday at Central Park to grab a 9-5 decision, but the Cables couldn't handle the pitching in the second encounter and were clipped 3-1 by Tony's Holdings.

Another doubleheader sheduled for Nanaimo was postponed because of park commitments.

Telecable batters smashed out a total of 12 hits in the opening contest, including two home runs by Jim Anderson and one by Rick Cochrane. Anderson scored three times and drove in two runs while Cochrane scored once and drove in three.

Pat Coffey appeared in command all the way as he pitched Tony's to the second-game victory. Yielding only four hits, Coffey struck out nine batters and did not give up any bases on balls.

RUTLEDGE STILL TOP JUNIOR

JIMMY RUTLEDGE
. . . still the champ

The youngest ever to win the City Junior crown with his triumph a year ago, Rutledge defended the championship Sunday by finishing two strokes ahead of his constant playing companion, Russ Reynolds.

Rutledge took the lead Saturday with a two-over-par 74 at Gorge Vale and wrapped up the title by finishing with a 77 Sunday at Uplands for a 151 total.

Friend and Lansdowne schoolmate Reynolds, winner of the Mid-Island title the previous weekend, finished with a 153 total on rounds of 79 and 74. He shared Sunday's low gross honors with Uplands clubmate Wayne Little.

Francois Vaillancourt of Cedar Hill, a 14 handicapper, was an easy winner of the low net title. Tied for sixth in the gross list with a 159, he came in with a net 131 to finish four shots ahead of Colwood's Ted Boomer.

Marty Emig of Victoria and Brian DeGirolamo of Gorge Vale shared third with 136 totals.

The one-two finish by Rutledge and Reynolds was tempered by the disqualification of another member of their regular playing group. Rob Lee of Uplands was disqualified when he inadvertantly signed his name to an incorrect scorecard.

Lee, who had an 81 Saturday and was allowed to play Sunday and posted a 78, called the penalty on himself, bringing it to the attention of tournament officials.

Cricket Tourists Trim Victoria by 100 Runs

Blues won the toss and elected to bat first, running up a total of 235 runs for the loss of four wickets.

Indian batsman K. Jayanti-Lal stroked the ball superbly as he punished Victoria, bowling for a century, scoring 136 runs while T. E. Srinivasan added 29 and Mandhar Sharma counted 23.

Victoria's batsmen were all out for 135 with Frank Jarman leading the way with 42 and John Scholfield adding 29.

Shiv Lal led Hyderabad bowlers by toppling three wickets for the cost of only 18 runs. Test cricketer B. C. Chandrasekar took three for 25 and Srinivasan four for 39.

Blues, who were scheduled to play a President's XI at the same pitch today, opened their tour beating British Columbia by 99 runs Saturday in Vancouver.

Chandrasekar came up with a superb performance, collecting six for 33, while Meher Baba downed two for 19 to allow B.C. only 103 runs after the Blues had chalked up 202 for seven.

Kortwright Richards of Victoria, with two for 34, and Ben Seebaran of Vancouver, with three for 41, aided the B.C. cause.

In Victoria and District Association play Saturday, Albion and Castaways moved into a first-place deadlock.

Albion scored an easy 10-wicket win at Nanaimo while Castaways defeated Oak Bay by 48 runs at Windsor Park. Cowichan and Incogs played to a draw at Beacon Hill in the only other match.

Alan Carter (five for 13) and Don Hughes (four for nine) handled the bowling well as Albion retired Nanaimo for only 29 runs. Opening-batsmen Frank Jarman and Tony Quarless scored 16 and 14 runs, respectively, for Albion.

Castaways took first crack and were all out for 123 with Cec Meyers contributing 51. Sandy Colquhoun (three for 26) and Ken Aziz (three for 27) led Oak Bay bowling.

Bob Beecher then turned over eight for 34 and Anton Larson downed the other two for 17 as Oak Bay was all out for 75. Peter Wheaton led Bay batsmen with 32 runs.

Cowichan declared at 153 for six and Incogs were 124 for four when time ran out. Howard Martin had 31 runs for Cowichan while Dave Bolton (35) and Max Kent (30) led Incogs.

Val White Tops Golf Team Trials

Three of the four members of British Columbia's 1974 women's interprovincial golf team were missing but Marine Drive's Val White staked an early claim for her return.

The Vancouver golfer jumped into the lead at the weekend after the first two of eight qualifying rounds that determine the B.C. team's makeup.

White scored an 80 Saturday at Colwood and came in with an 82 Sunday at Victoria Golf Club for a 162 total. Dorothy DeGirolamo of Gorge Vale and Flo McFall of Quilchena shared second with 165 totals.

Two rounds in Vancouver June 7-8, two at Rossland-Trail July 7-8 and the qualifying rounds of the provincial tournament will conclude the trial series. Only the best six of the eight rounds will count.

Missing the weekend trials were Gail Moore, Marilyn Palmer and Dale Shaw, the other members of last year's team. Both Miss Palmer and Miss Shaw are playing in Europe while Mrs. Moore's competitive plans are indefinite.

B.C. officials say both Miss Palmer and Miss Shaw, top-rated in the province, will be judged from competition records outside the province, if need be.

Weekend results:

GETTING A GOAT—FOR RENT

RED WING, Minn. (UPI) — Tired of mowing your lawn? Then why not rent a goat?

Nancy and Gerald Hackett rent out goats at $7 a week or $25 a month.

They will even rent out a miniature donkey named "Pavlo Jerusalem."

"If you have a problem with willows overtaking your pasture or yard, goats are great," Mrs. Hackett said. "They love Russian thistles and they'll eat a lot of rough weeds."

Goats, except for billy goats, are odorless, she said, and they're inexpensive to keep — especially if you have a lawn.

But the Hacketts warn prospective renters not to keep the critters tethered in one place or even one small yard. A goat needs the equivalent of about three pounds of hay a day and an ample supply of water.

They got the idea of the goat rental business from a friend in Hastings, who had good success last summer with a rent-a-garden operation.

Mrs. Hackett said people can easily come and pick up a goat in a car. "A car works just fine," she said. "A goat has no problem adjusting to a car."

The Hacketts have goats of all ages to rent and "all degrees of tameness." That means, Mrs. Hackett said, that they range from very tame to wild. Families definitely get a tamed coat, she said.

They have 25 goats. Graded ones are for rent. Registered goats, because of their value, are for sale only. Their registered breeds include Nubian, French Alpine, Toggenberg, and Saanan.

Some favorites they will neither rent nor sell. Among them are "Salty Dog," a French Alpine billy goat and herd sire, and "Semper Fidelis Evangeline," a 3-month-old registered Nubian so tame she follows Mrs. Hackett around the yard.

Oak Bay Man Wins Gyro's Hawaii Trip

In all those thousands of shots at the Gyro Hole-in-One contest last week, nobody came up with an ace.

But F. E. Corneille, 944 Island, scored a free trip for two to Hawaii in the draw held along with the contest.

T. W. Rogers, 3164 Ayton, won the gold bar, and Miss Pat Scott of White Rock won a side of beef.

Closest shot in the contest was five inches. Three "closest to the hole" prizes were awarded each day.

Kidnap Rumor Halts Sinatra

NEW YORK — Reported rumors of a planned kidnapping and attacks in the West German press have forced cancellation of Frank Sinatra's scheduled performance in Berlin tonight, spokesmen for singer said Sunday.

Sinatra currently is on a European tour scheduled for 10 appearances in seven countries.

Sinatra's representatives accused the Berlin press of "a relentless and scurrilous attack on Sinatra engaging in an orgy of vitriolic lies relating to his personal and professional life."

"More important," they said, "there have been repeated disseminations of stories in the Berlin press with rumors and speculations that when Frank Sinatra comes to Berlin he will be kidnapped or otherwise subject to physical attack."

Hess's Son Volunteers For Jail

MUNICH (AP) — The son of former Nazi deputy fuehrer Rudolf Hess announced Sunday he is willing to go to jail as a substitute for his ailing, 80-year-old father, now in solitary confinement.

Wolf-Ruediger Hess told about 1,500 cheering listeners at a beer hall rally staged to demand freedom for Rudolf Hess that he is prepared to repeat his verbal offer in writing to the United States British, French and Soviet authorities.

The four powers have kept his father prisoner for 30 years in West Berlin's Spandau jail.

Hess was Adolf Hitler's deputy from 1933 until his sensational 1941 parachute landing in England to call for peace. He is the only former Nazi chief still serving a war crimes sentence in Spandau.

The Western powers are known to be sympathetic to frequent calls for Hess's release but the Soviet Union has consistently opposed freedom for him.

EX-NAZI CHIEF STILL AT WORK

BUENOS AIRES (CP) — Wilfried Von Owen, once the secretary to Hitler's propaganda chief, Josef Goebbels, is still at work in Argentina.

He is one of about 100,000 Nazi soldiers and officials granted political asylum in Argentina at the end of the Second World War.

Many of them later went back to Germany.

But Von Owen, Goebbels's right hand man from May, 1943, to April, 1945, remained in Argentina, where he edits a German-language magazine written for the half million Germas and their descendants who live in this country.

The magazine, La Plata Ruf, with a circulation of 3,000, treats its readers to a blend of anti-Communism and nationalism that might remind them of the Third Reich.

Despite his semi-long hair and sharp gold-colored corduroy pants, Von Owen, who served as a lieutenant on the Russian front before his stint as Goebbels's secretary, still has a military stiffness in his walk.

He says he was ignorant of the horrors perpetrated under Hitler.

"Goebbels never talked to me about that," he says. "I knew nothing of gas chambers and extermination camps."

Von Owen says Hitler had the "wrong approach" to the Jews and should have "settled it differently" but he says many other Nazi ideas are still valid today.

Argentina is second only to the United States in its population of German-speaking expatriates.

'A Curb Ran Into My Front Wheel'

CYCLING

By DOUG LANGFORD

"I bent the front forks."

"How?"

"A curb ran into my front wheel."

So related a young man recently after he had dragged his bicycle home.

Because this particular problem had arisen before in our house and because I am sure some of you have experienced the same thing, I though I would try and explain how you can — providing the forks are not bent too badly or cracked — straighten them yourself.

First, turn the bicycle upside down and remove wheel and fender if you have one. Inspect forks thoroughly. If they appear to be cracked, do not attempt to straighten them. The same applies to forks that are badly out of shape.

Let's assume the forks are bent slightly. You can usually tell where by chipped or wrinkled paint at the point of the bend.

I have a length of rubber hose that slides over the fork to protect the paint. (You could use tape.) Then I use a piece of hollow steel pipe about three feet long and 2½ inches in diameter to fit over the protected fork. By exerting forward pressure just below the point of the bend, I can move the fork back to its original position. Do the same with the other fork. Make sure the rake (or forward bend) is exactly the same on both sides.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to the condition of the forks, replace them.

Here's how:

An adjustable wrench, a hammer and a pair of large pliers will be all the tools you need.

Start by loosening the expander bolt a few turns. Then lay a block of wood on expander bolt and tap it with a hammer until it comes loose. Now work the handlebar stem out by gripping the handlebars and twisting them while pulling upward.

Now, loosen and remove the locknut and washer from the stem of the forks. Remove the knurled cone next, then lift out ball bearings. Drop the fork stem through the frame head, remove bottom bearings and retainer, then you can clean bearings and other parts thoroughly. An old toothbrush is good for this. If you want to, you can grease the bearings and top and bottom cones. Try to remember the order in which you removed parts and lay them in sequence to make installation easier.

Once agan, take the old forks with you when buying new ones. This might save you an extra trip to the repair shop.

Before installing new forks in frame head, slide bottom bearing retainer and ball bearing over fork stem. Then insert fork stem into the frame ahead and lay the top set of bearings in the retainer. Thread on knurled cone until snug and replace lockwasher and locknut.

Before tightening the locknut, re-adjust knurled cone until forks are snug in the frame head but steering is still free and easy. When this has been accomplished, tighten locknut firmly against cone. Now, work the handlebar stem back into the fork stem to the desired height and snug the expander bolt. Some handlebar stems are marked showing the maximum height the handlebars can be raised. If there is no mark, insert the handlebar stem thee inches into the fork stem.

Turn the bike over again, replace fender and front wheel. Then, return the bike to its wheels and align handelbar stem with front wheel. Finish up by tightening expander bolt.

I have found that the knurled cone and locknut will loosen occasionally, so it would be wise to make periodic checks of these parts to ensure that the safety of the rider is not endangered by loose and woobly steering.

CHAINS

A frequently neglected piece of equipment on your bicycle is the chain. Often, chains are allowed to becoe rusty or caked with dried oil and dirt. Chains in this condition will hasten wear on the sprockets and chain links, while a well-cared for chain will give you many seasons of riding pleasure.

Remove the chain by loosening the rear axle nuts and sliding the wheel forward in the drop-outs. Locate the master link, pry the spring off with a small screwdriver. If the link on the right matches yours, bend the chain toward you and snap the plate off with the screw-driver.

Soak the chain in a can of solvent for a couple of hours. Remove it and clean, again an old toothbrush is handy all links inside and out. While you're at it, clean both sides of sprockets. Lay the chain on an old cloth and oil it thoroughly. Then take the oily cloth and wipe the chain on all sides, spreading the oil around and wiping off the excess. Run the cloth over the sproket teeth too.

Replace the chain on the sprokets with the master link installed on one end of the chian and hook them together. Install master link by snapping spring over rivets.

Locking plate on master link is installed by gently bending chain toward you and snapping plate over rivets with your fingers.

Pull the wheel back in the drop-outs until the chain has half-an-inch of slack and tighten axle nuts.

As I mentioned in an earlier column do not look for a master link on a 10-speed bike, Manufacturers eliminate them because they are too wide to shift from sprocket to sprocket and would rub on derailleur cages. Incidentally, the chain on a 10-speed bike is considerably smaller than the one on a conventional bike.

Rearing Leaves For Men

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Businesses that grant leaves of absences for women workers to raise children must also give such leaves to men if they request it, the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission has ruled.

A few businesses in Pennsylvania now give women up to a year's leave to raise their children. The commission said the same policy must now apply to men.

The term is important because it takes pregnancy out of a special category and puts it on the level of sick leave.

"This is an important advance," said Marie Keeney, director of the state commission for women. "Many men would like to participate in raising their children and now more will have that opportunity."

Employers who provide sick leave must now give the same benefits to a woman who has miscarried, had an abortion or is giving birth.

Under the new regulations, firms cannot refuse to hire a woman because she is pregnant.

The new policy also means an end to mandatory maternity leave for pregnant employes.

Pies, Puddings from Spring Apples

By HILDA BEASTALL

Apples are not a prime fruit for May, but we see them in market displays and hope they will have the old summer tang. We find the skins are rather tough, but some apple varieties make fair eating even now.

Before the few pounds are finished I like to make an apple pie, an apple pudding and apple pancakes.

These recipes are popular again in late summer and fall when local apple trees are again in production.

Bacon apple pie is a good picnic dish for a May outing, or for Sunday evening supper anywhere. The pastry can be either hot water pastry (which I shall give again soon) or yeast dough pastry (given two weeks ago) both can be made ahead of baking the pie.

BACON APPLE PIE

Pastry for 2-crust pie.
2 or 3 slices cooked bacon, drained of fat
2 cups peeled and sliced apples
2 tbsp demerara sugar
1 tbsp fresh chopped angelica leaf OR
1 1 tsp dried angelica
¼ tsp ground ginger
2 tsp lemon juice OR fresh lemon balm leaves

Heat oven to fairly hot, 205 deg. Celsius.

Line an 8 or 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Arrange apple slices; sprinkle with sugar, angelica, giner, lemon juice or lemon balm leaves.

Brown in fairly hot oven at 205 deg. C. for 10 minutes; lower to moderate at 177 deg. C. for 20 minutes or until apples are tender and pastry is cooked. Serves 4 or 5.

This is an oldtime winter farm recipe from the state of Maine. A well flavored bacon makes a delicious apple pie.

Next is apple bread pudding for people who still have stale bread accumulate. Use the crusts too, preferably of wholewheat bread. If no stale bread, have it at least a day old. Wheat germ and non instant skim milk powder help to boost nutrients in this recipe.

If soft bread is used, the soaking is eliminated, and the liquid is poured over the second layer of bread.

APPLE BREAD PUDDING

4 cups stale bread
4 cups peeled sliced apples
¾ cup seedless raisins
¼ cup soft margarine
2 tbsp demerara sugar
¼ tsp salt
½ cup non instant skim milk powder
¼ cup water

Grease a 1½-quart casserole. Put in half the bread. Top with half the sliced apple and half the raisins.

Cream the margarine with sugar, salt and milk powder. Spread half this mixture over the apple mixture.

Add remaining ingredients in layers, ending with margarine mixture.

If water was not used for soaking bread, pour it over the second layer of bread.

Bake at 177 deg. C. for about 45 minutes until apples are fork tender and top is well browned. Serve with homemade yogurt.

Apple pancakes have been favorites in apple growing countries for years. What better way to use some of the last of these winter stored fruits? Or some of the less than perfect apples we naturally get on home garden trees?

Make the pancakes a nourishing treat for Sunday breakfast.

Nothing more than a glass of orange juice and perhaps a cup of coffee is needed. These can be "baked" in an electric skillet or a frypan like scones, or baked on a cookie sheet in a fairly hot oven at 190 deg. C. for 20 minutes. Serves 3.

APPLE PANCAKES

¼ cup wholewheat flour
1 tbsp wheat germ
1 tbsp soy flour
¼ tsp baking powder
¼ tsp salt
3 eggs, small, separated
1 tbsp demerara sugar
one-third cup milk from powdered skim
1 tbsp fresh lemon juice and pulp
1½ cups finely diced, peeled apples soft margarine or soy oil for pan

Sift dry ingredients into mixing bowl.

Pour lemon juice over apples as they are diced to prevent vitamin loss.

Beat yolk mixture into flour mix. Fold in egg whites and apples.

Melt margarine or soy oil in electric skillet and heat. Drop batter by spoon into small heaps. Brown for about 8 minutes on one side; turn and brown other side.

Serve hot with a squeeze of lemon juice and a little honey or a few grains of sugar if wanted.

Teachers To Attend P.E. Session

Four hundred B.C. teachers will attend a conference on the teaching of physical education to be held at the University of Victoria June 12 to 14.

Guest speakers will be Dr. John Meagher, assistant to the president at the University of New Brunswick, and Dr. Murray Smith of the physical education faculty at the University of Alberta.

Mini-workshops in games, rhythmics and dance, gymnastics, fitness, intramurals, and alternative or innovative programs are planned.

Sponsoring the conference are UVic, Camosun College, the local branch of the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the Physical Education Society of B.C., and the B.C. Teachers' Federation Provincial Specialists Association.

Preschool Swim Program At Y

The YMCA will conduct a preschool swim program during June.

Parents can participate with each child (walking to five years of age) in a "learn-to-have-fun-in-water" program, designed not to give swimming lessons but to introduce the water environment in a positive manner to the child. Lessons will be held every Wednesday and Friday from 1:30 to 2 p.m.

There will also be a "diapergym and swim" program where parents can participate with each child (walking to 23 months). Classes run from 2:20 to 4:45 p.m. each Wednesday and Friday.

Each session will be conducted or supervised by the YMCA pre-school director with a team of trained adult leaders.

For registration or further information, contact the YMCA.

Discards Needed at Laurel House

Nita Davidson, Monique Templeton with handicrafts

elizabeth forbes

Do you have, somewhere in your basement or up in that storeroom under the roof, an upright vacuum cleaner that still works and that you don't need?

Perhaps a small kiln for firing pottery that you once used and have now discarded? Or a loom, small or large (but preferably a four-peddle) if you happen to have one stored away?

Any one or all of those three things would be more than welcome if donated to Laurel House, 1450 Elford Street, where as many as 180 people, in ages from 16 to the 80s, gather from week to week, to increase their skills, meet with others like themselves and to gradually move back into a normal life routine.

You don't have a vacuum cleaner, a kiln or a loom to give away?

Well, how about some of your spare time? That is if you like people, have a certain ability in passing on what you know and you are interested in working with those less fortunate than yourself.

Laurel House is a Canadian Mental Health Association Centre. It's named for the laurel hedge that surrounds it.

It offers "home surroundings," as staff director Nita Davidson puts it, and social, recreational and rehabilitation service to those who have suffered through emotional strains of one kind or another.

"Please don't get us confused with centres for the retarded," Mrs. Davidson pleaded when I talked to her the other day.

"Our people are not retarded. They have merely been unfortunate in having to face some form of emotional stress. They have been treated for these stresses and now are working their way back to normal living."

Mostly they are referred to the centre through social workers, nurses, doctors, and occasionally through concerned people who know of someone who is lonely and depressed and in need of being with others and doing things in a group.

Some are there almost every day, others only until they get regular work. Some return if they are laid off work.

It's a come-and-go place that welcomes, helps, instils confidence and gives training where possible.

The day I visited Laurel House it was a busy place. In the spotlessly clean kitchen women were making cookies, home-made soup and preparing for afternoon tea which is looked forward to by everyone.

In an alcove off the main living room, Mrs. Davidson was discussing current events and answering the questions of an interested group of men and women of all ages.

Arts and crafts were in full swing upstairs, under the kindly eyes of Monique Templeton, who is the one who hopes to find a kiln and a loom through this column.

There men and women were hooking rugs, knitting, crochetting, doing basketry, painting, potting, making toy animals and other novelties and a host of other things.

Over in the annex basement there's a woodworking room where chairs, tables and other articles of furniture are being turned out. Upstairs, in that annex, there's a job contracting room.

"We take on work for various business firms, such as stuffing enveelopes, preparing pamphlets and packaging," Mrs. Davidson said.

All articles made by those who work at the centre are for sale, not only at Laurel House but in the Eric Martin Institute gift shop and through other outlets in the city.

Nita Davidson explained that after small costs are deducted, "all the money goes to those who make the articles that sell. We have a payday twice a month . . . it's exciting!"

Other programs provided at the centre include group outings, drama, yoga sessions, social evenings and a special two-hour gathering, once a week, for young mothers "who are more or less housebound". This is in a comfortable basement room where they can relax and talk.

Laurel House is open Monday to Friday, each week from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., also Tuesday and Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

Anyone interested may visit during those hours, see what is going on, talk to Mrs. Davidson, other staff members, Doug Ramsfield and Dave Williaons, or to the volunteers who are co-ordinated by Mrs. Noreen Van Essen.

Let me say here that more volunteers are needed. So, if you have a few hours free and you are looking for something worthwhile to do with those hours, drop in and see if you could help.

And don't forget to look in that storeroom under the roof or the glory-hole in your basement.

Remember — an upright vacuum cleaner, a small kiln or a four-heddle loom, discarded in your home, could be put to practical use at Laurel House.

Sugar Price Drops But Not Baked Goods

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The recent drop in the prices of sugar and shortening will not lead to cheaper baked goods but merely provide a pause in retail price increases, bakers say.

Since January the price of sugar has fallen by almost 90 per cent and the price of shortening has dropped by about 20 per cent but the declines are being offset by increases in wage rates.

Bakers never did recover the full rise in sugar or shortening prices, said Victori Ursaki, president of Weston Bakeries Ltd., Toronto. Baking industry labor settlements are running above the national average.

He said Weston, which markets across Canada, has no intention of either raising or lowering prices in the near future.

Donald Hickinbottom, president of Easter Bakeries of Saint John, N.B., said any future increases are likely to depend on the level of wage settlements.

His company is currently negotiating one contract and has three more to complete by September.

R. G. Huggett, merchandising manager in British Columbia for Winnipeg-based Canada Safeway Ltd., said packaging and distribution costs are also mounting.

Western Canada had bread price increases of one to two cents a loaf March 19 and his region has no thoughts of lowering prices, he said.

Labor makes up about 35 per cent of the delivered cost of a loaf of bread, the baker said. Sugar accounts for about 12 per cent and shortening about three per cent.

Breast Cancer Treatment Improved

TORONTO (CP) — Breast cancer treatment has been improved by a new technique to pinpoint the lymph nodes, says Dr. Gunes Ege, a nuclear medicine specialist.

She told the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Radiologists that the position of lymph nodes around the breast bone can vary markedly from person to person.

Lymph nodes lie along the lines of lymphatic circulation that form a network for the body's defensive system.

If breast cancer has spread to the lymph nodes in the chest, the nodes are subjected to radiation to prevent further spread through the lymph system.

The problem is the radiation beam may miss the nodes in as many as 35 per cent of the patients, she said, because the radiotherapist has had no way of knowing their exact position.

Dr. Ege said now the nodes can be located on a scanning device after radioactive technetium is injected into the abdominal muscles below the rib cage. The technetium settles in the nodes and shows up on the scanner.

Dr. Ege heads the department of nuclear medicine at Princess Margaret Hospital, Toronto.

WHEELS

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike:

I have a beautiful 1958 Cadillac hardtop sedan. The engine uses quite a bit of oil, and mechanical upkeep is getting expensive. I now have $1,600 in the car. The body is perfect, and I like the styling very much. Would it be possible to put the 1958 body on a later chassis? I'm interested in trouble-free driving, not keeping the car pure 1958 Cad. What Caddy chassis of the early 1970s will take the 1958 body? — Hoping.

Dear Hoping: I'm afraid you don't realize that a body swap like this costs thousands of dollars — I'd estimate between $5,000 and $10,000. You'd almost be better off buying a new Cadillac, or at least a "pre-owned" one. I'm aware that's not an answer to your question, and I can't answer it except to plead with you not to attempt your proposed body swap.

Dear Mike:

Does a cruise control device make for better gas mileage? — Wondering.

Dear Wondering:

Very little, if any at all. It's around town that you use the most gasoline — stop-and-go driving. Out on the highway, even without cruise control, most people use a steady, gentle foot on the accelerator. So unless you're one of those nervous drivers who constantly changes pedal position out on the highway, you and the cruise control ought to get about the same mileage at a steady (say) 50 mph.

Dear Mike:

The heat won't shut off in my 1970 Buick — or at least heat comes out 90 per cent of the time. I didn't mind in cold weather, but now that it's warming up I'm starting to sweat. The selector switch position makes no difference.

HOT

Dear Hot:

I suspect it's a clogged or broken vacuum line to your heater door.

Dear Mike.

The corrugated paper tube that connects the heat stove with the aircleaner broke on my 1970 Camaro 350 V-8. Can any damage come from running the car without this tube? —Busted.

Dear Busted:

Eventually, yes, because your engine will take longer to warm up each morning. More wear takes place during an engine's relatively short cold cycle than running it warm for much, much longer periods. So anything you can do to speed warmup makes the engine last longer. This tube is cheap to replace and easy to install, so I suggest you do.

Got It Made at 80

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I's sure you get a lot of poems about yourself, but you recently published one from a 91-year-old lady because you were impressed with the fact that she was 91.

We oldsters sure get away with a lot just because we've managed to keep breathing longer tham most folks. I have just celebrated my 80th birthday, and I've got it made.

If you forget someone's name or an appointment or what you said yesterday, just explain that you are 80, and you will be forgiven. If you spill soup on your tie or forget to shave half your face or take another man's hat by mistake or promise to mail a letter and carry it around in your pocket for two weeks, say, "I'm 80, you know," and nobody will say a thing.

You have a perfect alibi for everything when you're 80. If you act silly, you're in your second childhood.

Being 80 is much better than being 70. At 70, people are mad at you for everything, but if you make it to 80, you can talk back, argue, disagree and insist on having your own way because everybody thinks you are getting a little soft in the head.

They say that life begins at 40. Not true. If you ask me, life begins at 80.

GOT IT MADE AT 80

DEAR GOT: You are beautiful. Thanks for a dandy day-brightener.

DEAR ABBY: My husband commited suicide and left me with a tiny baby.

When people learn that I am a widow, they ask, "What happened to your husband? Cancer? Heart? Or did he die in an accident?"

Abby, I just can't bring myself to tell them that he committed suicide, so I say, "He was sick and died." (He had been under the care of a psychiatrist, so that he could be called an illness, couldn't it?)

What should I tell my child when he is old enough to understand?

Please help me, Abby. I have no one else to ask.

YOUNG WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: The truth is always best. Simply say that your husband was ill (it's true, he was), and he took his own life.

DEAR ABBY: I have an 18-year-old daughter who has a beautiful baby girl.

My daughter and her husband are getting a divorce because he is so immature, there is just no hope for him. (She went back to him twice for the baby's sake, but even the marriage counselor told her to leave him for good.)

My daughter's mother-in-law wants to adopt the baby. She even offered my daughter $2,000 cash for it! My daughter wants to keep her baby, of course, and the baby's father doesn't want it. He wants his mother to have it.

What do you think about a grandmother who would try to buy her grandchild for adoption?

MARSHALL, TEXAS

DEAR MARSHALL: Not much. In fact, there are laws against buying and selling babies. Your daughter is under no obligation to consider such a proposition.

"Next can we stop at a hamburger station?"

The Bridge Expert

In today's deal we have another example of a declarer who fell victim to the lure of an unnecessary finesse; and, as a result, lost a vulnerable game. Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♥.

After West's king of hearts had won the opening lead, he shifted to the deuce of clubs. The board's nine was put up, covered by East's ten, and captured by South's king. Declarer then cashed the ace and king of trumps, gathering in the outstanding pieces.

Hoping the West's club lead at trick two had been away from the queen, declarer now led the three of clubs, intending to finesse dummy's jack. When West discarded a heart on this lead, declarer's cause was lost. At the conclusion of play, the defenders had made one heart trick, two diamonds and one club.

Although West might well have been the possessor of the club queen, it was wrong for declarer to have led a club at trick five, intending to finesse. Instead, after ruffing a heart, he should have cashed the diamond ace, after which he would have led another diamond.

As can be observed, it would not have mattered which opponent won the second diamond lead. The best that that opponent could have done would have been to have led another diamond, which would have been won by one of the defenders.

If West won the third diamond lead, he would have had no choice but to return either a heart or a diamond. And whichever of these two suits he led would be ruffed in dummy as South simultaneously discarded his losing club on the trick. And if East won the third diamond lead, a heart return by him would enable South to get rid of his losing club as he ruffed the trick in dummy. If, instead, East played back a club, the board's jack would win the trick via a "free" finesse.

In theory, if West, after capturing one of the diamond leads, had led a club (on some other day), then declarer would really have had no option but to insert the board's jack, hoping the West possessed the queen. But the point of this deal is, simply: why go out of your way to take a finesse when it might not be necessary to take it?

GARDENING

Flowering Annuals Fast, Colorful

The planting of flowering annuals is the most popular way of getting temporary color into a new garden.

Now is the time to buy a few dozen started plants, some having buds or flowers already showing. Given the necessary care during summer, a continuous display goes on into September.

The plants die or cease flowering as cool fall weather settles in; you pull them up, to add to the compost heap to rot down as humus. Next spring you either buy more annual plants, or you make a more permanent purchase of perennial plants or shrubs.

Suppose you buy snapdragons this week. They will bloom all summer, even going on to the end of September if you look after them.

Before buying decide what height you want the plants to reach. There are three-foot high varieties, or dwarfs no more than nine inches. In between are the most desirable kinds for average conditions.

Snapdragons (they may be labelled antirrhinums at the garden centre) like a fair amont of sunlight, but do not flower well in full sun if the summer is a hot one. Even copius watering in really hot weather does not induce better flowering, but the plants will bloom when cooler days come.

To get the best effect buy two or three separate colors, not one lot of mixed. Choose colors you like, such as rich pink, pure white and a deep red; or a golden bronze, a yellow and dark red.

In the garden, plant three of one color nine inches apart in a triangle; the next group being three of another color; and so on wherever you want the plants to be growing.

By this means, you get the effect of a small mass of one color in one place, and thoughout the area where you plant the colors will be harmonious or contrasting enough to be pleasant to look at. You get value for your garden dollars in other words.

The way to keep snapdragons constantly in bloom is to cut off the flower stems before more than two or three seed pods for at the bottom of the flower stem. These can be trimmed, cut down and used for lovely bowls of flowers in the house.

By taking off the stems promptly, other side stems form and flower. You will have a half dozen stems blooming at one time on each plant if you follow this system of care.

Snaps in common with other plants need a humusy soil to hold moisture around the roots,watering at the roots deeply) once a week and one light feeding of 6-8-6 fertilizer in solution about the first of August.

As a summer bedding plant, snapdragons give good value. Look for strong sturdy plants, get the colors you want, and plant carefully so that they do not wilt from disturbance of roots.

The quantity of temporary color brought to your garden will delight you, and there will be the ample cutting of half finished spikes for the house. A bargain all the way.

TWO MORE SUITS FOR STONEHOUSE

LONDON (AP) — Britain's high court has issued two more claims totalling $575,000 against runaway British Labor MP John Stonehouse, now in Australia facing extradition charges, an informed source said.

That brought the number of lawsuits against Stonehouse, 49, to eight, involving about $1.35 million.

Stonehouse is scheduled to appear in court in Melbourne today on extradition charges.

Meanwhile, Labor party officials in Walsall, the town Stonehouse still legally represents in Parliament, are screening 200 possible candidates to take over from Stonehouse who last year disappeared on a Miami, Fla., beach and later turned up in Australia. The final choice will be made June 6.

The House of Commons has moved to expel Stonehouse "for abandoning his parliamentary duties." But in the last week, Stonehouse has mailed three parliamentary questions from Australia in an apparent bid to save his seat and the parliamentary privileges that could save him from being deported from Australia.

Thief Locks Taxi Driver In Car Trunk

An Esquimalt-Saanich taxi driver used a pair of vise grips to escape from the trunk of his taxi after being locked there by a knife-wielding thief Friday night.

John Lewis Garland, 1483 Edgeware, said he was robbed of $100, a wallet containing his ID and a gold ladies' lighter about 11:30 p.m., Friday, in Colwood by a man about six feet tall with long brown hair.

Garland told police the man, who was carrying a hunting knife with a seven-inch blade, then forced him into the trunk of the taxi.

He used the vise grips to unlock the trunk from the inside.

Whipping Rope Injures Worker

A 61-year-old Victoria construction worker flung 10 feet by a tight rope when it snapped this morning was in satisfactory condition at Victoria General Hospital with suspected neck and back injuries.

The man whose name was not released had been working near Fishermen's Wharf when the broken rope struck him. He was unconscious when rescuers picked him out of the mud on the beach where he fell below the project.

Ministers Study Fish Boat Deaths

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Federal Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc says he and Transport Minister Jean Marchand are reviewing reports on accidents that claimed the lives of 13 west coast herring fishermen this spring.

LeBlanc said he is prepared to seek tougher safety regulations on fishboats and more frequent vehicle inspection.

LeBlanc is holding a series of meetings in the northwest of the province, including one at Smithers to meet sports fishing representatives and native Indians.

On Friday, Bryon Wright, a spokesman for the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association of B.C., told LeBlanc increasing demands by natives threaten the fishing industry.

Cliff Levelton, chief Canadian negotiator in Salmon talks being held with the U.S., said Canada is changing its position to accommodate B.C. demands that any agreement focus on the numbers of fish intercepted by each country.

"Our position has been to put a freeze on the rate of interception in terms of absolute numbers of fish," he said.

Levelton also said the Canadian position is that "we should allow no future U.S. investment in the Fraser and that Canada should reap all future benefits from the Fraser."

LeBlanc said the government must promote fish as a food in Canada by maintaining high quality at competitive prices.

U.K. TRIP FOR BARRETT

KELOWNA (CP) — Premier Dave Barrett said Saturday he will go to England in the middle of June to discuss a proposed provincial oil refinery with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

The Premier, speaking on an open line radio program, said he'll stop first in New York where he has commitments regarding recent B.C. Hydro bond sales.

Barrett said if his meeting with Wilson goes well, a decision may be made on the refinery soon after he returns from his trip.

Thomson Newspapers Offer New Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thomson B.C. Newspapers Ltd. has presented a contract offer to about 60 members of the Vancouver Typographical Union, Local 226, employed at five B.C. newspapers, a union spokesman said Sunday.

Ed Fairbairn, union president, said the contract offer was presented to union representatives at a brief meeting in Kelowna, Saturday. He said the union's members would be studying the contract proposal this week and it was not sure a membership vote would be scheduled.

Fairbairn said no details of the offer will be released until the union membership studies it.

Blockade Threatened

CHASE (CP) — Members of the Neskonlith Indian Band, who set up a road block near here last week, said Sunday they will blockade the Trans-Canada Highway if the B.C. governments does not negotiate Indian land claims.

About 25 band members set up the blockade last Wednesday on a road leading to a provincial park near this community, 60 miles east of Kamloops.

Chief Joe Manuel said Sunday the tribe had been threatened by two car loads of young men who appeared at the roadblock. He said the men told the Indians they would return with guns.

'Racism' Protested

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 40 persons attended a meeting Sunday organized by the International Committee Against Racism to protest "the government's phoney hearings on its racist green paper."

A parliamentary committee's hearings on the green paper on immigration start here today.

G. S. Rampuri told the group it frequently takes two years or longer to have East Indian immigration applications processed. He said one application was delayed so long, it had to be made again, but the second application was also delayed until it became invalid.

Fine Money Owed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. government is owed about $153,000 in fines because of recently introduced provincial legislation, Ald. Helen Boyce said Sunday.

Mrs. Boyce blamed the situation on the Summary Convictions Act, which prohibits the jailing of people who habitually don't pay fines usually levied for municipal bylaw infractions.

The alderman, who heads the city's bylaw enforcement committee, said in an interview the act, passed about a year ago, is causing municipalities hardships because they can't collect fines, adding Vancouver is owed about $1,000.

MAN FALLS 8 STORIES

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The owner of a recently-completed apartment buidlng fell eight floors to his death Saturday when he tried to secure a sign from a top-floor balcony.

Police said Herbert Oscar Schmidt, 56, of nearby Coquitlam, had hung a canvas banner from ropes across the top floor of the buiding. High winds had frayed the ropes and Schmidt was trying to tighten the sign.

The spokesman said he was standing on a balcony supported by two boards which broke. Schmidt grabbed the ropes and his body smashed against the building before falling to the ground.

He was dead on arrival at hospital.

MONTREAL (CP) — CAE Electronics Ltd. has been hired by Eastern Provincial Airways to develop and manufacture a Boeing 737 aircraft flight simulator for training crews. The simulator, the airline's first at its flight training centre in Halifax, will cost about $2 million.

Klan Draws 40 For Fiery Cross, Red Flag Burning

GAMBER, Md. (WP). — The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan marched around a fiery cross and symbolically burned "the flag of communism" here Sunday to climax a rally that drew 40 members and sympathizers to a cold and soggy hilltop.

The cross-burning, which was accompanied by records of "God Bless America" and "The Old Rugged Cross," followed speeches that deplored integration, crime, "forced busing," "socialism," "communism," and the alleged misrepresentation of the Klan by the news media.

As the flames reached the top of the 100-foot cross, Tony La Ricci, the Grand Dragon of the Maryland Knights of the KKK, said, "There it is folks, the most beautiful sight in the world — a flaming cross."

The rhetoric throughout the raw and drizzly afternoon was larded with slurs against blacks and Jews and with appeals to patriotism and Christianity.

The ceremonies began with the pledge of allegiance to the flag, and those "who do not wish to participate in this" were invited by La Ricca to leave. Later, mimeographed "flags of communism" were passed out for ritual burning at the close, and those who did not wish to participate in that also were invited to leave.

In his main address, La Ricci, who wore the green robes of his office, said the news media had portrayed the Klan as a "terrorist organization."

"We're not terrorists," he said. "We're not violent, although we can be violent in defence of our rights and our country.

"In the 1920s and '30s," he said, "the Klan played a great role in shaping the country. The time has come for the Klan to play a great role again in shaping the country."

The rally was held on a hill overlooking well-kept diary farms outside of this tiny community in Carroll County 25 miles northwest of Baltimore. Klanswomen sold coffee and other refreshments from a small table under tarpaulin next to the portable speaker's stand, and children, some of them in Klan robes, handed out literature and membership cards.

RADIO SLANTED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials say the tax-supported Voice of America has abandoned its tradition of uncensored reporting and now manages the news to reflect U.S. policy.

"I would hope the people who work for VOA understand that they work for the government of the United States of America," deputy director Eugene Kopp of the U.S. Information Agency told a house government operations subcommittee last week.

The hearing confirmed that the VOA — prompted sometimes by the U.S. Embassy in Saigon — censored or suppressed from its overseas newscasts much news about the fall of allied Southeast Asian governments.

WOMEN ESCAPE PRISON

CORDOBA, Argentina (AFP) — Twenty-six women guerrillas including two leaders of the leftist People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) escaped from prison here Saturday night in a spectacular operation involving dozens of accomplices, incendiary bombs and a traffic jam.

Shortly before midnight, about 15 people drew a large police force to the centre of this city, 400 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, by putting up barricades and blocking traffic.

A heavy truck drew up to a wall of the prison, several men swiftly attached steel cables to one of the prison windows and pulled the window down with the truck.

They threw ropes up to the opening and 26 women prisoners slid down, climbed into waiting cars and sped away.

Victoria Posties Vote to Settle

Victoria letter carriers voted nearly 95 per cent in favor of accepting a conciliation report providing for a 30-month contract, $1.70 an hour wage hike and cost of living allowance (COLA), union president Bill Steele said today.

Letter carriers across the country voted last week on the proposed settlement and were to have a national voting result today or Tuesday.

Victoria members of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada followed the recommendation of their executive and negotiating committee in accepting the conciliation report by a margin of 199-13.

In Vancouver, the executive recommended against acceptance, but the membership is understood to have passed the proposal by 53 per cent majority.

Victoria president Steele said the 30-month term is long, but this is partly mitigated by the COLA clause providing for cumulative adjustments based on quarterly rises in the consumer price index.

He hoped for a period of stability in this sector of the postal service.

Meanwhile inside the post office there were normal operations today on the heels of mass absenteeism through an outbreak last week of "Mackasey 'flu" in post offices across the country.

Canadian Union of Postal Workers stayed away "sick" to protest lagging contract negotiations with the Treasury Board. The union's nine-member board is meeting in Ottawa with board officials today.

There was some difference of opinion about whether the absentees would be arequired to show proof of illness.

Local post office spokesman Buzz Sawyer said people who have been absent are asked to state their reasons and sign a form on their return to work. In addition the post office may require a doctor's certificate, but no such request has been made, he said.

About 20 Victoria and 75 Vancouver post office workers were off the job Friday, causing a backlog of mail to be handled today.

The only remaining trouble spot appeared to be Quebec. In Montreal postal workers engaged in sorting mail did not show up for work today after booking off sick.

The spokesman said nothing was moving at the main post office but work was being carried out normally in other Montreal-area postal stations.

Members of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal workers voted Sunday night to book off sick for 24 hours to protest the suspensions of fellow workers.

Meanwhile, 322 postal workers reported sick in Quebec City, a post office department spokesman said, while 88 others were off work in Cap-de-la-Madelaine, Trois-Rivieres, Chicoutimi, Port Alfred, Bagotville, Jonquiere-Kenogami, Alma, Loreteville and Baie Comeau.

Lebanon Premier Ousted

Times News Services

BEIRUT — Moslem oppostion forced Lebanon's first military premier in 32 years to resign today after only three days in power.

Gunfire and grenade explosins continued during the night, and police said most of it came from left-wing Moslem Lebanese militiamen trying to drive Rifaiout out of office.

About 100 persons have been killed in the street fighting and about 300 have been wounded, say unofficial police counts.

Meanwhile, Lebanese and Israeli artillery roared into action again today near the border village of Aita Ash-Shaab, scene of a battle Sunday in which Israeli planes raided Lebanon for the first time in almost six months.

A Lebanese military spokesman said a 100-man Israeli force entered the outskirts of the village and came under Lebanese artillery fire.

In another development, King Khaled of Saudi Arabia said Saturday his nation would concede Israel's right to exist in its pre-1967 borders in return for total Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands occupied in 1967 and the establishment of a Palestinian state between Israel and Jordan.

Khaled became the first Saudi ruler to declare explicitly that his deeply conservative nation would accept Israel's existence.

MIDWAY FRAUD CHARGED

Dennis Martin Melcher of Portland, Ore., is charged with defrauding the public of money in connection with a ring toss game. Police said the rings used in the game did not fit over the bottles they were being tossed at.

Police said the charge aganst Plumley stems from a game in which contestants tried to knock over several milk bottles with a ball. One of the bottles weighed 15 pounds.

The three are scheduled to appear in court today.

$150M Cargo 'Joke'

MONTREAL (CP) — A Vietnamese refugee identifying herself as Dao Diep Khanh expressed surprise today that a shipment addressed to her contained art pieces appraised at $150 million.

"As far as I know there are only some personal belongings, a few paintings and small furnishings," she said in a telephone interview. "This has got to be some sort of a joke."

A shipment of art treasures, being held by U.S. authorities, was discovered in crates aboard a Vietnamese refugee ship in Guam. The crates were addressed to Dao Diep Khanh, in care of a Vimy Street address in Montreal, which is the home of her father, Dao Van Nien.

An earlier report, based on a radio interview through a translator, had identified Dao Diep Kranh as the father instead of the daughter.

Her father had said he was expecting a shipment of art left behind with a relative in Saigon and thought it had been lost following the fall of that city.

Dao Diep Khanh said her father's statement about expecting a shipment of art apparently evolved out of confusion because he speaks no English and poor French.

She said she had been in Montreal with her baby for a month but declined to give any further information about herself or her family, saying they want to be left alone.

Meanwhile North Vietnam today demanded the return of the freighter and its cargo.

The North Vietnam news agency, quoting the official Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan, said Hanoi demanded the return of the cargo on grounds it was the property of the Vietnamese people.

'STRONGEST' QUAKE HITS

MADRID (UPI) — The world's strongest earthquake in recent years shook the Atlantic Ocean floor between the Azores and the Iberian peninsula today, sending some island resident fleeing into the streets and sparking early fears of a tidal wave.

There were no immediate reports of casualties or serious damage several hours after the 5:12 a.m. EDT quake.

Markus Baath, the director of the seismological institute in Uppsala, Sweden, said the quake reached 7.9 on the open-end Richter scale.

Unanimous Support For Liberal Leader

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

An emotional, cheering crowd of party faithful gave unanimous approval to a resolution pledging Anderson full support in his role as party leader.

Anderson had demanded the vote Saturday after one federal Liberal MP called for his resignation and a group of delegates attending the two-day policy convention began quietly pushing for a leadership challenge.

In a dinner address Saturday evening Anderson said he thought approval earlier in the day of a motion rejecting any coalition with other political parties indicated the party endorsed his leadership policies. But the remarks of Vancouver-Kingsway MP Simma Holt had again raised the question of his mandate as leader, he said.

The jeers turned to applause when Anderson said he welcomed a leadership challenge and the delegates jumped to their feet for a standing ovation when Anderson said he wanted to be leader as long as he had their support.

The prospect of a leadership challenge at the Liberals' September convention would make his work in the next few months almost impossible, he said, and so he called for an immediate formal vote of support.

"I'm not doing this as an attempt to force you to support me, you can vote as you wish.

"But I want to work just as hard as I can and to help you just as hard as I can, riding by riding," he said.

A long, loud standing ovation followed the leader's speech and while there were still a few unhappy faces, no dissenting voices were heard Sunday morning when the confidence motion was passed.

Eleven delegates spoke on the motion and all praised Anderson for his work during troubled times.

"I'm fed up with the constant naggin and backbiting. The soul-destroying, party destroying things that have been giing on in this party in B.C. for 10 years," said one delegate.

"No sooner do we elect a leader than we bring out the knives and start carving him up.

"Only a small handful of people are doing this now. There are no leadership aspirants waiting in the wings. This time let's cconfirm his leadership and be done with it," he said.

One man said the Liberals were lucky to have "such a great British Columbian who is also a great Canadian." Another member from the University of B.C. said Anderson has "been working harder than physically possible for the Liberals."

The sole remaining Liberal MLA, Gordon Gibson, who received standing ovations whenever he took the floor, closed debate by saying:

"It's very clear that David Anderson has the strong support of this convention and I want to add that he has the strong support of his caucus."

With those words the delegates jumped to their feet once again, waving their voting cards to give unanimous approval to the motion.

Anderson took the podium and said never in his "wildest

Penalize Parents Of Delinquents, Wallace Suggests

Irresponsible parents should be co-penalized with juvenile delinquents, Oak Bay Tory Scott Wallace said today.

He said the provincial government should study a penalty that clearly involves irresponsible parents when dealing with a small percentage of juvenile delinquents.

Wallace was speaking in debate on the attorney-general's $15 million departmental spending estimates.

The Conservatives, he said, feel there is a deterioration of parental responsibility and a growing number of juvenile delinquents who are picked up by police are taken to vacant homes where parents are absent in fact or responsibility.

Attorney-General Alex Macdonald responded by saying he is "very concerned" not so much about disrespect for the law but about disrespect for other people in society.

He said it was a sign of our times that people don't accept the law as it applies to them but they expect other people to respect the law.

He said the new federal juvenile offenders legislation will have to look at responsibility and accountability for parents.

He also pointed out that the jail population in B.C. is down to about 1,800 from about 2,000 when the NDP took office.

The reduction is because of a sorting out of prisoners who are dangerous and those who can be channelled into minimum security programs, he said.

Debate marked the first day of the legislature's morning sittings in committee of supply, an exercise that lasts two hours for discussion of the 213 spending estimates to be approved.

About half of the government members were in attendance and opposition benches had a slightly better showing.

Opposition Leader Bill Bennett, who spent most of last week recuperating from a spinal fracture he suffered while was back in his seat.

The first consideration was a $27.5 million vote for corrections branch financing.

RUSH TO BURN DOCUMENTS AT EMBASSY

VIENTIANE (AP) — United States embassy personnel accelerated the burning of documents today and their marine guards moved their pistols and riot-gas supplies to safer upstairs storage areas as anti-American feeling mounted in this capital of Laos.

There were no flights today in the charter airlift that has reduced the U.S. community in Laos to about 350 from close to 1,000. But more evacuees left on commercial and embassy supply flights.

Leniency for Pot Possession?

OTTAWA (CP) — A Senate committee is likely to recommend Tuesday that simple possession of marijuana be treated as a minor offence punishable by fines.

The legal and constitutional affairs committee will report on the bill after four months of public and private hearings.

At private meetings which ended today, the committee has dealt with a number of proposed amendments to the bill, which would shift marijuana offences from the tough Narcotics Control Act to the Food and Drug Act.

Possession under the Narcotics Control Act means a fine of up to $1,000 or six months in jail for a first offence. The maximum fine under the proposed law would be $500, with jail only if the fine wasn't paid.

Sources close to the committee said the committee probably will amend the bill to remove the three-year minimum prison term for importing marijuana.

The maximum would become 14 years less a day rather than 14 years, because a pardon cannot be granted on a sentence of 14 years or more.

Currently the minimum sentence for importing is seven years and the maximum is life.

The committee may change the bill's maximum of 10 years for trafficking to 14 years less a day. The maximum for trafficking now is life.

Both importing and trafficking could be treated as summary offences as well, the maximum for importing being two years and the maximum for trafficking being a $1,000 fine or 18 months in jail or both.

The penalties are all tougher than those proposed by the LeDain commission on non-medical use of drugs. The LeDain commission proposed no prohibition against possession and some senators on the committee appeared to favor this idea.

Sex and the Socialists —Don't You Believe It

All Socialist countries or, at least, all that I've been in, are remarkably mid-Victorian in their outlook on morality, but I'm just not buying Shirley MacLaine's conclusion that sex plays no role whatever in the People's Republic of China.

In her new book, "You Can Get There from Here," Shirley writes approvingly of a society that, so she claims, has little interest in sex because there are so many other things that need to be done. She quotes a guide: "Our young people are not attracted by looks or sex appeal, but by political ideology."

"I could see for myself that in China you were able to forget about sex," Shirley concludes. "There was no commercial exploitation of sex in order to sell soap, perfume, soft drinks, soda pop or cars. The unisex uniforms also de-emphasized sexuality, and in an interesting way made you concentrate more on the individual character of a Chinese, regardless of his or her physical assets, or lack of them. Someone, somewhere, was having sex, as was proved by the statistics that 18,000,000 human beings were being born in China every year. But sex certainly didn't have highest priority."

What disturbs me about this statement is not merely that Shirley should sound so triumphant about it, but that, since I happen to think it is ridiculous, it tends to throw doubt on even those of her conclusions that I want very much to believe.

The reader, of course, must remember that Shirley came from a profession, a philosophy and a society in which sex has become a fixation.

In her profession as actress Shirley was, in fact, something of a symbol, less known for her considerable comedic abilities than for the handsomest pair of legs on the silver screen. In her philosophy as a spokes-person for the Women's Liberation movement she was very conscious that the female charms were wickedly exploited, which doubtless explains her approval of the down-playing of the sexual role in China.

Most traumatic of all, Shirley went to China directly from a culture in which sex is all but a morbid way of life. It permeates every form of communication. It is used in 10,000 ways for the selling of merchandise. Sex is, indeed, a profit-making industry, the central ingredient for sales in novels, motion-pictures, magazines, every conceivable kind of promotion. In all but the Socialist countries it is a national neurosis.

Is it any surprise, then, that Shirley — or any other North American man or woman — should be ready to believe the impossible in a society where that aspect of life has been put in its proper perspective?

"The impossible" in this case is the premise that any group of human beings may be primarily motivated by other considerations such as a political belief or a nationalistic fervor or a revolutionary spirit. Shirley, herself writes that "on a scale of ten, it (sex) probably rated about number seven." And that, I think, is sheer nonsense. In China, no less than in Victoria or in Moscow or New York or any place you care to name, sex, on any scale of ten, is number one. Always has been and always will be.

If somehow, you were to take away the motivation of love between men and women, whether it is to be expressed in a physical or a cerebral way — or, more often, both — there would be no revolutions, no ideologies, no heroes, no villains. It is what makes the world go around, the one indispensible thrust of the human spirit. Without it, existence would be meaningless and empty.

I simply do not believe that the Chinese, any more than we, could ever marry on the basis of political ideology or that the fashioning of the unisex uniform could detract, in the slightest, from the ancient mystery of a boy finding a girl or vice versa.

If this were to be true, if Shirley's over-simplification has the slightest basis in fact, if, in fact, we were seriously to consider two ways of life — one in which sex is all-pervasive and idiotically exploited, the other in which sex is deliberately down-graded and important only in the birth-rate statistics — then it would be infinitely preferable to live in the kind of world that Shirley professes to abhor.

All of the self-discipline and good intentions in the world, however admirable, would surely seem a pointless exercise without that greatest of all life's experiences, the inter-personal, enriching and ennobling relationship that exists between a man and woman.

That may or may not be the direction of the Chinese experiment, a deliberate even laudable attempt to channel the nation's energy away from the debilitating absorption with sex that exists in our world. But Shirley ought to know that it is constant, indestructible, universal drive, above every ideology, and life without it would be unthinkable.

'We Got 'Em!'

Those madcap marauders from the Malahat were up to their old tricks at Holland Point on the weekend as Victorian Days wound up.

Judging from the happy warriors at left their shooting eyes were sharp and their grapefruit guns squirting efficiently and noisily. They are Randy Youngman, cheering a direct hit, A. Scott and Wayne Youngman. Joseph Medwedrich is standing.

Malahat Maruders are a muzzle-loading shooting club which concentrates on serious competition but they live it up for the Victoria Day Parade and Victorian Days when they "battle" Canadian Navy gunners on Dallas Road.

Ex-Engineer Tops Vote In James Bay

A retired engineer and well-known James Bay resident topped the polls in Saturday's election for the first James Bay Community Resource Board.

ANOTHER DRIFTSURE

Scores Still Out There Inching Their Way Home

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

There was no fanfare as Bruce Hendrick's 50-foot cutter Warrior inched over the finish line in darkness at 1:28 a.m., becoming the first boat home.

John Buchan's Heather of Seattle was third and could win the Swiftsure on corrected time.

The three lead boats were through Race Rocks by 8:30 p.m. Sunday but an adverse tide and lack of wind slowed them almost to a standstill for hours.

It was the same story for those still trying to edge their way in today.

George O'Brien's converted 12-metre Endless Summer, the former Dame Pattie, which swept the field in 1972, will have to settle for one trophy this year, the one for first boat rounding the Swiftsure mark. She rounded at 9:39 Saturday evening, Warrior close behind. Warrior's rounding 13 minutes later.

Strong winds and a record fleet of 321 Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca boats caused havoc at the start of the race Saturday morning.

Gear was broken as boats collided. As the wind piped even higher boats were dismasted. Others had seasick crews.

The race committee was unable to give details of any winners today, even for the smaller Juan de Fuca race because of the multitude of protests which will have to be sorted out.

One locally-built boat, launched two weeks ago at Philbrook's Shipyard in Sidney gave a creditable performance in her first race. The PH 41 Lucider, designed by Stan Huntingford of West Vancouver finished Swiftsure at 4:02 a.m. today. She's owned by Al Nelson of Nanaimo. Shortly after her at 4:25 a.m. Tom Loney of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club sailed his sloop Goodbye over the finish line.

An extra strong ebb tide on Sunday killed Endless Summer's chances. Skippered by Al Sturgess, she made her way to the American side of tht Strait of Juan de Fuca only to findno sind to keep her moving.

The lead boats worked the Canadian side and managed to find enough breeze to slowly make their way along the coast in the back eddies.

The strong current spelled disaster for one Juan de Fuca boatwhen she was trying to work her way through Race Rocks around 3 a.m. on Saturday.

R. Zell's 27-foot Elan grounded when her spinnaker collapsed and the currena swept her onto the rocks. The Seattle boat was holed and her crew forced to scramble ashore.

They were picked up by the Canadian coast guard cutter Rider, which arrived 30 minutes latter.

Sunday evening, after being temporarily patched, the Elan was rescued by the tug Seaspan Escort.

Sunday's drifter brought the veteran Swiftsure campaigner Diamond Head to her knees. By early Sunday evening, her owner Henry Kotkins of Seattle had fired her engines and the 73-foot yawl, largest boat in the race, was out of contention.

Bill King's Destiny of Portland was the first boat home in the Juan de Fuca race, getting her finish gun at 1:49 Sunday morning. She may be disqualified, however, because she failed to report to the inspection officials as required.

J. D. Gonyea's Blue Fox of Tacoma followed 26 minutes later. Next came R. Fiedler's Gem of Seattle, followed 26 seconds later by B. L. Griffin's Different Drummer of Bellingham.

Two Cal 29s of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club were among those who managed to finish the Juan de Fuca classic Sunday morning before the ebb tide hit. They were Steve Merriman's Vandal II and Jack Woodward's Puff II.

Another RVYC boat that finished high up in her division in Swiftsure was R. D. McBride's Obsession. The Ranger 33 sloop, competing in division IV, finished at 7:42 a.m. this morning.

Race committee officials were reluctant to estimate how long it will be before the Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca winners will be known.

Man Won't Be Jailed In Parking Lot Death

After 19-year-old Mark Kendall pleaded guilty in B.C. Supreme Court this morning to a charge of assault causing bodily harm, arising out of a drinking incident which caused the death of another young man, Mr. Justice Harry McKay postponed sentence for four hours.

But McKay reassured Kendall, of 5178 Old West Saanich Road, that he would not be imprisoned.

Defending counsel Ken Murphy suggested the penalty be a fine or probation, for what was "just one of those very unfortunate incidents," in which a scuffle ensued outside a beer parlor and there was no indication of premeditated assault.

But Dermod Owen-Flood, prosecuting, said if such punishment was contemplated it should be of a severe nature, to get across the message that drunken brawls can have tragic consequences.

Owen-Flood said the deceased, Gordon Robert Smith, aged 20, and Kendall had been drinking separately at the Royal Oak Inn on the night of Oct. 12 last year, and had no contact with each other while inside the premises.

Kendall, who had been "drinking steadily" from about 9 p.m., left with friends at 1 a.m. by which time he was "quite drunk."

In the parking lot he saw Smith and a companion apparently obstructing a car occupied by three girls, and told Smith to leave them alone. Kendall shoved or pushed Smith, who fell backwards and struck his head on the hard surface of the parking lot.

Owen-Flood said although Kendall was trained in judo or karate, the autopsy on Smith gave no indication of injuries produced by martial arts techniques. It did disclose, however, that Smith died from a fractured skull and that he had "an unusually thin" skull.

Grievance Rules Ignored By Guards, Says BCGEU

Vancouver Island prison guards ignored grievance procedure provided for in their contract, which led to a form of trusteeship being placed on the 150-member local of B.C. Government Employees Union, business representative John Hurren said today.

Hurren said there was no term for the action of the union, but the effect was to remove financing on behalf of the Vancouver Island component, which is basically the same as trusteeship.

The BCGEU provincial executive takes the view there are no Vancouver Island local officers at present through resignations and its action in suspending financing. An election in the local was to have been completed this week.

Hurren said the union will meet tonight in Vancouver to review the situation and possibly recommend a course of action. This could include appointment of an interim executive for the Vancouver Island guards' component.

He said he intends to meet island spokesmen during the week.

Action of the union took effect Thursday night, after guards employed at Wilkinson Road Prison, Jordan River, Snowden Forestry Camp, Metchosin Farm Camp and Victoria Juvenile Detention Centre complained to a radio station about classification of auxiliary guards which they want recognized as regular employees.

After-Grad Charges

Colwood RCMP said today charges are pending following a Friday night fracas in which bottles were smashed and damage done to the Juan de Fuca arena during a high school after-graduation dance.

Police said they were called to the arena at about 12:30 a.m. and found the premises strewn with broken liquor bottles.

"We weren't called until the thing was all over," a police spokesman said. "We were aware of the event but we don't come inside unless we're called."

The spokesman said organizers of the event — not an official school function — hired a dog-equipped member of Western Home Guard to patrol the dance which followed the graduation ceremonies of Spectrum community school.

"The floor was covered with glass and broken bottles — quite a bit of liquor, some damage to washrooms but I don't know to what extent," the spokesman said. "A few charges are pending."

Spectrum principal Wally Russell said Friday's party was an after-grad party arranged privately by the students, which the school had no part in.

When asked if the Times could speak to student council president Peter Kappel, Russell said: "I suggest you find him on your own if you're going to get into that kind of journalism." He then hung up.

Kappel could not be reached this morning.

Jos Saat will go to Akron, Ohio, for the All-American

Ashcroft Boy Derby Winner

Jos Saat, 13, of Ashcroft, won the British Columbia Soap Box Derby "A" event Sunday and will represent the province at the All-American Soap Box Derby final Aug. 16 at Akron, Ohio.

Edward Jackson, 12, of Victoria, won the "B" event, and Ron Eversjn, 12, also of Victoria, won the "C" event.

Clifford Horsfall, chairman of the Victoria Jaycees which sponsors the event, said the only mishap occurred when one car went out of control and hit a spectator.

Police said Barbara Etherington, 54, was taken to hospital where she received 17 stitches to close a gash on her right leg.

Horsfall said the 25 cars entered in the race were driven by boys between the ages of 11 and 15, and some of the cars reached speeds of 50 miles an hour. The event was held on the Cloverdale Avenue hill and drew about 400 spectators.

Weins Welcomes Bretheren's Tips

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

If he could enlarge his immediate family today, Terry Weins nominates professionals John Morgan of Victoria and Ontario's Moe Norman as "my favorite brothers."

The 29-year-old Vancouver professional pocketed top money of $700 by defeating Cowichan's Bill Wakeham on the fourth hole of a sudden-death playoff. Both finished the regulation 36 holes with 144 totals.

Weins ended the playoff in dramatic fashion after the two pros bogeyed two of the first three playoff holes. On the fourth, a 216-yard par three, Weins' tee shot caught a sand trap. He exploded brilliantly from the sand to within three feet of the cup and sank the putt for a par that gave him his victory.

Wakeham also missed the green, chipped poorly and two-putted for a bogey.

It was Weins' second triumph in as many weeks. He won the Malspina Open at Powell River the previous weekend.

Weins was quick to credit Morgan and Norman for his success. Both, he said, helped him with his game "immeasurably" while they toured the Florida circuit during the past winter.

Their help, he feels, helped him to win his first tournaments as a pro.

Morgan, ironically, finished third in the weekend tournament. The first-day leader with a two-under-par 70 Saturday, Morgan ran into putting woes Sunday and counted 77 blows.

PORTLAND PRESIDENT

PORTLAND (AP) — Bob Brodhead, formerly with National Football League teams in Cleveland and Houston, has been named president of the Portland franchise in the World Football League.

Littler Happy He Showed Up

Casper's victory in New Orleans clinched a spot on the Ryder Cup team which will play Britain's best in Ligonier, Pa., this fall. He's made it every time since 1961.

Littler's victory in Memphis clinched a spot on the Ryder Cup team. He's made it every time since 1961—except for the time he was sidelined by cancer surgery.

His six-under-par closing round, including birdies on his first four holes, was the best of the warm, windy day. His total of 270 was 18 under par, a record for the 7,193-yard Colonial Country Club course.

John Mahaffey, who had to roll up a pants leg, take off a shoe and go wading after one wet, watery shot, finished off with a scrambly 71 and a 275 total for second place. It was the second time this year, and the fifth in 17 months, that he's finished second.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf tied for third at 277. Each had a 68. Nicklaus' included a birdie on the final hole while Weiskopf got off to a birdie - eagle - birdie start, went six under through six holes and then finished poorly.

Gary Player, the 1974 Memphis champion, and Lee Trevino didn't get in it. Trevino had a closing 70 for 284 and Player was well back at 286 after a last-round 74.

Ben Kern of Toronto closed with a 75 for 290 and $416.

Nicklaus won $10,325 and moved well in front of the absent Johnny Miller in the race for the season's money-winning title. Nicklaus now has $165,800, Miller $155,233. Littler's share of the $175,000 total purse was $35,000 and pushed his winnings for the year to $110,555.

JIMMY RUTLEDGE

RUTLEDGE STILL TOP JUNIOR

The youngest ever to win the City Junior crown with his triumph a year ago, Rutledge defended the championship Sunday by finishing two strokes ahead of his constant playing companion, Russ Reynolds.

Rutledge took the lead Saturday with a two-over-par 74 at Gorge Vale and wrapped up the title by finishing with a 77 Sunday at Uplands for a 151 total.

Friend and Lansdowne schoolmate Reynolds, winner of the Mid-Island title the previous weekend, finished with a 153 total on rounds of 79 and 74. He shared Sunday's low gross honors with Uplands clubmate Wayne Little.

Francois Vaillancourt of Cedar Hill, a 14 handicapper, was an easy winner of the low net title. Tied for sixth in the gross list with a 159, he came in with a net 131 to finish four shots ahead of Colwood's Ted Boomer.

Marty Emig of Victoria and Brian DeGirolamo of Gorge Vale shared third with 136 totals.

The one-two finish by Rutledge and Reynolds was tempered by the disqualification of another member of their regular playing group. Rob Lee of Uplands was disqualified when he inadvertantly signed his name to an incorrect scorecard.

Lee, who had an 81 Saturday and was allowed to play Sunday and posted a 78, called the penalty on himself, bringing it to the attention of tournament officials.

Cricket Tourists Trim Victoria by 100 Runs

Blues won the toss and elected to bat first, running up a total of 235 runs for the loss of four wickets.

Indian batsman K. Jayanti-Lal stroked the ball superbly as he punished Victoria, bowling for a century, scoring 136 runs while T. E. Srinivasan added 29 and Mandhar Sharma counted 23.

Victoria's batsmen were all out for 135 with Frank Jarman leading the way with 42 and John Scholfield adding 29.

Shiv Lal led Hyderabad bowlers by toppling three wickets for the cost of only 18 runs. Test cricketer B. C. Chandrasekar took three for 25 and Srinivasan four for 39.

Blues, who were scheduled to play a President's XI at the same pitch today, opened their four beating British Columbia by 99 runs Saturday in Vancouver.

Chandrasekar came up with a superb performance, collecting six for 33, while Meher Baba downed two for 19 to allow B.C. only 103 runs after the Blues had chalked up 202 for seven.

Kortwright Richards of Victoria, with two for 34, and Ben Seebaran of Vancouver, with three for 41, aided the B.C. cause.

In Victoria and District Association play Saturday, Albion and Castaways moved into a first-place deadlock.

Albion scored an easy 10-wicket win at Nanaimo while Castaways defeated Oak Bay by 48 runs at Windsor Park. Cowichan and Incogs played to a draw at Beacon Hill in the only other match.

Alan Carter (five for 13) and Don Hughes (four for nine) handled the bowling well as Albion retired Nanaimo for only 29 runs. Opening-batsmen Frank Jarman and Tony Quarless scored 16 and 14 runs, respectively, for Albion.

Val White Tops

Three of the four members of British Columbia's 1974 women's interprovincial golf team were missing but Marine Drive's Val White staked an early claim for her return.

The Vancouver golfer jumped into the lead at the weekend after the first two of eight qualifying rounds that determine the B.C. team's makeup.

White scored an 80 Saturday at Colwood and came in with an 82 Sunday at Victoria Golf Club for a 162 total. Dorothy DeGirolamo of Gorge Vale and Flo McFall of Quilchena shared second with 165 totals.

Two rounds in Vancouver June 7-8, two at Rossland-Trail July 7-8 and the qualifying rounds of the provincial tournament will conclude the trial series. Only the best six of the eight rounds will count.

Missing the weekend trials were Gail Moore, Marilyn Palmer and Dale Shaw, the other members of last year's team. Both Miss Palmer and Miss Shaw are playing in Europe while Mrs. Moore's competitive plans are indefinite.

B.C. officials say both Miss Palmer and Miss Shaw, top-rated in the province, will be judged from competition records outside the province, if need be.

RALEIGHT, N.C. (AP) — JoAnne Carner had to work overtime Sunday, but the "player-of-the-year" in the 1974 Ladies Professional Golf Association made it pay as she won a $40,000 LPGA tournament, beating Judy Rankin by one stroke in a sudden-death playoff.

American Drivers Take Four Sports Car Races

Thomas, who placed first overall and first in "C" sedan class during the improved production sedan race, also picked up a third overall and first in "E" sports racing class during the sports racing event.

Approximately 700 fans turned out Sunday to watch seven major races in the International Conference of Sports Car Clubs-sanctioned meet on the nine-tenths of a mile road course at Western.

Jany Patterson of Victoria suffered a concussion but is expected to be released from hospital "in a couple of days" after crashing her Formula-V into the backstretch wall after six laps of the open-wheel novice race Saturday. The car, although extensively damaged, is repairable.

Washington State drivers captured four events and pilots from the B.C. Lower Mainland wheeled to two victories in the seven major contests.

Coffey's Pitching Shackles Cables

Port Angeles Telecable turned on the batting power in the opening game of a Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League doubleheader Sunday at Central Park to grab a 9-5 decision, but the Cables couldn't handle the pitching in the second encounter and were clipped 3-1 by Tony's Holdings.

Another doubleheader sheduled for Nanaimo was postponed because of park commitments.

Telecable batters smashed out a total of 12 hits in the opening contest, including two home runs by Jim Anderson and one by Rick Cochrane. Anderson scored three times and drove in two runs while Cochrane scored once and drove in three.

Pat Coffey appeared in command all the way as he pitched Tony's to the second-game victory. Yielding only four hits, Coffey struck out nine batters and did not give up any bases on balls.

Greg Smith hammered out a home run in a losing cause for Capital but home runs by Ken Wilke, Bob Richdale, Craig Dalziel and Murray Southern — all in the top of the third inning — helped the Metro victory.

GETTING A GOAT—FOR RENT

RED WING, Minn. (UPI) — Tired of mowing your lawn? Then why not rent a goat?

Nancy and Gerald Hackett rent out goats at $7 a week or $25 a month.

They will even rent out a miniature donkey named "Pavlo Jerusalem."

"If you have a problem with willows overtaking your pasture or yard, goats are great," Mrs. Hackett said. "They love Russian thistles and they'll eat a lot of rough weeds."

Goats, except for billy goats, are odorless, she said, and they're inexpensive to keep — especially if you have a lawn.

But the Hacketts warn prospective renters not to keep the critters tethered in one place or even one small yard. A goat needs the equivalent of about three pounds of hay a day and an ample supply of water.

They got the idea of the goat rental business from a friend in Hastings, who had good success last summer with a rent-a-garden operation.

Mrs. Hackett said people can easily come and pick up a goat in a car. "A car works just fine," she said. "A goat has no problem adjusting to a car."

The Hacketts have goats of all ages to rent and "all degrees of tameness." That means, Mrs. Hackett said, that they range from very tame to wild. Families definitely get a tamed coat, she said.

They have 25 goats. Graded ones are for rent. Registered goats, because of their value, are for sale only. Their registered breeds include Nubian, French Alpine, Toggenberg, and Saanan.

Some favorites they will neither rent nor sell. Among them are "Salty Dog," a French Alpine billy goat and herd sire, and "Semper Fidelis Evangeline," a 3-month-old registered Nubian so tame she follows Mrs. Hackett around the yard.

Oak Bay Man Wins Gyro's Hawaii Trip

In all those thousands of shots at the Gyro Hole-in-One contest last week, nobody came up with an ace.

But F. E. Corneille, 944 Island, scored a free trip for two to Hawaii in the draw held along with the contest.

T. W. Rogers, 3164 Ayton, won the gold bar, and Miss Pat Scott of White Rock won a side of beef.

Closest shot in the contest was five inches. Three "closest to the hole" prizes were awarded each day.

Sex and the Socialists —Don't You Believe It

All Socialist countries or, at least, all that I've been in, are remarkably mid-Victorian in their outlook on morality, but I'm just not buying Shirley MacLaine's conclusion that sex plays no role whatever in the People's Republic of China.

In her new book, "You Can Get There from Here," Shirley writes approvingly of a society that, so she claims, has little interest in sex because there are so many other things that need to be done. She quotes a guide: "Our young people are not attracted by looks or sex appeal, but by political ideology."

"I could see for myself that in China you were able to forget about sex," Shirley concludes. "There was no commercial exploitation of sex in order to sell soap, perfume, soft drinks, soda pop or cars. The unisex uniforms also de-emphasized sexuality, and in an interesting way made you concentrate more on the individual character of a Chinese, regardless of his or her physical assets, or lack of them. Someone, somewhere, was having sex, as was proved by the statistics that 18,000,000 human beings were being born in China every year. But sex certainly didn't have highest priority."

What disturbs me about this statement is not merely that Shirley should sound so triumphant about it, but that, since I happen to think it is ridiculous, it tends to throw doubt on even those of her conclusions that I want very much to believe.

The reader, of course, must remember that Shirley came from a profession, a philosophy and a society in which sex has become a fixation.

In her profession as actress Shirley was, in fact, something of a symbol, less known for her considerable comedic abilities than for the handsomest pair of legs on the silver screen. In her philosophy as a spokes-person for the Women's Liberation movement she was very conscious that the female charms were wickedly exploited, which doubtless explains her approval of the down-playing of the sexual role in China.

Most traumatic of all, Shirley went to China directly from a culture in which sex is all but a morbid way of life. It permeates every form of communication. It is used in 10,000 ways for the selling of merchandise. Sex is, indeed, a profit-making industry, the central ingredient for sales in novels, motion-pictures, magazines, every conceivable kind of promotion. In all but the Socialist countries it is a national neurosis.

Is it any surprise, then, that Shirley — or any other North American man or woman — should be ready to believe the impossible in a society where that aspect of life has been put in its proper perspective?

"The impossible" in this case is the premise that any group of human beings may be primarily motivated by other considerations such as a political belief or a nationalistic fervor or a revolutionary spirit. Shirley, herself writes that "on a scale of ten, it (sex) probably rated about number seven." And that, I think, is sheer nonsense. In China, no less than in Victoria or in Moscow or New York or any place you care to name, sex, on any scale of ten, is number one. Always has been and always will be.

If somehow, you were to take away the motivation of love between men and women, whether it is to be expressed in a physical or a cerebral way — or, more often, both — there would be no revolutions, no ideologies, no heroes, no villains. It is what makes the world go around, the one indispensible thrust of the human spirit. Without it, existence would be meaningless and empty.

I simply do not believe that the Chinese, any more than we, could ever marry on the basis of political ideology or that the fashioning of the unisex uniform could detract, in the slightest, from the ancient mystery of a boy finding a girl or vice versa.

If this were to be true, if Shirley's over-simplification has the slightest basis in fact, if, in fact, we were seriously to consider two ways of life — one in which sex is all-pervasive and idiotically exploited, the other in which sex is deliberately down-graded and important only in the birth-rate statistics — then it would be infinitely preferable to live in the kind of world that Shirley professes to abhor.

All of the self-discipline and good intentions in the world, however admirable, would surely seem a pointless exercise without that greatest of all life's experiences, the inter-personal, enriching and ennobling relationship that exists between a man and woman.

That may or may not be the direction of the Chinese experiment, a deliberate even laudable attempt to channel the nation's energy away from the debilitating absorption with sex that exists in our world. But Shirley ought to know that it is constant, indestructible, universal drive, above every ideology, and life without it would be unthinkable.

ANOTHER DRIFTSURE

Scores Still Out There Inching Their Way Home

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

This year's Swiftsure ground to an agonizingly slow finish today as scores of boats inched their way home, spinnakers limp for lack of wind.

There was no fanfare as Bruce Hendrick's 50-foot cutter Warrior inched over the finish line in darkness at 1:28 a.m., becoming the first boat home.

John Buchan's Heather of Seattle was third and could win the Swiftsure on corrected time.

The three lead boats were through Race Rocks by 8:30 p.m. Sunday but an adverse tide and lack of wind slowed them almost to a standstill for hours.

It was the same story for those still trying to edge their way in today.

George O'Brien's converted 12-metre Endless Summer, the former Dame Pattie, which swept the field in 1972, will have to settle for one trophy this year, the one for first boat rounding the Swiftsure mark. She rounded at 9:39 Saturday evening, Warrior close behind. Warrior rounding 13 minutes later.

Strong winds and a record fleet of 321 Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca boats caused havoc at the start of the race Saturday morning.

Gear was broken as boats collided. As the wind piped even higher boats were dismasted. Others had seasick crews.

The race committee was unable to give details of any winners today, even for the smaller Juan de Fuca race because of the multitude of protests which will have to be sorted out.

One locally-built boat, launched two weeks ago at Philbrook's Shipyard in Sidney gave a creditable performance in her first race. The PH 41 Lucifer, designed by Stan Huntingford of West Vancouver finished Swiftsure at 4:02 a.m. today. She's owned by Al Nelson of Nanaimo. Shortly after her at 4:25 a.m. Tom Loney of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club sailed his sloop Goodbye over the finish line.

An extra strong ebb tide on Sunday killed Endless Summer's chances. Skippered by Al Sturgess, she made her way to the American side of tht Strait of Juan de Fuca only to find no wind to keep her moving.

The lead boats worked the Canadian side and managed to find enough breeze to slowly make their way along the coast in the back eddies.

The strong current spelled disaster for one Juan de Fuca boat when she was trying to work her way through Race Rocks around 3 a.m. on Sunday.

R. Zell's 27-foot Elan grounded when her spinnaker collapsed and the current swept her onto the rocks. The Seattle boat was holed and her crew forced to scramble ashore.

They were picked up by the Canadian coast guard cutter Rider, which arrived 30 minutes latter.

Sunday evening, after being temporarily patched, the Elan was rescued by the tug Seaspan Escort.

Sunday's drifter brought the veteran Swiftsure campaigner Diamond Head to her knees. By early Sunday evening, her owner Henry Kotkins of Seattle had fired her engines and the 73-foot yawl, largest boat in the race, was out of contention.

Bill King's Destiny of Portland was the first boat home in the Juan de Fuca race, getting her finish gun at 1:49 Sunday morning. She may be disqualified, however, because she failed to report to the inspection officials as required.

J. D. Gonyea's Blue Fox of Tacoma followed 26 minutes later. Next came R. Fiedler's Gem of Seattle, followed 26 seconds later by B. L. Griffin's Different Drummer of Bellingham.

Two Cal 29s of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club were among those who managed to finish the Juan de Fuca classic Sunday morning before the ebb tide hit. They were Steve Merriman's Vandal II and Jack Woodward's Puff II.

Another RVYC boat that finished high up in her division in Swiftsure was R. D. McBride's Obsession. The Ranger 33 sloop, competing in division IV, finished at 7:42 a.m. this morning.

Race committee officials were reluctant to estimate how long it will be before the Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca winners will be known.

Man Won't Be Jailed In Parking Lot Death

After 19-year-old Mark Kendall pleaded guilty in B.C. Supreme Court this morning to a charge of assault causing bodily harm, arising out of a drinking incident which caused the death of another young man, Mr. Justice Harry McKay postponed sentence for four hours.

But McKay reassured Kendall, of 5178 Old West Saanich Road, that he would not be imprisoned.

Defending counsel Ken Murphy suggested the penalty be a fine or probation, for what was "just one of those very unfortunate incidents," in which a scuffle ensued outside a beer parlor and there was no indication of premeditated assault.

But Dermod Owen-Flood, prosecuting, said if such punishment was contemplated it should be of a severe nature, to get across the message that drunken brawls can have tragic consequences.

Owen-Flood said the deceased, Gordon Robert Smith, aged 20, and Kendall had been drinking separately at the Royal Oak Inn on the night of Oct. 12 last year, and had no contact with each other while inside the premises.

Kendall, who had been "drinking steadily" from about 9 p.m., left with friends at 1 a.m. by which time he was "quite drunk."

In the parking lot he saw Smith and a companion apparently obstructing a car occupied by three girls, and told Smith to leave them alone. Kendall shoved or pushed Smith, who fell backwards and struck his head on the hard surface of the parking lot.

Owen-Flood said although Kendall was trained in judo or karate, the autopsy on Smith gave no indication of injuries produced by martial arts techniques. It did disclose, however, that Smith died from a fractured skull and that he had "an unusually thin" skull.

Grievance Rules Ignored By Guards, Says BCGEU

Vancouver Island prison guards ignored grievance procedure provided for in their contract, which led to a form of trusteeship being placed on the 150-member local of B.C. Government Employees Union, business representative John Hurren said today.

Hurren said there was no term for the action of the union, but the effect was to remove financing on behalf of the Vancouver Island component, which is basically the same as trusteeship.

The BCGEU provincial executive takes the view there are no Vancouver Island local officers at present through resignations and its action in suspending financing. An election in the local was to have been completed this week.

Hurren said the union will meet tonight in Vancouver to review the situation and possibly recommend a course of action. This could include appointment of an interim executive for the Vancouver Island guards' component.

He said he intends to meet island spokesmen during the week.

Action of the union took effect Thursday night, after guards employed at Wilkinson Road Prison, Jordan River, Snowden Forestry Camp, Metchosin Farm Camp and Victoria Juvenile Detention Centre complained to a radio station about classification of auxiliary guards which they want recognized as regular employees.

Jos Saat will go to Akron, Ohio, for the All-American

Ashcroft Boy Derby Winner

Jos Saat, 13, of Ashcroft, won the British Columbia Soap Box Derby "A" event Sunday and will represent the province at the All-American Soap Box Derby final Aug. 16 at Akron, Ohio.

Edward Jackson, 12, of Victoria, won the "B" event, and Ron Eversjn, 12, also of Victoria, won the "C" event.

Clifford Horsfall, chairman of the Victoria Jaycees which sponsors the event, said the only mishap occurred when one car went out of control and hit a spectator.

Police said Barbara Etherington, 54, was taken to hospital where she received 17 stitches to close a gash on her right leg.

Horsfall said the 25 cars entered in the race were driven by boys between the ages of 11 and 15, and some of the cars reached speeds of 50 miles an hour. The event was held on the Cloverdale Avenue hill and drew about 400 spectators.

After-Grad Charges

Colwood RCMP said today charges are pending following a Friday night fracas in which bottles were smashed and damage done to the Juan de Fuca arena during a high school after-graduation dance.

Police said they were called to the arena at about 12:30 a.m. and found the premises strewn with broken liquor bottles.

"We weren't called until the thing was all over," a police spokesman said. "We were aware of the event but we don't come inside unless we're called."

The spokesman said organizers of the event — not an official school function — hired a dog-equipped member of Western Home Guard to patrol the dance which followed the graduation ceremonies of Spectrum community school.

"The floor was covered with glass and broken bottles — quite a bit of liquor, some damage to washrooms but I don't know to what extent," the spokesman said. "A few charges are pending."

Spectrum principal Wally Russell said Friday's party was an after-grad party arranged privately by the students, which the school had no part in.

When asked if the Times could speak to student council president Peter Kappel, Russell said: "I suggest you find him on your own if you're going to get into that kind of journalism." He then hung up.

Kappel could not be reached this morning.

Tank Car Probe Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government in June will try to examine by submarine three objects located in Malaspina Strait that may be missing tank cars loaded with chlorine gas, a ministry of transport official said Sunday.

H. O. Buchanan, MoT regional western marine division director, said if the objects found on the sea bottom two months ago do not prove to be the missing tank cars, a full-scale search will resume in the fall when equipment against becomes available.

Buchanan said MoT officials checked one of four objects that were located through sonar detection devices near the site of a marine mishap last February in which a barge overturned and four railway tank cars were lost. He said the object proved to be a sunken log.

Gas Storage Plan Vetoed

WASHINGTON (CP) — A plan to export natural gas in summer from the United States to Canada for storage — importing it back during peak winter heating periods — has been rejected by an administrative law judge with the Federal Power Commission (FPC).

Judge Marvin Morse, in a decision made public Friday ruled, that "Canadian transportation and storage charges are speculative" and said there is no basis on which to "hypothesize alternative costing calculations."

The judge's decision is subjeect to review by the FPC as a whole.

The proceeding began with applications by Lowell Gas Co. of Lowell, Mass. and Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co .of Houston, Tex.

Lowell wanted authority to export up to 1.5 billion cubic feet of natural gas to Canada for storage during the summer months "over a 14-year period" and to import the same quantities for use on its system during the November-March heating season.

Tennessee originally proposed to build about $5.2 million in facilities to transport gas for Lowell between Niagara Falls, Ont., and Tewksbury, Mass., on a firm basis, at a charge of 85.9 cents a thousand cubic feet.

During the hearings howev,-er, Tennessee withdrew its proposal and the transportation contract with Lowell was revised to one of "best efforts" rather than a "firm" agreement.

The gas would have been received at the border during summer months by Trans-Canada Pipeline Ltd. and hauled to storage facilities owned by Union Gas Ltd. in Ontario.

During the winter Trans-Canada would transport the gas back to Niagara Falls for delivery to Tennessee.

Morse said the fact that storage and certain of the transportation would occur in Canada — "outside the territorial jurisdiction of the U.S and the FPC" — does not so jeopardize the project that "standing alone it should not be approved."

The project appeared to be "basically reliable and credible but for price," he said.

As for transportation and storage services to be provided within Canada, the judge said the decision that costs for the Canadian service are too high "in the face of the limited risk and exposure on the part of TransCanada and union" had nothing to do with the fact that "they are not entities subject to the jurisdiction of the FPC."

What was important, he said, "was the conclusion that cost-based rates, to be established in the public interest, must reflect proof of reasonably anticipated cost estimates."

Crown Hydro Corp. Formed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A new Crown corporation, fourth largest of its kind in Canada, has been established by the Newfoundland government to develop the province's hydro-electric resources.

The first task for Newfoundland and Labrador Hydro is development of the Lower Churchill River in Labrador, a project that could cost $2 billion before completion in 1981.

There are no plans for the corporation to sell power directly to consumers, except possibly in Labrador.

Energy Minister Leo Barry says the government sees no advantage in taking over Newfoundland Light and Power Co. Ltd., a private firm that handles more than 90 per cent of all retail sales of electricity in the province.

Hydro, created by legislation earlier this year, went into operation in May with the appointment of top executives.

Denis Groom was named president and chief executive while Douglas Fullerton was made chairman of the board.

Groom, who left Newfoundland in 1969 after serving three years under the previous Liberal government as comptroller and deputy finance minister, was a director of Vickers Ltd. of London and chairman and chief executive of Roneo Vickers Ltd. until 1974.

Fullerton, former president of the National Capital Commission of Ottawa, will serve in a non-executive capacity, Mr. Barry says.

Wallace Read, former president of the Newfoundland and Labrador Power Corp. which was replaced by Hydro, was made senior vice-president.

The corporation inherited 1,100 employees, making it one of the province's largest employers. On a national scale it is fourth in size after Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia hydro authorities.

The work force will increase to more than 4,500, including permanent employees, at the height of Lower Churchill construction in 1977-78.

The government paid Brinco $160 million last year for 57 per cent ownership of the Churchill Falls company and all Labrador water rights.

The province previously owned nine per cent of the Brinco subsidiary which developed the $950 million, 5,225-megawatt underground power station at Churchill Falls, 140 miles upstream from the Lower Churchill site.

The Quebec Hydro Electric Commission retains 37 per cent ownership of the Churchill Falls company. Virtually all electricity produced at Churchill Falls was sold to Quebec Hydro under long-term contracts.

Weins Welcomes Brethren's Tips

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

If he could enlarge his immediate family today, Terry Weins nominates professionals John Morgan of Victoria and Ontario's Moe Norman as "my favorite brothers."

The 29-year-old Vancouver professional pocketed top money of $700 by defeating Cowichan's Bill Wakeham on the fourth hole of a sudden-death playoff. Both finished the regulation 36 holes with 144 totals.

Weins ended the playoff in dramatic fashion after the two pros bogeyed two of the first three playoff holes. On the fourth, a 216-yard par three, Weins' tee shot caught a sand trap. He exploded brilliantly from the sand to within three feet of the cup and sank the putt for a par that gave him his victory.

Wakeham also missed the green, chipped poorly and two-putted for a bogey.

It was Weins' second triumph in as many weeks. He won the Malspina Open at Powell River the previous weekend.

Weins was quick to credit Morgan and Norman for his success. Both, he said, helped him with his game "immeasurably" while they toured the Florida circuit during the past winter.

Their help, he feels, helped him to win his first tournaments as a pro.

Morgan, ironically, finished third in the weekend tournament. The first-day leader with a two-under-par 70 Saturday, Morgan ran into putting woes Sunday and counted 77 blows.

PORTLAND PRESIDENT

PORTLAND (AP) — Bob Brodhead, formerly with National Football League teams in Cleveland and Houston, has been named president of the Portland franchise in the World Football League.

Littler Happy He Showed Up

Casper's victory in New Orleans clinched a spot on the Ryder Cup team which will play Britain's best in Ligonier, Pa., this fall. He's made it every time since 1961.

Littler's victory in Memphis clinched a spot on the Ryder Cup team. He's made it every time since 1961—except for the time he was sidelined by cancer surgery.

His six-under-par closing round, including birdies on his first four holes, was the best of the warm, windy day. His total of 270 was 18 under par, a record for the 7,193-yard Colonial Country Club course.

John Mahaffey, who had to roll up a pants leg, take off a shoe and go wading after one wet, watery shot, finished off with a scrambly 71 and a 275 total for second place. It was the second time this year, and the fifth in 17 months, that he's finished second.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf tied for third at 277. Each had a 68. Nicklaus' included a birdie on the final hole while Weiskopf got off to a birdie-eagle-birdie start, went six under through six holes and then finished poorly.

Gary Player, the 1974 Memphis champion, and Lee Trevino didn't get in it. Trevino had a closing 70 for 284 and Player was well back at 286 after a last-round 74.

Ben Kern of Toronto closed with a 75 for 290 and $416.

Nicklaus won $10,325 and moved well in front of the absent Johnny Miller in the race for the season's money-winning title. Nicklaus now has $165,800, Miller $155,233. Littler's share of the $175,000 total purse was $35,000 and pushed his winnings for the year to $110,555.

American Drivers Take Four Sports Car Races

Coffey's Pitching Shackles Cables

Port Angeles Telecable turned on the batting power in the opening game of a Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League doubleheader Sunday at Central Park to grab a 9-5 decision, but the Cables couldn't handle the pitching in the second encounter and were clipped 3-1 by Tony's Holdings.

Another doubleheader sheduled for Nanaimo was postponed because of park commitments.

Telecable batters smashed out a total of 12 hits in the opening contest, including two home runs by Jim Anderson and one by Rick Cochrane. Anderson scored three times and drove in two runs while Cochrane scored once and drove in three.

Pat Coffey appeared in command all the way as he pitched Tony's to the second-game victory. Yielding only four hits, Coffey struck out nine batters and did not give up any bases on balls.

RUTLEDGE STILL TOP JUNIOR

The youngest ever to win the City Junior crown with his triumph a year ago, Rutledge defended the championship Sunday by finishing two strokes ahead of his constant playing companion, Russ Reynolds.

Rutledge took the lead Saturday with a two-over-par 74 at Gorge Vale and wrapped up the title by finishing with a 77 Sunday at Uplands for a 151 total.

Friend and Lansdowne schoolmate Reynolds, winner of the Mid-Island title the previous weekend, finished with a 153 total on rounds of 79 and 74. He shared Sunday's low gross honors with Uplands clubmate Wayne Little.

Francois Vaillancourt of Cedar Hill, a 14 handicapper, was an easy winner of the low net title. Tied for sixth in the gross list with a 159, he came in with a net 131 to finish four shots ahead of Colwood's Ted Boomer.

Marty Emig of Victoria and Brian DeGirolamo of Gorge Vale shared third with 136 totals.

The one-two finish by Rutledge and Reynolds was tempered by the disqualification of another member of their regular playing group. Rob Lee of Uplands was disqualified when he inadvertantly signed his name to an incorrect scorecard.

Lee, who had an 81 Saturday and was allowed to play Sunday and posted a 78, called the penalty on himself, bringing it to the attention of tournament officials.

Cricket Tourists Trim Victoria by 100 Runs

Blues won the toss and elected to bat first, running up a total of 235 runs for the loss of four wickets.

Indian batsman K. Jayanti-Lal stroked the ball superbly as he punished Victoria, bowling for a century, scoring 136 runs while T. E. Srinivasan added 29 and Mandhar Sharma counted 23.

Victoria's batsmen were all out for 135 with Frank Jarman leading the way with 42 and John Scholfield adding 29.

Shiv Lal led Hyderabad bowlers by toppling three wickets for the cost of only 18 runs. Test cricketer B. C. Chandrasekar took three for 25 and Srinivasan four for 39.

Blues, who were scheduled to play a President's XI at the same pitch today, opened their tour beating British Columbia by 99 runs Saturday in Vancouver.

Chandrasekar came up with a superb performance, collecting six for 33, while Meher Baba downed two for 19 to allow B.C. only 103 runs after the Blues had chalked up 202 for seven.

Kortwright Richards of Victoria, with two for 34, and Ben Seebaran of Vancouver, with three for 41, aided the B.C. cause.

In Victoria and District Association play Saturday, Albion and Castaways moved into a first-place deadlock.

Albion scored an easy 10-wicket win at Nanaimo while Castaways defeated Oak Bay by 48 runs at Windsor Park. Cowichan and Incogs played to a draw at Beacon Hill in the only other match.

Alan Carter (five for 13) and Don Hughes (four for nine) handled the bowling well as Albion retired Nanaimo for only 29 runs. Opening-batsmen Frank Jarman and Tony Quarless scored 16 and 14 runs, respectively, for Albion.

Castaways took first crack and were all out for 123 with Cec Meyers contributing 51. Sandy Colquhoun (three for 26) and Ken Aziz (three for 27) led Oak Bay bowling.

Bob Beecher then turned over eight for 34 and Anton Larson downed the other two for 17 as Oak Bay was all out for 75. Peter Wheaton led Bay batsmen with 32 runs.

Cowichan declared at 153 for six and Incogs were 124 for four when time ran out. Howard Martin had 31 runs for Cowichan while Dave Bolton (35) and Max Kent (30) led Incogs.

Val White Tops Golf Team Trials

Three of the four members of British Columbia's 1974 women's interprovincial golf team were missing but Marine Drive's Val White staked an early claim for her return.

The Vancouver golfer jumped into the lead at the weekend after the first two of eight qualifying rounds that determine the B.C. team's makeup.

White scored an 80 Saturday at Colwood and came in with an 82 Sunday at Victoria Golf Club for a 162 total. Dorothy DeGirolamo of Gorge Vale and Flo McFall of Quilchena shared second with 165 totals.

Two rounds in Vancouver June 7-8, two at Rossland-Trail July 7-8 and the qualifying rounds of the provincial tournament will conclude the trial series. Only the best six of the eight rounds will count.

Missing the weekend trials were Gail Moore, Marilyn Palmer and Dale Shaw, the other members of last year's team. Both Miss Palmer and Miss Shaw are playing in Europe while Mrs. Moore's competitive plans are indefinite.

B.C. officials say both Miss Palmer and Miss Shaw, top-rated in the province, will be judged from competition records outside the province, if need be.
